Robinson Raps Subpena in Muscle Shoals Inquiry as Unfair.

DEMAND TOO BROAD, SENATOR MAINTAINS

HOOSIER THREATENS RESORT TO SENATE

Says Move Would Go Into All of Republican Group's Political Affairs.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

The Senate lobby committee, in the doldrums for several weeks, pricked up its ears yesterday and prepared to roll up its sleeves when Senator Robinson (Republican), of Indiana, suggested that an investigation of Claudius H. Huston's brokerage accounts might involve the Republican party of which Huston is chairman.

The senator's explosion which, whether anything comes of it or not, will go down as the season's greatest political slip, came in the midst of a wrangle between Mr. Huston and Senator Walsh of Montana, over the propriety of the committee going into Huston's Wall Street affairs. The committee had sent its investigator, John Holland, to New York in an effort to trace the $36,000 which Huston had testified the Union Carbide Co. had given him for the Muscle Shoals lobby.

As Done in New York.

Instead of depositing this money in a bank Huston has testified that it was placed with the brokerage firm of Blythe & Bonner through Huston's New York representative, W. E. Moore. Not only was this fund so placed but so were funds of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers with which Huston used to be connected in a financial advisory capacity.

It is the way things are done in New York, depositing money with a broker permits of greater flexibility, he protested.

"You fellows do not realize the way we do things in New York," he explained.

But Holland, the investigator, telephoned that Moore would not permit him to see the books. Huston admitted that Moore had acted upon his instructions.

Bombshell by Robinson.

"Then we will have to issue a subpena," Senator Walsh observed.

It was after he had prepared it that Senator Robinson dropped his bombshell.

"Let me suggest," he said, "that it seems to me that is as broad as the world. It might just as well issue a subpena to Chairman Raskob of the Democratic national committee to bring all his records in here for the year 1929 and show how the Democratic national campaign bureau and publicity bureau was financed. I do not think the Senate will sustain a subpena as broad as that is."

Subpena Held Unfair.

The subpena called for all of Moore's accounts over the last year.

"I will put the question to the committee," Walsh responded. "Shall the committee issue the subpena?"

"I doubt that the committee can pass on it," Senator Robinson came back determinedly. "I think the judiciary committee should pass on this question. This is too broad for a committee of this kind, to go into the affairs of the Republican party. I do not think it is fair, and I do

Fears Entertained For Lord Balfour

British Statesman Gravely Ill at Surrey Home of Brother.

Woking, Surrey, England, March 18 (A.P.).—Great Britain is watching with deep sympathy and anxiety the reports on the health of Lord Balfour, veteran British statesman and celebrated philosopher. He has been lying gravely ill here for a week in the house of his brother, Gerald Balfour.

Latest reports tonight indicated no change had taken place since a bulletin by his physicians announced this morning that his condition was "causing anxiety." Lord Balfour is in his eighty-second year and the chill he suffered a week ago has worried his doctors from the first.

Though no political figure of his time was more definitely a party man, there are few public men in England more universally beloved than the one time Conservative prime minister. Laborites and Liberals, as well as Conservatives, are uniting in fervent hopes for his recovery.

CONAN DOYLE QUITS PSYCHICAL SOCIETY

CALLS GROUP INACTIVE

London, March 18 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, creator of Sherlock Holmes and long one of the most prominent figures in the English spiritualistic movement, who abandoned detection of fictional criminals for detection of spirits, has broken with the British Society for Psychical Research after 36 years' membership in that organization.

In his letter of resignation to the society's president, Sir Lawrence Jones, made public today in the Psychic Gazettte, Sir Arthur took exception to a review of a book appearing in the society's journal which criticized the sittings of an Italian medium.

In this letter he described the work of the society as "an evil influence and antispiritualistic," declaring that the organization had done "no constructive work of any importance" for a generation. According to one London evening newspaper, he urged other members of the society to follow the example of his resignation.

An official of the society, in a privately issued reply to Sir Arthur's letter, said: "There is nothing except an honest difference of opinion. While Sir Arthur is a spiritualist and regards spiritualism as a 'cult,' the society was founded to carry on critical investigation."

Two Die as Plane Crashes Into Lake

Canadian Craft Breaks Ice Layer, So Terrific Is Impact.

Kingston, Ontario, March 18 (A.P.).—A mail plane flying high over Long Lake, en route from Toronto to Montreal, crashed today, killing its pilot and radio operator. The impact was so great that the ship broke through a 19-inch layer of ice and buried its nose in the water.

W. F. Good heard the ship fall and found it 250 feet from shore. Henry Simoneau, of Montreal, the pilot, and P. Robinson, radio operator, also believed to have resided in Montreal, were dead, trapped in the cabin.

The cause of the wreck was not determined. Two mail bags were found with their contents intact.

POLICE GATHER ACCIDENT DATA IN ENVOY CASE

Two Eyewitnesses Aver Commander Polich Ignored Light.

LIFE OF HAMMOND HANGS IN BALANCE

Diplomatic Immunity to Halt Any Attempts at Recovery.

MAN BORROWED CAR TO MEET HIS BRIDE

Attache, in Statement, Says He Is Not Responsible for Smash-Up.

While the life of Paul Edward Hammond, 22-year-old Southern Railway clerk, hung in a balance at Emergency Hospital last night, Capt. William G. Stott, of the Third Precinct, was gathering data for a special report to Maj. Henry G. Pratt from eyewitnesses who claim to have seen Commander Juan Polich, Chilean naval attache, pass a red light while going at an excessive rate of speed and crash into the youth's car at Connecticut avenue and N street.

Hammond, who has a skull fracture, severe lacerations of the scalp and one ear, a ruptured kidney and internal injuries, was in a partial coma last night. At other times he was delirious, according to attendants at the hospital.

The testimony of Lonnie Beal, of 2019 N street northwest, was added to that of W. S. Shaw, of 1511 Twenty-second street northwest, last night for inclusion in the police report, which may find its way into the hands of the State Department.

Statement of Beal.

"Dewey Spivey (another witness of the same address) and I were sitting in a parked car on Connecticut avenue," Mr. Beal said last night, "when we say a new sedan come up the avenue at an excessive rate of speed. It crossed Eighteenth street while the light was red.

"Dewey said to me, 'My God, look at that car go,' and just then we heard the crash. I did not see the roadster until after the wreck. We ran up to the scene of the accident and saw the boy who was hurt lying in the street. The man who was driving the car that hit him was examining the damage done to his fender and wheel.

"I looked at the roadster, which had been turned around by the other car, and found that it was in second gear. Just then somebody came along and took the injured fellow to the hospital."

Shaw Gives Testimony.

A similar account of the accident was given by Shaw, who was driving up Connecticut avenue when Commander Polich passed him. Mr. Shaw said he saw the roadster cross the street car tracks going east on N street and that it was proceeding at the rate of about 10 miles an hour.

The obstacle of diplomatic immunity yesterday stood in the way not only of any move that Hammond's wife, who is a bride of only a month, might make but also balked action on the part of John R. Hightman, of 7103 Georgia avenue, owner of the car driven by the youth, for damages, which amounted to $200.

Quigley and Hammers, attorneys, who were consulted by Mr. Hightman, whose son, Alfred, had lent the car to Hammond, advised him that nothing could be done and that "the only thing that can be done to stop this sort of thing is agitation in the newspapers."

According to young Hightman, Mr. Hammond had borrowed the car from

Date Puts Amorous Burglar in Station

Man Accused in 54 Cases Phones Victim for Meeting.

GEORGE E. HICKS.

He laughed at 54 locks—and then stepped into one of the simplest tricks in the police rule book.

That, police say, is the history of one George Emmett Hicks, 37 years old, of C street near Third street northeast, whose record on the blotters of three precincts last night showed a total of 54 charges of housebreakings. It is possible that more will be filed when a valise full of assorted loot is eventually catalogued.

Hicks made the mistake, always fatal, of mixing business with pleasure. After he looted, police charge, the apartment of Nina Owens, 1626 Kenyon street northwest, he phoned her asking for a date. He phoned seven times in all, and when he was greeted with an affirmative response on the last call, he walked to his downfall.

Buck Jones and Aubrey Tolson, detectives of the Tenth Precinct, formed a reception committee in Miss Owens' apartment, and they greeted their guest with a fervor he had not expected.

The detectives grilled Hicks for hours. They wrote pads full of data he is alleged to have given them. Headquarters detectives and detectives of the Eighth Precinct likewise questioned him. And then people started filing through the property room identifying their goods. Despite the fact that 54 pieces of jewelry, an unprecedented amount, has already been identified, that much more awaits its owners.

Hicks is said to have walked through apartment houses gathering names off mail boxes and doors. With that as a suggestion, he telephoned the apartments, and when no response was evoked, he went to the place and pried open the dor. At least, that is what police say he did, and Hicks is said to have admitted working that way.

In several cases he left notes, some of them containing endearing messages, in apartments he robbed. Several complaints were lodged about this, police say.

When Hicks telephoned Miss Owen she notified police and they waited there for him. He rapped on the door and was asked to step in. The two detectives grabbed him and soon had him in a cell.

Among those who are listed as complainants are: Ruby Glenges, 717 Seventeenth street northwest; Teresa

WILL END CONTROVERSY

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

The Army and the Navy will adjust their disagreement over rules governing the eligibility of the Army's football players in a short time, and the game will be resumed next fall after the close of the regular football schedules of the two schools. They will play somewhere close home in the reconciliation show, possibly in Baltimore, this being the Navy's turn to select the site under the old sequence which was interrupted after the 1927 game, but perhaps in New York.

At any rate they will play, and in the rapprochement any die-hard officers of either side who try to insist upon a strictly legal settlement of the controversial items will be gently but firmly admonished to regard the Army and Navy as one service and the officers of the opposite cloth as brothers in arms and sporting opponents, not as enemies.

The chiefs of the two departments have been reluctant to force a reconciliation out of respect for the doughty habit of mind which both schools try to develop in the undergraduate days of the Army or Navy officers to the end that they shall

POPE WILL PROTEST SOVIET DRIVE TODAY

Pontiff Will Say Expiation Mass; Little Faith Held in Red Promises.

INSULTS ARE RECALLED

Vatican City, March 18 (A.P.).—Pope Pius XI will descend tomorrow morning into St. Peter's basilica and there, at the altar just above the crypt of the first apostle, will say a mass of "expiation, propitiation and reparation" for all offenses against religion committed by the rulers of Soviet Russia.

Similar masses will be said in most Catholic centers over the world.

The St. Peter's mass will proceed as planned despite announcements that Soviet officials have ordered their followers to show less zeal in antireligious activities. A semiofficial communique issued this afternoon hinted that little faith in Soviet promises is held in Vatican City, and that even if persecution is modified now, what has occurred in the past is reason for tomorrow's ceremony.

To lend emphasis to the protest, the priceless relics of St. Peter's—a portion of the true cross; St. Veronica's veil, with which Christ is alleged to have wiped his face as he was on the way to Cavalry, and the centurion's lance which pierced his side—will be displayed.

Ordinarily these relics would not

COUNTER PROPOSAL EXPECTED BY FRIDAY

MACDONALD IRKED OVER FALSE REPORT

French Feeler of Reduction Called Move to Revive Geneva Protocol.

By JOHN L. BALDERSTON.

London, March 18 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Ambassador Tsuneo Matsudaira called on Senator David A. Reed today, and, it is believed, warned him of the impending Japanese rejection of the misnamed "agreement" between the Japanese and American delegations at the London naval conference and intimated that counterproposals from Tokyo may be received by Friday.

These, it is thought, will reiterate Japan's claim for a flat 70 per cent in 8-inch gun cruisers, against which the American delegation stands firm, and also for a higher submarine tonnage than is accorded Japan in the latest American offer.

Feeble efforts are still made here to claim that the manifesto of the Japanese admiralty against the American proposals represents only the navy, but the New York World News Service understands tonight that the new counterclaims—or, rather, the old ones—will have the authority of the emperor and the privy council.

Mischief Called Incalculable.

The mischief done by the maneuvers of the last week-end in spreading false reports has been incalculable and has made the task of agreement vastly more difficult. Even the British, though not directly concerned, are indignant. According to a Central News dispatch tonight, "MacDonald has protested somewhat firmly that a false impression has been allowed to gain currency."

Badly as the Americans may have blundered, it is only fair to point out that the London Times report last Saturday of an American-Japanese agreement, a statement perhaps destined to become famous in diplomatic history, was apparently inspired by Japanese delegates opposed to acceptance of the American terms with knowledge of the storm it would create in Japan.

If this is true, the Americans fell neatly into the trap.

Ultimate Agreement Is Seen.

Apart from the gloom enveloping the Japanese situation, which does not prevent sober observers from believing that ultimate agreement with the United States will be reached, the Franco-Italian deadlock dominates the conference, if this assemblage of statesmen who no longer even see each other privately can at the present moment be called a conference.

Apart from the Reed-Matsudaira talk, the only meeting today of any importance was between Secretary of State Stimson and Dino Grandi, Italian foreign minister.

Senor Grandi, it is learned, was merely seeking to obtain parity with France by calling on Mr. Stimson to reiterate his views because Premier Andre Tardieu saw the head of the American delegation before he returned to Paris yesterday.

What constitutes "diplomatic pressure"? The French and some Ameri-

REP. JOHN C. SCHAFER.

JURIES WILL DECIDE VOLUMES' OBSCENITY

Passage of Tariff Bill Is Held Up Two Days by Argument.

PICTURESQUE FIGHT IS WAGED ON FLOOR

(Associated Press.)

Prospects of passage of the tariff bill by the Senate this week were dimmed perceptibly yesterday after nearly two full days had been spent in arriving at a compromise amendment to prevent the circulation in this country of foreign literature regarded as of an immoral and seditious nature.

Settlement of this controversy cleared the calendar of all reservations for separate votes on actions previously taken with regard to rates and administrative provisions and opened the way for a resumption today of the controversial oil and lumber tariff proposals.

After these are out of the way, individual amendments to any part of the bill still will be in order, and dozens of them are pending.

Quick Passage Doubtful.

Chairman Smoot, of the finance committee, said last night after the Senate recessed shortly before 8 p. m., that it is doubtful whether the bill can be passed this week, in view of the latest turn of events. It had been hoped that the measure could be returned to the House by tomorrow.

The book censorship action, on which no record vote was taken, ended two days of debate fraught with vigorous and picturesque attacks upon the principle and the application of censorship.

It came on adoption of a modified amendment sponsored by Senator Smoot (Republican), Utah, who was the center of a day-long debate amid cries of "intolerance" and calls for protection against influences termed "corrupting." This amendment restores that section of the tariff bill eliminated by an amendment by Senator Cutting (Republican), New Mexico, but with modifications accepted by Senator Smoot in course of the debate.

Jury Decision Provided For.

As it now stands, the section provides for seizure of literature held to be "obscene, immoral or treasonable." Destruction would be held up, however, until the matter was adjudged by a jury in a Federal district court, and until appeals from that decision had been taken to the highest court.

The amendment, which would provide for seizure of questionable books by customs officials, would permit the Secretary of the Treasury, in his discretion, to admit the "so-called classics or books of recognized and established literary or scientific merit," but only when imported for noncommercial purposes.

Of the modifications, Senator Smoot had assented to suggestions for elimination of a proposed heavy penalty for importers of "immoral" books and of a provision banning entry of matter urging treason against the United States.

Senator Broussard (Democrat), Louisiana, had the treason portion restored, however, by a 54 to 24 vote.

Cutting Plea Upheld.

The Senate action was a victory for senators who advocated repeatedly that "immoral" literature "go to the courts" for determination, instead of being "stopped at the ports." This was the plea of Senator Cutting, but

CONSTITUENT FLAYS SCHAFER RUM STAND

Woman Calls Representative From House to Debate Issue With Him.

LONGWORTH STANDS BY

No acount of it will be found in the Congressional Record today, but there was an exciting prohibition debate at the Capitol yesterday.

It took place in the lobby outside the House chamber, and the debaters were a man and a woman—Representative John Schafer, of Wisconsin, the 270-pound wet, and Mrs. E. Pelnar, of Madison, Wis., a dry, who weighs less than half that.

In the audience that quickly gathered was Speaker Nicholas Longworth and a number of other members. They laughed long and loud as Mr. Schafer warded off the woman's verbal assault.

In a shrill voice, Mrs. Pelnar scored Mr. Schafer for his wet stand, and predicted that he would be defeated at the polls. In a voice like thunder, Mr. Schafer declared that he thrived on such criticism, and predicted that it would help him at the polls.

The big fellow said afterward that the woman evidently had called him out of the chamber on account of a speech he recently made in which he quoted the scriptures.

In that speech, Mr. Schafer said that if Christ came back today and converted water into wine as He did at the wedding feast of Cana, "a certain demagogue from a State where the tall corn grows and the strong booze flows" would have Him indicted.

"You'll never repeal prohibition," Mrs. Pelnar said.

"Yes," retorted Mr. Schafer, "that's what the drys said out in Wisconsin before we voted to repeal the State enforcement act. We repealed it, though."

Mrs. Pelnar declared that prohibition would be essential if the country ever got into another war.

"Yes, you drys put a fast one over on me and my buddies when we were in the last war," Mr. Schafer said, "but you didn't consult us about it."

The debate ended when Mr. Schafer declared that no dry could ever dissuade him from his conviction that prohibition is an abomination. Having said that, he stalked back into the House chamber.

Davis Says Campaign Will Not Irk Hoover

Secretary Reiterates Statement He Will Stay in Cabinet But Denies Reports Senatorial Candidacy Will Embarrass President.

(Associated Press.)

Secretary James J. Davis said yesterday he "will do nothing that will embarrass President Hoover" in his campaign against Senator Joseph R. Grundy for the Republican senatorial nomination in Pennsylvania.

The assertion was in answer to questions concerning speculation on his remaining at the head of the Labor Department. His attention had been directed to published reports that the cabinet table association of himself, Secretary Mellon and the President, in view of the reputed support of Senator Grundy's political aspirations by Mr. Mellon, was proving embarrassing to Mr. Hoover.

A check of the Pennsylvania congressional delegation showed that many believe the Treasury secretary, and his nephew, W. L. Mellon, former State Republican chairman, will remain neutral, not only in the senatorial but also the gubernatorial contests.

W. L. Mellon is due to return soon from a Miami vacation. His latest itinerary available here routed him directly to Pittsburgh. If he stops in Washington, however, Secretary Davis said yesterday, he plans to confer with him.

On March 11, when Secretary Davis gave notice that he would formally announce his candidacy in Pittsburgh, March 16, he emphatically denied rumors of resignation. At that time he declared, "The publication of such a report is a great injustice to me and if broadcasted, will do immeasurable harm to President Hoover."

He said yesterday he had not altered that sentiment. To several members of the Pennsylvania congressional delegation he has repeatedly declared his intention to remain in the cabinet, and has cited Herbert Hoover's continuance in the Coolidge cabinet as a precedent which he will follow.

Arrest of Mayor Follows Girl's Story of Marriage Proposal.

Denver, Colo., March 18 (A.P.).—Stripped of his Army uniform, Maj. Charles A. Maj. Shepard, formerly head of a California sanitarium and a World War veteran who served in France, is accused of killing his wife by administering poison. Capone Boarded Baltimore Boat, Chief Steward Avers Presence on Ship Denied by Officers, as Chicago Keeps Lookout.

Baltimore, Md., March 18 (A.P.).—Two men said to answer the description of Alphonse "Scarface" Al Capone and Frank Cline, released from prison in Philadelphia yesterday, were in Baltimore this afternoon and boarded the Merchant and Miners boat Dorchester. Their identification was not established and they left the boat several hours before sailing time and did not return.

The Dorchester was scheduled to sail from Baltimore at 5:30 o'clock for Jacksonville and Miami, via Norfolk, but was delayed by loading of freight. She is due at Norfolk at 7 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Officers of the Dorchester said they had a passenger list of 55 and that he launched yesterday a general denunciation of censorship.

With Senator Wheeler (Democrat), Montana, he attacked Senator Smoot for intolerance, urging that his proposal would have sent his (Smoot's) own forefathers to prison if it had existed in law when the Mormon Church was new.

While Senator Wheeler and Senator Tydings (Democrat), Maryland, deplored all forms of censorship, Senator Blease of South Carolina and McKellar of Tennessee, both Democrats, excoriated any suggestion that stringency might be relaxed.

Senator Smoot said after the vote that the amendment as adopted was "quite satisfactory" to him.

Books Well Perused.

When the amendment was disposed of, not one of the more than a score of volumes brought into the chamber yesterday by Senator Smoot as exhibits of the books he termed "immoral" was to be seen on the desk where, throughout the day, they rested while not in use.

Until this end several senators perused the books which Senator Smoot said he had brought because he wanted the senators to see how obscene they were. He said that the books will be returned to the Treasury, "but not tonight."

Preceding the vote, Senator Tydings, in opposing the proposal, asserted that a "race of ninnies and nincompoops" would be produced by attempting to "make men good by law."

"I don't want you to save me by legislation," he said. "If I want to read an immoral book, I'll read it and I'm afraid I'll go to hell and damnation after I have read it.

"We come to Congress now where we used to go to God." Tydings shouted. "I want to get to heaven in my own way and I am glad to say I don't need to ask the Senate of the United States to point the way. I don't want to be made a good man by the threat of the bayonet or the prison bars. I want to save myself."

Dry Law Again Brought Up.

Senator Tydings ridiculed the prohibition law as another method of attempting to "make men good by legislation."

"And what a mess we have made of it," he added. The practice of placing poison in alcohol he described as "governmental murder in the name of righteousness."

Senator Trammel (Democrat), Florida, championed exclusion of "seditious literature." He expressed surprise "at the suggestion that this country should become the dumping ground of the literature of Communists and others."

"I may be an old fogey," he added, "but I recall how in my youth my mother barred from our fireside obscene and seditious literature." The result of this action, he said, was inculcation in the children of high ideals of patriotism and love of country.

"Some of these books," he added, "might teach us to feed our youths to crocodiles. Would you want them to come in?"

Blease Cites Passage.

Senator Blease made an impassioned plea for stringency. Taking from his desk one of the volumes Senator Smoot had brought in yesterday, he said:

"I wish that every man in this chamber could read page 52 in this book. I would not want any woman to read it even if she were the lowest type this side of Hades."

Senator Wheeler vigorously opposed "this intolerance that has been manifested on this floor." The Montanan read a list of opinions opposing censorship, quoting from editors and educators. He turned to Senator Blease as he pointed out that one from the University of South Carolina had declared that it was the sentiment of the majority of the faculty that censorship such as proposed by Senator Smoot was "un-American and dangerous."

"I never heard of him," Senator Blease retorted, "but I promise that if he is a professor in the university and made any such public statement, he won't be there more than 30 days."

"You'll put him out?' inquired Senator Wheeler.

"I sure will!" Senator Blease replied. "I won't have him drawing South Carolina money."

Countervailing Clause Restored.

After approving the book censorship amendment the Senate last night restored to the bill the existing countervailing clause permitting retaliatory rates on wood pulp, pulpboard and wallboard in event other countries levy duties on similar products from the United States. The coal and planed lumber countervailing provisions were placed back in the bill Monday night.

It was agreed further to let go to conference with the House the new provision inserted by the Senate to bar importation of goods manufactured abroad under an American trade-mark or patent.

Organized labor advocated these provisions. The finance committee recently voted to eliminate them from the bill but no explanation was given by Senator Smoot for allowing them to remain in except that the matter would be thrashed out in conference.

Thomas to Speak Today.

Senator Thomas (Democrat), Oklahoma, who lost an amendment several weeks ago to place a tariff of $1 a barrel on crude oil and 50 per cent ad valorem on petroleum products, announced last night that he would be ready to argue today for a modified proposal calling for a rate of 80 cents a barrel on crude oil and 40 per cent on gasoline and other by-products. All these products are now on the free list.

Senator Jones (Republican), Washington, also is prepared to offer a compromise proposal for a duty of $1.50 a 1,000 board feet on softwood lumber, after having lost an amendment for a rate of $2. These products also are now on the free list.

Another amendment approved last night would allow free entry to cigarette books and paper in all forms except cork paper. It was proposed by Senator Simmons (Democrat), North Carolina.

SHIP FAILS TO YIELD $3,000,000 IN DRUGS

Liner France Searched After Tip by Captain; Narcotic Supply Was Aboard.

QUIZ INVOLVES BARONET

New York, March 18 (A.P.).—After a search that lasted nearly 24 hours and during which they went over the liner France foot by foot from stem to stern, on a tip received by her captain at sea from police of Toulon, France, that she had $3,000,000 worth of narcotics aboard, Federal agents finally gave up late this afternoon and went home to get some sleep.

On receipt of word from the captain of his tip, customs authorities sent two patrol boats to quarantine to convey the France to her pier.

One hundred agents boarded her and searched all night, after every piece of baggage that left the ship had been given most careful examination. They found nothing.

The French police informed the France's captain by wireless that the narcotics, stolen in Germany, had been smuggled aboard at the French port.

Meanwhile United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle today launched a grand jury investigation of recent attempts at drug smuggling.

One of the first witnesses was Sir Duncan Orr-Lewis, baronet and friend of the Prince of Wales. Mr. Tuttle said that drug venders tried to smuggle in $200,000 worth of narcotics in Sir Duncan's baggage when he arrived on the Majestic a few days ago.

As he left the ship Sir Duncan found among his effects a trunk that did not belong to him, although it was tagged with his name. He refused to take it. When Charles Wimmer appeared to claim the trunk, it was opened, and the contents were discovered, Mr. Tuttle said. Mr. Wimmer was arrested. According to the Federal attorney, he implicated Jacob Bloom, who is under arrest in Southampton, England.

Sheep-Killing Dog Foils Executioner

Santa Rosa, Calif., March 18 (A.P.). Tim, sheep-killing police dog, sentenced to be shot today, escaped from the city pound before the arrival of the executioner.

Two boards had been torn away from Tim's cell. The dog was found guilty of killing sheep on a ranch. The owner, George Webber, contended the evidence was circumstantial and unsuccessfully attacked the State law requiring that sheep-killing dogs be executed if found guilty in justice court.

Gov. C. C. Young issued a statement recently acknowledging scores of letters and telegrams which poured into his office from dog lovers in various parts of the country pleading for mercy for Tim, but saying he was powerless to prevent the execution. Today some friends of Tim's apparently took matters into their own hands.

Expert to Undergo Fiftieth Operation

Baltimore, March 18 (N.Y.W.N.S.). Dr. Frederick H. Baetjer, internationally known Johns Hopkins Roentgen genologist, is again at the hospital for an operation, at least his fiftieth, due to his dangerous work.

Dr. Baetjer, who has been called the "hero of science," has lost in succession nearly all his fingers. The rays have affected both his arms and caused the loss of one eye. Besides, he has undergone several skin grafting operations.

Dr. Baetjer's associates refer to him as the "last of the old guard." A pioneer in his chosen field, most of his associates, pioneers in the game, have paid with their lives for their investigations. Though often begged to retire, Dr. Baetjer refuses to give up his work.

KIDNAPERS SOUGHT $100,000 RANSOM

Mystery of Four-Day Holding of Realty Man Deepens as He Recovers.

MEMORY PROVES HAZY

Freehold, N. J., March 18 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—New details, meager but dramatic, served to heighten rather than to solve the mystery of the four-day abduction of Samuel Barron, New York real estate broker who lives alone with his wife Alice in a $35,000 home in Interlaken, N. J., in circumstances so unobtrusive as to appear almost secretive.

Mr. Barron, still very ill from the harsh treatment he received prior to his release Monday, could talk very little. Among the added details he revealed, however, was that the ransom demanded by his kidnapers was $100,000. And his wife startled officials by admitting that Sunday, the day before her husband's return, an "associate" of Mr. Barron told her he had "heard from the underworld" that Barron would be released the following day. Who it was who told the wife this was not made known.

Herman Goodstein, one of Mr. Barron's business associates in the barsam Realty Corporation of New York, is already held in $15,000 bail as a material witness in the case, because of unsatisfactory answers he gave authorities the day after Mr. Barron's disappearance.

Prosecutor John J. Quinn, of Monmouth County, questioned Mr. aBrron only briefly today, and did not touch at all on the ill man's business affairs. On most of the circumstances of his abduction not previously known Mr. Barron today showed a very hazy memory. Although it was not yet dark last Wednesday when a neighbor saw himatruck with a blackjack and hustled into a green automobile while he was on his way home from the Allenhurst railway station, near Interlaken, Mr. Barron said today he did not think he could recognize by sight his kidnapers. He was blindfolded soon after they got him in the automobile. But he thought he might be able to recognize the spokesman of the group by his voice, he said.

Capital Student Pair Awarded Fellowships

Two Washington students were awarded graduate fellowships by Swarthmore College, Swarthmore, Pa., yesterday, according to the Associated Press. They are Miss Winona Von Ammon, of 3840 Legation street, and Thomas M. Brown, of 1622 Twenty-ninth street northwest.

Both are braduates of Swarthmore in the class of 1929. Miss Von Ammon will continue graduate work at the University of Pennsylvania, while Brown will study at John Hopkins University, Baltimore.

Chicago Police Whistle Called Nerve Wracking

Chicago, March 18 (A.P.).—The Health Department is upset over the traffic policemen's whistles. They are too harsh, too shrill, too raucous, Commissioner Arnold Kegel told the Chicago Medical Society today. He suggested a musical tooting of some kind as a boon to the city's sound-wracked nerves.

The rattle of machine gun fire also is recognized as a nuisance to the nerves, but it has not, from the ear angle, become a health problem as yet.

$100,000 Obtained By Bogus Checks

Man Held in Detroit Says He and Accomplice Worked Fraud.

Detroit, Mich., March 18 (A.P.).—John B. Gest, awaiting trial here, has confessed that he and another man plastered the United States from coast to coast with $100,000 in counterfeit travelers' checks against the Mellon National Bank of Pittsburgh.

This was announced today by Ralph E. Baker, assistant prosecutor, who said that the other man is Joy Harper, now under arrest in Mexico City, and that a warrant will be asked here for Harper.

Gest's confession as related by Mr. Baker was that Harper, after Gest's release from jail in San Francisco a year ago, made the checks and traveled by motor car all the way to New York, cashing them along the route.

Gest had a petcock in his automobile gasoline tank which was operated from the seat, whereby he could dump a supply of gasoline soon after its purchase. He would then buy a new supply and cash a new check at the next station.

Police Vigil Rewarded In Rum Suspect Arrest

After weeks of intermittent waiting for a suspected rumrunner making deliveries in the neighborhood of Massachusetts and Wisconsin avenues northwest, Seventh Precinct Policeman A. M. Green heard the tinkling of cans yesterday morning in the rear of an apartment at that corner, investigated and arrested a man who gave him name as Alexander Hennessey, 24 years old, of Baltimore.

Hennessey was booked at the precinct station on charges of possession and transportation of 49 gallons of alcohol and 12 quarts of choice Canadian liquor which the policeman reported finding in and beside the machine. The policeman reported that he nabbed the man as the latter was unloading five-gallon cans from the machine.

DIRECTORS APPROVE HUGE BANK MERGER

$2,800,000,000 Institution Will Be Chase Bank of New York.

PLAN NEARLY COMPLETE

New York, March 18 (A.P.).—Creation of the world's largest bank with resources approximating $2,800,000,000, to be known as the Chase National Bank of the City of New York, was announced today.

The institution is to be formed, subject to routine approval of stockholders, through the merger of the Chase National Bank, now the third largest bank in the country, with the Equitable Trust Co., which in turn is absorbing the Interstate Trust Co.

Directors of the Chase and trustees of the Equitable approved the consolidation at meetings this afternoon and stockholders will vote on ratification at special sessions April 24.

Albert H. Wiggin, chairman of the Chase National, will be the senior executive officer of the new bank, which gives the United States the largest financial institution in the world for the first time in history. Mr. Wiggin will be chairman of a newly created governing board, with Winthrop W. Aldrich, president of Equitable and a brother-in-aw of John D. Rockefeller, jr., as the president of the bank.

The new Chase National will be capitalized at $148,000,000, with an equal amount in surplus, and a reserve of $72,000,000. Its capital assets will be increased to a total of $493,000,000 through associated securities companies. Combined deposits will total $2,073,644,656 and resources $2,814,535,635.

This will make the new bank larger than the National City Bank of New York which has been the Nation's greatest for 33 years, and the Midland Bank of London, for many years regarded as the largest in the world. The Chase has been the sixth largest in the world and the third largest in the United States, and the Equitable was ranked twelfth in the world. The combined bank will have 52 offices in greater New York and seven foreign offices.

Dutch Chamber Approves U. S. Pact.

The Hague, March 18 (A.P.).—The second chamber of the Dutch parliament today approved an arbitration treaty concluded January 13 at Washington between the Netherlands and the United States.

DOHENY SAYS FALL GOT LOAN, NOT BRIBE

WEEPS OVER DEAD SON

(Associated Press.)

Through two hours of sharp cross-examination, Edward L. Doheny maintained yesterday that the $100,000 he advanced to Albert B. Fall in 1921 was a loan and not a bribe to the Cabinet officer to induce him to award Doheny's company a lease to the Elk Hills naval oil reserve.

The 73-year-old oil man opened the way, however, for the Government to get before the jury the statement that civil courts had returned the leases to the Government on the ground of fraud and that he himself had refused to testify in those suits on the ground that to do so might incriminate him. This was the first time the Government has succeeded in getting this evidence introduced in any criminal trial growing out of the notorious oil leases.

Doheny wept when he testified concerning his son, who was killed by his secretary a year ago. He showed spirit, however, during the cross-examination.

Declined to Testify.

He evaded the question of his refusal to testify in the civil trial which resulted in the Elk Hills lease being returned to the Government until Justice William Hitz instructed him to answer.

Finally Owen J. Roberts, special Government prosecutor, read to the jury a statement that Doheny had read to the court in the civil trial, which wound up with the assertion that he declined to testify on the ground that anything he might say might tend to incriminate him in the subsequent criminal trial.

Roberts endeavored to show that Doheny and Fall had conspired prior to November 30, 1921, to get possession of the naval oil reserve. During this questioning Doheny told of Fall sending him security for the $100,000 Doheny had advanced him.

Objection Is Sustained.

He received this security in 1924, he said, at a time when the first criminal indictments against him and Fall had been quashed. He said Fall could do this at that time without being charged with trying to cover up something because nothing concerning the cases was pending in court.

"You knew the civil suits were pending, didn't you?" Roberts asked.

"Yes," replied Doheny.

"And you knew the leases were returned to the Government?" asked the prosecutor, to which the defendant replied that he knew the court's decision.

The prosecutor then asked him if he did not know that the Court had returned the leases to the Government, holding that the leases were tainted with "fraud and corruption."

Reputation Is Upheld.

Counsel for the defense objected to the question and court recessed. After lunch, the Court sustained the objection and Roberts withdrew the question.

At the finish of Doheny's direct examination he told his familiar story that he had his company bid on the contract to construct naval oil tanks at Pearl Harbor only after Rear Admiral J. K. Robison had painted a distressing picture of the danger confronting the Pacific Coast from a foreign navy.

It was during this testimony that Doheny wept when asked about his son. He was permitted to step out of the courtroom for a few minutes and had regained his composure when he returned.

Californians Speak For Him.

During the day a number of prominent Californians again testified Doheny had a reputation for high honor and integrity in his home State.

The defense expected to conclude its testimony before noon today and final arguments are expected to be started in the afternoon. Both defense and prosecution predicted last night that the case would go to the jury late Thursday or Friday morning.

Portugese Explorer Dies.

Lisbon, Portugal, March 18 (A.P.). Commander Augusto Pinto Cardoso, known as Portugal's Livingstone, died today at Lorenco Marques in Portuguese Africa. With the famous explorer, Gen. Serpa, he explored the interior of Africa in the district of Nyassa half a century ago.

Murder Laid to Woman In Husband's Poisoning

El Dorado, Ark., March 18 (A.P.).—Mrs. Bertie Gentry was indicted for first-degree murder by the Union County grand jury here today in connection with the death of her husband, James Gentry, whom she is accused of poisoning.

Gentry was first reported to have died after a severe cold, but neighbors became suspicious and caused authorities to conduct an investigation. A State chemist reported that poison was found in his stomach. County officials charge that Mrs. Gentry poisoned her husband to collect his insurance.

Roumanian Heads Quit, But Reconsider Action

Bucharest, Roumania, March 18 (A. P.).—The Bucharest newspapers today published rumors that Premier Maniu on Friday presented the resignation of his cabinet to the regency council. The action was said to have been caused by the decision of the council to investigate the situation in Bessarabia. The resignation later was withdrawn.

The premier was said to have taken the stand that such an investigation would cause renewal of panic after the government had given asurance that tranquillity prevailed there.

Maryland Nurse Married To Her Patient in Hospital

Special to The Washington Post.

Hagerstown, Md., March 19.—The controversy between officials of the Washington County Hospital and Miss Ilga E. Lehman, 21, former student nurse at the hospital, which followed her discharge and her efforts to marry Carl R. Rogers, 28-year-old newspaperman of Wheeling, W. Va., a patient at the hospital, came to a happy ending this afternoon, when the hospital superintendent, Milton M. Bergey, gave his consent to the wedding being solemnized in Mr. Rogers' room.

A short time later the Rev. J. M. Gillum, pastor of St. Paul's M. E. Church, performed the ceremony, with the attendants being all patients in the hospital, who were able to leave their beds, and the nurses at the institution. After pronouncing them man and wife, Dr. Gillum gave them some friendly advice and the bride prepared to return to her home at Hyndman, Pa., and will return tomorrow to take up her residence here until her husband is strong enough from a recent operation to be moved to the home of her parents.

Mr Rogers became a patient at the hospital about six weks ago, when taken ill while at work here. In the hospital he met Miss Lehman, who was his night nurse. The romance blossomed and Mr. Rogers proposed and she accepted. The hospital authorities aparently were not aware of the romance and upon hearing of it, it was said Miss Lehman had violated the institution's rules and she was discharged.

Mr. Rogers heard of her discharge and left his bed and joined Miss Lehman. He collapsed, however, shortly after leaving and was taken back to the hospital, but not until a wedding day was fixed for March 17. Miss Lehman secured a marriage license last Saturday and went to call upon her fiance Sunday, but was barred from his room, and Monday likewise she was prevented from seeing him. She protested to the hospital trustees and finally today Superintendent Bergey, having determined that Mr. Rogers was unable to leave the hospital to have the ceremony performed elsewhere, gave his consent. And the wedding, with the former nurse standing beside her fiance's sick bed and grasping his hand, was performed.

TWO OFFICIALS FACE IMPEACHMENT MOVE

Mississippi Legislature Is Asked to Act in Alleged Graft Inquiry.

MARSHALL MAY GIVE UP

Jackson, Miss., March 18 (A.P.).—Demands for impeachment of two State officials, both witnesses in the legislative investigation of a reported $80,000 "settlement" of a contemplated antitrust suit, were filed with the House of Representatives today as that body impatiently awaited the return of Carl Marshall, attorney, for a test of its writ sentencing him to jail as a recalcitrant witness.

Marshall, key witness in the case, was ordered jailed for his refusal to tell all he knew of the distribution of the money paid to him by George Crafts, general counsel for Warren Bros., road material firm of Boston. At first he calmly told the House he would go to jail rather than betray his friends.

Later he resisted attempts of the sergeant-at-arms of the House and two assistants to arrest him, under authority of a full pardon granted him by Gov. T. G. Bilbo, and took flight to parts unknown.

Late today it was announced in the House that a "close friend" of Marshall had talked with him over the telephone and that Marshall would place himself within the jurisdiction of the Legislature for execution of the writ "in due time."

While the search continued for Marshall, open rebellion broke loose in the House against Gov. Bilbo's effort to pardon under a legislative sentence. A resolution was brought in calling on Lester G. Franklin, chairman of the State tax commission, and J. M. Howie, district attorney at Jackson, to resign or face impeachment. The authors of the resolution were Representatives John Yeager, of Lamar County, and John Lumpkin, of Pearl River.

The resolution charged that Franklin's remaining in office would be impeachable because his mission to Memphis last September when the money in the antitrust deal changed hands was left in doubt by Marshall's refusal to tell the details of the transaction. Howie, the resolution said, was "unfit and unworthy to occupy his office" if he accepted any part of the money as counsel.

Brickbats & Bouquets

By JAMES HAY, JR.

BAD news for bandits, drunkards and bootleggers! The underworld boys, valiant manipulators of the machine gun, are about to be shot to pieces with a stomach pump.

No less a personage than Maj. Calvin Goddard, ballistics expert, in an address to the Illinois States Attorneys Association, has explained that a clever, fearless and painstaking use of the stomach pump can reduce the boldest burglar to whimpering helplessness.

One shot from the trusty old pump, and the slickest alibi ever framed by a master criminal dissolves like morning mists before a burning sun.

If a suspect is caught, said the major, and claims that he ate certain things at a certain place, an analysis of his stomach's contents, showing that he ate something else, may lead to a confession.

What an alluring and satisfying prospect that opens up for the hitherto stumped and defeated prohibition agents.

* * * *

SUPPOSE the Supreme Court decides that the guilt of the liquor buyer is equal to that of the bootlegger, and John Citizen is charged with taking a drink, and he swears that he has consumed nothing but lobster salad and water.

Poor devil. A highly educated sleuth slips up behind him and captures him with a stomach pump. Immediately all his gormandizing secrets of the past five hours are bared to a merciless and analytical eye. There he sits, bombarded into a state of manifest mendacity, for the pump has laid him by the heels and proved that, instead of lobster and water, he has stowed away frankfurters, beer and bathtub gin.

What could be prettier? What could bring more joy to the proud breast of a prohibition agent? "Ha!" growled Sherlock Holmes in demoniac fury. "Why didn't I think up that one long ago?"

* * * *

BUT suppose a captured murderer neglects to say that he ate certain things at the place of his alibi? Suppose he can be neither browbeaten nor slugged into divulging the menu?

Suppose, like the stubborn fellow that a murderer usually is when questioned by police, he hugs the secrets of his stomach to his palpitating heart? Suppose he refuses to unroll the scroll of his recent gluttonies to vulgar and unsympathetic eyes?

Will the eagle-eyed sleuth be at a loss? Not he. Having been tipped off to the magic revelations of stomach pumps, he can have a law passed requiring all killers, crooks and thugs to eat largely, not to say ravenously, at least four hours before engaging in their nefarious work.

Thus the stomach pump bombardment will always work; and if the crafty criminal has done his crime on an empty stomach, the mere failure of the infallible detection machine to pump up anything will prove that an innocent stomach is evidence of a guilty conscience.

Houdini's Widow Despairs Of Spirit World Message

"Silence Is Impenetrable," Dead Magician's Mate Declares, in Spiking Claims Any Medium Has Presented Signal Agreed Upon.

Miami, Fla., March 18 (A.P.).—Mrs. Harry Houdini, widow of the internationally known magician, today said she had abandoned hope of communicating with her husband in the spirit world.

She said that for three years she had sought to penetrate beyond the grave and communicate with her husband, but now has renounced faith in such a possibility.

"I hoped and prayed and worked to get a message from Houdini," she said, "and several of the great spiritualistic advocates declare I have succeeded. But it is not true. The silence is impenetrable. There is only a void.

"If I had succeeded in communicating with Houdini I would shout it from the housetops and I would carry a message of hope to all burdened souls, but I have none. There is nothing there."

When Houdini died, Mrs. Houdini announced that she and her husband had formed a pact by which he was to communicate with her, if possible, from the spirit world. Numerous attempts to convince Mrs. Houdini that her husband was communicating through a medium, were made, she said, but she steadfastly denied that any of the mediums presented the clew by which she was to recognize a legitimate message.

CAPONE ON VESSEL, STEWARD DECLARES

Capone or Cline were not on board. Where the two men went after leaving the boat was not known. The man described as Cline was said by the steward to have gone aboard the boat and remained a short time while his companion remained on the dock and came to the boat only for an instant and withdrew.

Chicago, March 18 (A.P.).—"Scarface" Al Capone may be here, he may be there, he may be riding the billowy waves to Shanghai or he may be picking daisies in Florida—nobody seems to know.

At any rate, he had not checked in today at the South Side home, where his mother and sister and squads of police waited with various sorts of welcome.

The gang chief has remained successfully nonapparent since he eluded newspaperman and crowds on his release from prison at Philadelphia yesterday. The release ended ten months of incarceration—his first—for carrying a gun.

Chicago police, although they have nothing except hearsay evidence against Capone's character, deployed at railroad stations and airports today to arrest him on sight.

"He is not a desirable citizen," said a police official, "and he is no different than the other hoodlums we are pushing around to get out of town."

Ten months ago when Philadelphia police asked Chicago police for the gangster's record, the reply was "no record."

Three men who emerged from the Capone dwelling today were arrested. They were Joe Montana, Amello Spino and Ralp Camarco. Detectives said they believed the trio went there to present tokens of fealty to the head of the Capone-Guzick ring.

A true bill charging carrying concealed weapons was reported voted by the grand jury today, naming Frank Diamond, reputed henchman of "Scarface" Al Capone, who was released yesterday in superior court on the same charge.

Bill Would Permit Honors' Acceptance.

Representative Linthicum (Democrat), Maryland, introduced a bill to authorize Brig. Gen. William S. Thayer and Brig. Gen. William H. Welch, physicians in the Reserve Corps, to accept awards of the French Legion of Honor.

Capital Man Seeks Bankruptcy.

TARDIEU DELAY IRKS SEA PARLEY ENVOYS

Maneuvering Is Seen as Plan to Make Britain Take Blame for Failure.

SUNDAY MADE WORK DAY

By ALBERT W. FOX.

Premier Tardieu's projected absence from London, excepting on week-ends, is now the most serious obstacle to the success of the naval conference, according to reports reaching here. Both Prime Minister MacDonald and Secretary Stimson are seriously embarrassed in their joint plans and it is being freely intimated that the French leader has a definite purpose in remaining away.

The object which M. Tardieu seeks to accomplish, according to reliable information, is two-fold. First, he wishes to place the burden of the negotiations upon Ramsay MacDonald and make the latter responsible for the progress or lack of progress which ensues. Second, he wishes to prolong the negotiations up to the point where Mr. MacDonald must stand his real test with the House of Commons over the labor budget on April 14.

Should the MacDonald government fail to weather the storm on that date, the end of the conference will come automatically, and M. Tardieu will have escaped any possible blame for having contributed to the collapse. This feature of the French program is discerned by senators here in M. Tardieu's statement to Mr. MacDonald of last Sunday that he would return "each week-end" and that there was no need for haste at the conference.

Midweek to Be Barren.

Until the fall of the Tardieu government last month the conference was able to proceed with its work during the week days and relax on Sunday. Now, it is pointed out, the delegates can function effectively only on Sunday of each week, and the remaining days will be barren of definite results owing to the absence of M. Tardieu.

Heretofore, it is further explained, M. Tardieu has dominated the conference but was an active participant until the recent political crisis in France and had to shoulder his share of the responsibility for the success or failure of negotiations. Under the French premier's new program, the actual work of bringing about agreement and the responsibility therefor is transferred to the delegations other than the French. But M. Tardieu still remains the dominating force, controlling the destinies of the conference even in his absence.

An example of his control is seen here in the fact that he has virtually assigned Mr. MacDonald to the unpleasant and difficult task of trying to settle the parity dispute between France and Italy.

French Duty Shifted.

Under accepted usage in international diplomacy it is obviously the duty of the French delegation to assume the burden of coming to terms with the Italians. The fact that M. Tardieu has maneuvered the British premier into the position of acting as his agent or intermediary demonstrates, it is pointed out, the unusual skill of the French premier as a statesman.

According to late advices, Mr. MacDonald has found the task of negotiating with Italy full of pitfalls and embarrassments, and has therefore transferred this unwelcome burden to the shoulders of Secretary Stimson. So far there have been no results from Mr. Stimson's efforts, but if Mr. Stimson succeeds in altering the Italian position he will report to Ramsay MacDonald and the latter will report to Premier Tardieu, who is the directing force, and may accept or reject the Anglo-American advice as to how to deal with Italy.

Meanwhile M. Tardieu's policy of delay is calculated to bring about an end of the conference without subjecting France to criticism and thereby leave France free to build up her navy in accordance with her announced requirements.

Two Die, Four Hurt In Mine Explosion

Gas Blast Occurs While 525 Men Are at Work in Illinois Colliery.

Valier, Ills., March 18 (A.P.).—Two miners were killed and four others were probably fatally burned this afternoon in an explosion of gas in the Valier mine of the Valier Coal Co. here.

A total of 525 men were at work in the mine when the blast occurred. All had been removed and accounted for two hours after the explosion.

MACDONALD CABINET SAFE DURING PARLEY

URGED BY LLOYD GEORGE

London, March 18 (A.P.).—Prime Minister MacDonald's government today received from the Liberal party a virtual guarantee of its continuance in office during the period of the naval conference.

At the suggestion of David Lloyd George, Liberal leader and former premier, the Liberal parliamentary party unanimously decided to abstain from voting on controversial amendments to the government's coal mines bill, on which the Laborites already have sustained one defeat at the hands of the combined Liberals and Conservatives.

This assured safety for Mr. MacDonald during debate over some of the amendments Thursday night, for which several Conservatives already had proposed amendments likely to draw Liberal support.

The terms of Mr. Lloyd George's speech embodied a further guarantee of safety until the end of the conference.

The Liberals, however, made plain that the decision did not affect their liberty of action during later stages of the bill.

An official statement issued after the meeting said: "At a fully attended meeting of the Liberal parliamentary party, held tonight in the House of Commons under the chairmanship of Mr. Lloyd George, it was unanimously decided that owing to the present situation in relation to the naval conference it would not be in the national interest that any critical situation should arise in the House of Commons at this juncture.

"The party therefore determined that in the committee stage of the coal mines bill on Thursday its members should refrain from pressing or supporting any vital amendment, while reserving its full liberty of action on the report, and the third-reading stages of the bill."

Red-Fomented Strike Plans in Cuba Halted

Havana, March 18 (A.P.).—Cuban secret police stated today that plans for a nation-wide strike of all industrial, commercial and public utility activities for a period of 24 hours beginning March 20 as a protest against the suppression of a Communist labor organization have been definitely quashed.

Five men alleged to be in touch with the Communist Third International have been arrested and numerous other orders for arrests have been issued against persons said to be implicated.

cans think Anglo-American statesmen are bringing pressure on Italy to name figures, and the British Ambassador at Rome, Sir Ronald Grahame, and the American Ambassador, John W. Garrett, are reported to have invoked aid from Premier Benito Mussolini to save the conference.

These rumors are unverified, but Prime Minister MacDonald indignantly denies that he is using "pressure." It is stated that he merely repeats to Senor Grandi M. Tardieu's demands. Senor Grandi rejects them and there the situation stands.

Efforts of the statesmen are now mainly directed at a possible Franco-Italian compromise on figures which shall end or sidetrack the Italian claim for parity. There are many figures in circulation, but the New York World News Service learns on good authority that Italy did last Friday propose that the present category tables be scrapped and that for purposes of computation only ships in commission and not over age, and ships actually building, not counting those appropriated for, be included.

On this basis Italy was prepared to accept tables giving France a nominal superiority of 145,000 tons while retaining approximate fighting parity in new ships.

M. Tardieu rejected the plan.

The French demand for a superiority over Italy of 240,000 tons is clearly impossible for the Italian delegation to accept and makes explanation of the figures involved unnecessary.

There is one ray of hope in the jungle of statistics, though only a little one. Somebody had discovered that the figure of 636,000 tons, which M. Tardieu left behind him as the strength of the French fleet six years hence almost covers in its reduction of 83,000 tons from the original French figures, less special ships, the additional 85,000 tons beyond the Rapidan figures which the British have decided to construct if the original French program holds.

It all depends, however, on whether M. Tardieu's new figure represents scrapping of obsolete vessels, or a decision not to build new ships, and on this point French headquarters held out no hope tonight.

It is surprising news that in some American quarters pact talk still continues. The French have apparently put out a new feeler that France would reduce her navy if Great Britain would define with precision her obligations against an aggressor under Article XVI of the covenant of the League of Nations.

In British quarters this is regarded as merely an attempt to revive the deceased Geneva protocol which, it is known, Mr. MacDonald will not accept in any form.

GAG-RULE REGIME CHARGED IN HOUSE

Rules Committee "Choked to Death" Legislative Moves, Says Howard.

"CANNONISM" IS HINTED

(Associated Press.)

Reminiscent of the days when charges of "Cannonism" filled the House chamber, the question of "gag rule" was raised yesterday by Representative Howard (Democrat), Nebraska.

The 70-year-old member directed his attack principally at Chairman Snell, of the rules committee, which decides upon priority for legislation in the House.

In his drawling voice, the Nebraskan said that tariff amendments, oil legislation, the Norris resolution to abolish "lame duck" sessions of Congress and numerous other legislative proposals had been "choked to death" by this committee.

Snell, Longworth Are Silent.

When he concluded, Mr. Snell, who represents one of the up-State Republican districts in New York, declined to comment upon the Nebraskan's remarks. Speaker Longworth likewise was silent.

The rules committee has grown in power since the controversy over "Cannonism" became part of history. The "Cannonism" dispute resulted largely from members becoming dissatisfied with the broad powers of the Speaker at the time Mr. Cannon was the presiding officer.

In the Sixty-eighth Congress, the question of House rules and the power of committees to block legislation tied up organization of the House for several days. A group of independents nominated Representative Cooper, of Wisconsin, for the Speakership. Former Representative Garrett, of Tennessee, and Frederick Gillett, now senator from Massachusetts, were the Democratic and Republican candidates.

Independents Elected Gillett.

Finally Mr. Gillett received the vote of the independents, after it had been agreed there should be a liberalization of the rules. This was done, the principal change being in the rule governing the discharge of a bill from committee.

The new rules prevailed throughout the Sixty-eighth Congress, but when the Republicans won increased strength in the 1926 congressional elections, they discarded the new rules and adopted the old ones for the Sixty-ninth Congress. These rules still are in force.

Mr. Howard, in complaining of the rule committee chairman, said yesterday that the Senate remained as the only national forum preserving the opportunity of free speech.

TAX-REFUND INQUIRY DEMANDED IN HOUSE

Garner Offers Resolution for Investigation of Revenue Bureau.

MELLON UNDER ATTACK

(Associated Press.)

Investigation of the Internal Revenue Bureau and its handling of income and corporation tax refunds was demanded in a resolution introduced yesterday by Representative Garner, of Texas, the Democratic leader.

The recent refund of $23,000,000 to the United States Steel Corporation had been alternately defended and assailed on the floor of the House.

Mr. Garner said later he will ask the rules committee to grant an immediate hearing on his measure in order to get House consideration as quickly as possible.

The controversy that has centered around the refund since it was made public last Saturday was precipitated yesterday by Representative Bacharach, of New Jersey, a Republican member of the joint committee on internal revenue legislation, which is required by law to pass on all refunds of more than $75,000 proposed by the Internal Revenue Bureau.

Garner's Charges Contradicted.

The New Jersey member in a speech in the House contradicted accusations made by Mr. Garner last week that the joint committee had not given proper consideration to the steel corporation refund, contending that the refund had been carefully studied by both the Revenue Bureau and the joint committee's staff of experts.

The steel corporation, he argued, is made up of 195 smaller corporations, and if the refund had been to each individual organization the average overassessment would have amounted to only $170,000 and would have attracted no comment.

Mr. Garner reiterated his charge that the joint committee, preponderantly Republican in membership, "did not intend to go into these refunds."

"It makes no difference what they send up here," he shouted, "if Uncle Andy tells you what to do, you're going to do it."

Mellon Called "Dangerous."

Action on the refunds by the joint committee was only a "gesture," he continued, adding that all refund cases should be sent to the Supreme Court for decision. He described Secretary Andrew Mellon as "a dangerous man," because he "is the greatest artist in the world when it comes to making things look right."

John D. Rockefeller has been allowed an overassessment of $856,378 for the tax year 1917, the Texan said. He expressed curiosity as to "how much they amortized the old man."

In addition to this, he went on, the Rapid Transit Co. of Philadelphia has been allowed a refund of $1,700,000 for the tax years 1919, 1920 and 1921. It was the first public announcement of the refunds being allowed in these cases.

Joe Opportunity Startles City Staff With Disguise

Veteran Campaigner Expounds Merits of Post Offer to Service Men and Their Organizations for Stories About Their War Experiences.

A suspicious movement in a dark corner of the city room caused the assembled staff members to start a bombardment with everything they could lay their hands on, until, with a cry of "Kamerad," a figure appeared dressed in an O. D. uniform, surmounted by a steel helmet. Tearing off a gas mask (necessary equipment in every city room) the features and long white beard of Old Man Opportunity were suddenly revealed.

"Sorry boys, if I startled you," said the octogenarian, "but I always work better when dressed in character. At present, you know, I am giving ex-service men a chance to earn $100 for the former service organization with which they are affiliated, by sending in anecdotes of their war experiences. This amount goes to the post from whose members the greatest number of such stories are received and I also give the man, himself, $1 for each one published or $5 if his story is selected as the best of the week."

"How about we women war-workers?" interrupted one who had done her bit in France.

"Oh, naturally," replied Old Joe, "you and your organizations are eligible too."

"Have you deserted your $20,000 Opportunity Campaign?" asked a bystander.

"Most emphatically NOT," answered Don Juan. "Why, just at present I am offering the greatest feature of the campaign. Think of it," he continued, "I'm going to give $500 in cold cash to the man or woman who secures the greatest amount in new subscription payments during the brief period from March 13 to March 26, inclusive, and for every $20 worth of new subscriptions turned in by candidates within that time I will give $5,000 extra votes to be applied toward winning one of the twelve big automobiles or sixteen radios that will be distributed after the close of the campaign on April 5."

"Say," exclaimed a listener, "Why couldn't a new entrant win that $500? I understand that no subscriptions secured previous to this period will count toward winning either the award or extra votes."

"That's true," answered Signor Giuseppe. "A man or woman who enters today may win that big prize, which incidentally means that we would pay him $62.50 per day for his time and effort, and in addition, the tremendous vote total that he could pile up by means of extra votes and the extended subscription time would practically assure him of a new automobile as well."

"And by the way," he remarked as he slung a pack (stuffed with thousands of extra votes) over his shoulder, "Don't forget to tell your readers about the life story of Rudy Vallee, which begins in next Sunday's Post. There's a fellow that recognized me when I knocked," he added. "And tell them also that I am going to give $100 in rewards for the best critical review of the story."

"Atten-TION," he ordered himself. "Squads EAST! Forward MARCH!"

him in front of the United States Daily, 2201 M street, at 7:15 o'clock. The collision occurred exactly 15 minutes later. Mr. Hammond was on his way to Union Station to meet his wife.

Commander Polich, who issued a statement yesterday denying any responsibility for the accident and asserting that he was driving at a moderate rate of speed, yesterday inquired as to the condition of Mr. Hammond. A representative of the Chilean Embassy called on Mr. Hightman. He said that he regretted the incident, but that any publicity in the newspapers would do no good.

The recent agitation in the Senate over the arrest of a minor employe of the Turkish legation led to the publication of a report by Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, which revealed that 37 representatives of foreign embassies or legations had been stopped by District policemen and warned "for operating automobiles in the District under the influence of liquor or other traffic violations from July 1, 1916, to June 20, 1929."

Second Polich Crash.

Records yesterday also revealed that Commander Polich had another automobile accident on the night of December 26 at the intersection of Woodley road and Woodley place. While rounding a curve his car skidded, he said at the time, and struck an electric light pole, shattering his windshield. He told police that he lost control of his auto.

Mrs. Polich sustained cuts on the face from flying glass and was treated by a neighborhood physician. The naval attache said he was driving at a low rate of speed.

Commander Polich's version of the Monday night accident, as given in a written statement, follows:

The Polich Version.

"I was coming north on Connecticut avenue and was stopped at the intersection of Connecticut avenue with Rhode Island avenue and M street by a red light. When the light changed to green I started off and passed this light and the green light at the intersection of Eighteenth street. At N street, where the accident occurred, I had my car in second gear and was making about 20 miles and hour when we collided. My left front fender hit the right front fender of the other car. The force of the collision jostled me away from the controls and before I could regain them my car had lodged against a tree on the sidewalk on Connecticut avenue. I immediately got out of the car and ran over and lifted Mr. Hammond up, felt his pulse and the beat of his heart, and to see what I could do for him. Immediately we were surrounded by a number of people and Mr. Hammond was taken in someone's car to the hospital, I remaining at the scene of the accident.

"I regret exceedingly that Mr. Hammond has been so seriously injured. Although I feel that the accident was not due to any fault of mine, I shall be very glad to do what I can to assist Mr. Hammond and his wife. For this purpose I visited the hospital last night and this morning, and I shall visit his family immediately to express my deep regret and also to offer them whatever assistance I can possibly render."

Two Men Hurt in Crash Between Truck and Car

Two men were injured early yesterday when an auto and a truck collided at Sixth street and Massachusetts avenue northwest.

The injured men, Dennis Long, 28 years old, of New Jersey avenue, near K street, and Audrey Shanahan, 19 years old, of Seventeenth street near R street, northwest, were treated at the Emergency Hospital for bruises on the body. Both were riding in a truck operated by Henry W. Burtwell, of Park road near Fourteenth street northwest. Charles H. West, of D street near First street southwest, operated the auto.

FIRM ON QUESTIONNAIRE

Columbia, Mo., March 18 (A.P.).—The board of curators of the University of Missouri voted unanimously today not to reconsider its action of a year ago condemning circulation of a sex questionnaire among students, and then called in a group of deans and professors in an investigation into charges of academic unrest at the school and demands for the resignation of President Stratton D. Brooks.

Board members refused to comment on a report that they were considering asking for the resignation of Dr. Brooks. The university president told the Associated Press that "I have no knowledge that the board of curators at any time has considered asking for my resignation."

Rabbi Samuel S. Mayerberg, of Kansas City, and the Rev. L. M. Birkhead, Kansas City Unitarian pastor, who have been active in issuing statements demanding the resignation of Dr. Brooks, were here and hoped to appear before the board, but Judge James E. Goodrich, president of the curators, indicated they would not be called.

Reaffirm Sex Stand.

In a prepared statement, the curators reaffirmed their previous statement that the sex questionnaire, circulation of which led to dismissal of one university professor and suspension of another, was "indecent and improper" and said they consider the incident closed.

After finishing an accumulation of routine business the board called in deans of all the schools and some of the leading professors for a conference behind closed doors. What the various deans were questioned concerning was not divulged. Dr. Brooks was not present when the deans were questioned.

Rabbi Mayerberg, in a statement to newspapermen, said he knew of fourteen members of the faculty who would resign unless Dr. Brooks left the institution. He refused to divulge their names. The Rev. Mr. Birkhead said he had information that Dr. Brooks' resignation would be requested.

Included in the routine business of the morning was acceptance of the resignation of Dr. James Harvey Rogers, professor of economics in the university. Dr. Rogers announced his resignation several weeks ago with a letter in which he said there was unrest among the faculty because of administrative interference.

Resignation Is Anticipated.

St. Louis, March 18 (A.P.).—The St. Louis Post-Dispatch says today, in a staff correspondents' dispatch from Columbia, Mo., that the resignation of Dr. Stratton D. Brooks as president of the University of Missouri, and appointment of Dean Walter Williams, of the School of Journalism, as acting president, "is the anticipated outcome of a meeting of the board of curators today."

The newspaper states, "It is certain Dr. Brooks is to go, if not today, within a very few days."

Auto Crash Breaks Man's Leg.

AIDS ARE OPTIMISTIC OVER TAX RETURNS

$67,507,962 Collected So Far Out of Budget Set at $550,000,000.

$5,000,000 DROP SEEN

(Associated Press.)

Latest figures reaching the Treasury yesterday on the March 15 collection of personal and corporate income taxes gave officials ground for some optimism that the amounts received might run well up toward the high totals fixed for the quarterly installment by last year's budget estimates.

Data actually on hand were fairly slim, however, as remittances from the collection districts will take several days to check and compile. The receipts completely accounted for include only amounts turned in to the Government before the close of business Saturday.

Budget estimates for March income tax receipts, as made up last fall, call for the collection of $550,000,000. Actual collections in the same month last year amounted to $601,000,000, but this year a 1 per cent cut in the rate on both personal and corporate incomes has been put into effect.

It is probable that before the end of the week audits in the collection offices will have been carried sufficiently far to enable some dependable estimates of the inflow to be made, but until these calculations have been made up Secretary Mellon's aids are withholding statements.

The only actual figures released yesterday by the Treasury gave the total of income taxes collected and deposited at the close of business, March 15, as $67,507,962, which was approximately $5,000,000 less than the $72,504,506 collected in the corresponding fifteen days of the same month last year. Estimates covering a much larger percentage of the returns have been received at the Treasury, but these figures have not been made public, and the only thing said about them was that they were not substantially lower than those available at the same time a year ago.

HOOVER ANNOUNCES SOUTHERN CLEAN-UP

Blease and McKellar Renew Attack on "Patronage" Simultaneously.

BROOKHART WANTS QUIZ

(Associated Press.)

Asserting that by action taken last year he had stopped "reprehensible practices" in the distribution of patronage, President Hoover announced yesterday he had asked the Department of Justice to consider the findings of the Senate committee condemning conditions in the South.

Almost coincident with the Chief Executive's comment upon the report of the Brookhart committee on Federal patronage, Senator Blease, of South Carolina, and Senator McKellar, of Tennessee, both Democrats, again attacked appointments in the South.

Senator Pess (Republican), of Ohio, replied that the President "does not approve but condemns any sale of patronage."

The President said all Federal officials known to have engaged in reprehensible practices have either resigned or have been removed. He added that the Senate report referred to "incidents, men and conditions which have already been cleaned up by the action I took on the 26th of March last."

Mr. Hoover said recently charges have been brought by the old organization which has been displaced in South Carolina against a member of the new advisory committee there. They have been vigorously denied by the new committee, he added, and have been under investigation for some weeks by the Department of Justice.

Senator Blease declared in the Senate that the Republican party in South Carolina "stands for graft and corruption and dishonest government and dishonorable disposition of patronage."

He said the Government was "a stench in the nostrils of every decent man in the State."

Calling attention to testimony before the patronage committee involving District Attorney Hartigan and Roy Campbell, collector of internal revenue, both of Texas, Senator McKellar, a committee member, said both should be dismissed and that he would oppose their confirmation if they were renominated.

Senator Brookhart, in presenting the committee's report, said he would ask the Department of Justice to investigate the Southern situation. Presenting evidence from four States—Georgia, Mississippi, South Carolina and Texas—the report recommended the present practice of dispensing Federal offices through the referee system be abolished and condemned it as "most reprehensible."

Arrangements are going ahead at the Justice Department for a thorough scrutiny of the situation in all States where conditions are reported as unfavorable.

Action Without Harm Whenever Constipated

Here's a way to be rid of constipation and its ills—a way that works quickly, effectively, but gently.

A candy Cascaret at night—the next morning you're feeling fine. Breath is sweetened; tongue cleared; biliousness, headaches, dizziness, gas vanish. Repeat the treatment two or three nights to get the souring waste out of your system. See how appetite and energy return; how digestion improves.

The action of Cascarets is sure, complete, helpful to every one. They are made from cascara, which doctors agree actually strengthens bowel muscles. All drug stores have the 10c boxes.

Certainly today . . . it's Waterman's Patrician that has the call

Can you imagine a tray of exquisitely modelled pens set before you to choose from? Each seemingly lovelier and more colorful than the next: Emerald, deep Turquoise, Jet, variegated Nacre or Onyx. Then, to pick up one and see how perfectly it balances in your hand—how easily it pushes across the page—how smoothly the ink flows.

And then to realize that this beautiful new Patrician is, after all, a Waterman's—handcrafted with all that meticulous care that goes into the making of a fine watch. A pen that only years and years of experience could possibly have achieved . . . and one that will last you for years and years. Boxed at $10.00. Mechanical pencil to match, $5.00.

Waterman's No. 7 at $7.00—offering the famous Waterman's range of seven readily identified points—each one scientifically adapted to basic handwriting characteristics. Ninety-seven per cent of all pen users will find among them the one point exactly suited to their hands. Try them all and find yours.

Waterman's No. 5 at $5.00—Five points for choice—ranging from fine to stub. An unusually good pen for a moderate price—built to meet Waterman's standard of fine craftsmanship—always dependable.

Good dealers everywhere carry wide stocks of Waterman's famous fountain pens, mechanical pencils, and Waterman's inks which make any fountain pen write better. Every Waterman's is guaranteed forever against defects. Service stations are maintained at the addresses below for the purpose of making good our guarantee and for servicing our pens as required.

CATHOLICS TO PRAY FOR RUSSIA TODAY

Special Official Service Will Be Held in St. Patrick's Church at 8 P. M.

DR. JOHNSON TO PREACH

Prayers for persecuted members of all religious sects in Russia will rise from Catholic churches throughout the world today, in conformance with a decree issued by Pope Pius XI. All Catholic churches in Washington will participate, although the service to be held in St. Patrick's Church this evening at 8 o'clock has been designated by Archbishop Michael J. Curley as the official service of the day.

The Right Rev. John M. McNamara, auxiliary bishop of the diocese, will preside at the St. Patrick's Church rites, which will be featured by a sermon on the Russian situation by the Rev. Dr. George Johnson, of the Catholic University.

A similar service will be held at the same hour in the Cathedral at Baltimore, with Archbishop Curley presiding, and Dr. Edmund Walsh, of Georgetown University, delivering the sermon.

This morning at 7:45 o'clock the parish of the Immaculate Conception will gather in the church at Eighth and N streets northwest for a high mass in behalf of the persecuted Russians. The Rev. Francis J. Hurney, pastor, will be the celebrant, and the choir will be presided over by Prof. Harry Wheaton Howard.

The program at St. Patrick's tonight follows: Recitation of the Rosary by Mgr. C. P. Thomas, pastor; singing of a special motet by the choir, under the direction of Miss Jennie Glennan; recitation of prayers special to the occasion, by Bishop McNamara; discourse by Dr. George Johnson; benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament, Bishop McNamara, celebrant; Dr. John Keating Cartwright, deacon; Dr. Lawrence J. Shehahin, subdeacon; singing of "Holy God, We Praise Thy Name," by the congregation.

POPE TO PROTEST ACTION OF SOVIET

be shown before the evening of Holy Thursday, April 17.

St. Peter's is expected to be filled for the protest, for tomorrow is St. Joseph's day. It is consecrated to the memory of Christ's foster-father and is a public holiday.

The diplomatic corps accredited to the Holy See, comprising the representatives of 33 nations, will attend in a body.

The condition of religion in Russia has been watched by Pope Pius since he assumed the papal tiara February 12, 1922.

About the time of the Genoa conference in that year, he addressed an open letter to Cardinal Gasparri, then his secretary of state, calling attention to "the most sorrowful conditions in Russia" and stating that the governments should intervene.

Shortly afterward Cardinal Gasparri sent a telegram to Tchitcherin, chief of the Soviet delegation at Genoa, asking intercession. The Vatican version is that Tchitcherin "responded in offensive terms."

On May 14, 1922, Mgr. Pizzardo, assistant to the cardinal secretary of state, wrote to Tchitcherin at Genoa, asking him to refrain from prosecuting the patriarch Tikon and to permit the Pope to buy back the sacred vessels confiscated from Russian churches. The Soviet foreign minister replied that the requests had been forwarded to Moscow. Nothing ever was heard after that.

Four Bandit Suspects Captured in Gun Fight

Junction City, Ohio, March 18 (A.P.).—Two robbery suspects were wounded and captured with two others today in a running pistol fight with a posse of officers in a woods near Crossonville, Ohio. The round-up was made shortly after the Junction City Banking Co. was robbed by four men of $4,000.

One of the suspects was shot in the arm and the other in the leg. The posse of officers from Junction City, Lancaster, and Logan were unharmed. The wounded men were identified, police said, as Mark Dutcher, 28, and Frank Dodson, 28, both of Jeffersonville, Ohio. The other suspects refused to tell their names.

Kin of Francis Scott Key Hears Pershing Laud Song

Granddaughter of Composer of "Star-Spangled Banner" Tells Radio Audience of Circumstances Surrounding National Anthem's Writing.

Bristling with pride, and controlling her emotions with difficulty, the grand-daughter of Francis Scott Key sat by the side of Gen. John J. Pershing last night as the commander of the A. E. F. in the World War broadcast an address on "The National Anthem" over the coast-to-coast hookup of the National Broadcasting Co.

Prior to Gen. Pershing's remarks, Mrs. Arthur Tilgman Brice, 70, told the radio audience something of her grandfather's experiences on the night that he wrote The Star-Spangled Banner.

"Young America," she said, "as the grand-daughter of the man who gave this country its national anthem, I extend you patriotic greetings. It is my earnest prayer that you will all grow up to be good, law-abiding citizens who will appreciate the wonderful blessings of this great country of ours, the land of the free and the home of the brave."

With eloquence born of simplicity Mrs. Brice recounted tales that her mother had told her of the emotions that swayed the great composer during the bombardment of Fort McHenry at Baltimore, and the bloody dawn that found "Old Glory" still above the ramparts.

Gen. Pershing, the last speaker in a series of talks on the flag, exhorted young America to observe strictly the outward forms of honor and devotion to the national emblem. "The Star-Spangled Banner is a battle epic, a song of victory, a thanksgiving prayer and a patriotic expression," he said.

"The flag is a supreme symbol of that lofty patriotism without which the republic could not long endure. No one is too young to learn the responsibilities of citizens who live under its protection, and none too old to fulfill the obligation it imposes."

The program was opened and closed with music by the Marine Band under the direction of Capt. Taylor Brunson.

ANOTHER STRICKEN BY PARROT DISEASE

EXPERTS START WORK

A new case of parrot fever developed here yesterday, bringing the number of victims to twelve, when B. M. Murphy, 30-year-old porter employed at the Hygienic Laboratory of the Public Health Service, was pronounced sick with the disease.

Public Health officials, in declaring that Murphy had not been in direct contact with either the cultures or the parrots used in the experiments, denied reports that several other persons were suspected of having contracted the ailment, medically known as psittacosis. He is being treated at his home.

A partially proven theory which, if it is found to be true, would add to the mystery and the danger of the disease, is that insects are common carriers of the germs of psittacosis. If that is found to be the case, considerable trouble has been anticipated by bureau authorities in keeping the disease from spreading.

If this should be the case, the disease might spread with alarming rapidity. No special insects have been settled on as the most likely carriers, but a war is being waged on all suspected carriers.

As an added protection the laboratories will again be fumigated some time this week. In the meantime, several of the research branches have been moved from the buildings which have been used for experiments.

A board of experts was appointed Saturday by Surgeon General Hugh Cumming to study the situation in the laboratory. They are Dr. Claude Lavinder, who has had long experience in handling epidemics; Dr. Carroll Fox, in charge of the New York quarantine station of the Public Health Service, and Dr. Wade Frost, professor of public health at Johns Hopkins University, and a reserve member of the Public Health Bureau staff.

The results of the parrot fever research may lead to more light on the cause and treatment of infantile paralysis, according to an unofficial statement yesterday. There are phases of the diseases which are strikingly similar, it is said, and the results of the research now under way may aid the medical profession in combating that disease. Dr. Fox, of the special board, has been assigned to the work in this line.

A Correction.

In The Post's report of "The Charm School," musical comedy presentation given at Barker Hall last Saturday, Elizabeth Jenkins was mentioned as having played one of the roles instead of Mabelle Boyce. Both young women were in the cast.

JEWS WILL GATHER TO PLAN CAMPAIGN

PROJECTS ARE OUTLINED

A conference of leading Washington Jews will take place at the Jewish Community Center, at 7:30 tomorrow evening to discuss plans for launching Washington's participation in the allied Jewish campaign as part of a national effort to raise $6,000,000. The invitations to the meeting have been issued in the names of Mrs. Charles A. Goldsmith, who was chairmna of the recreation committee of the National Conference of the Allied Jewish Campaign held recently in Washington, Maj. Julius I. Peyser, president of the Jewish Welfare Federation, and Louis E. Spiegler, president of the Washington Zionist Organization.

The allied Jewish campaign for reconstruction in Eastern Europe and development in Palestine was formally set in motion nationally by a recent conference in Washington. Prevneted by William H. Taft's death from addressing the delegates in person, President Hoover wrote to express his sympathy with the purposes of the conference as a contributino to international goodwill.

In a recent announcement, David M. Bressler, one of the national chairmne of the campaign, states: American Jewry must now translate into concrete action throughut the length and breadth of the land the inspiration and the resolutions of the recent Washington conference. Those who bear the proud title of Jew must organize to carry out the mandate of the allied Jewish campaign which this conference, representative of the will and the spirit of the American Jewry has imposed upon it."

The goal of $6,000,000 is required to carry on the projects of the joint distribution committee in rebuilding the lives of thousnads of destitute Jews in Eastern Europe and in other parts of the world, as well as to provide funds for the Jewish Agency for Palestine, nad its constituencies, the Keren Hayesod, the Hadassh and Mizrachi. Through the allied Jewish campaign independent drives for these important causes will be eliminated. Instead there will be only one "drive" in each community.

Harry Walsky yesterday petitioned the District Supreme Court to permit him to adopt Frances Raum, 13-year-old daughter of his wife.

The petitioner tells the court that the father of the child died several years ago and that he and the mother were married on September 5, 1926. Since then, he asserts, he has learned to love and cherish the child and wants her for his own. Attorney Joseph Stein appeared for the petitioner.

SPAIN PAYS HONORS TO DEAD DICTATOR

FUNERAL CAR IS CHAPEL

Madrid, March 18 (A.P.).—From the town of Irun on the Franco-Spanish frontier to the capital of Spain crowds gathered today at railroad stations along the route taken by the funeral train bearing home the body of Gen. Miguel Primo de Rivera. A state funeral will be held in the city he ruled as a dictator for more than six years.

In the little station at Irun the body was transferred from the special funeral car attached to the French "Sud-Express" to a wide-gauge coach on the Spanish connecting train. Then, less than seven weeks after the dead general had left his country for voluntary exile in France, the train pulled out for Madrid.

At some of the larger stations along the route it stopped for brief formalities and the rendering of homage to the former Spanish dictator. At others prayers were offered up by priests as it slowed down and rumbled through the crowds, only to pick up speed again without stopping.

Funeral Car Like Chapel.

The funeral car was converted into a chapel lighted by flickering candles about the flag-draped coffin. Members of the dead statesman's cabinet took turns in keeping watch, while priests continually murmured prayers for the repose of his soul.

The center of many political storms while living, Primo de Rivera in death was received by Spain with all the official honors that can be conferred upon a premier dying in office and a captain-general dying at his post.

His funeral will be an official tribute exceeded in pomp and solemnity only by that given to the kings of Spain.

Salutes Are Fired.

This tribute began from the moment the train bringing his body from Paris, where he died suddenly on Sunday, crossed the frontier into Spain. Flags were at half-mast and salutes of artillery were fired. The body remained in the small chapel at the Irun Railroad Station while crowds filed respectfully past the coffin until midafternoon, when it was taken on board the train for Madrid.

For about five minutes the train halted at San Sebastian, the site of King Alfonso's summer palace, and then began its trip through the gathering dusk to the capital. The journey will last all night.

When the body arrives in Madrid tomorrow morning, it will lie in state for about four hours in a chapel improvised at the Norte Station, where the representative of King Alfonso, Premier Berenguer, and members of his cabinet, high dignitaries of the Catholic Church, foreign diplomatic corps and the foremost figures of Spanish life generally will pay tribute to it.

Woman Printer Dies; Leaves $15,000 in Cash

Wilmington, Del., March 18 (A.P.). For 30 years Miss Fannie Hurlock worked in the composing room of the Wilmington Every Evening. When she died last week at the age of 67 she was believed to have been poor. Search of her room today showed she was worth $15,000.

Stuffed in stockings was $1,100, more cash was found hidden elsewhere, and books showed balances in four banks.

George W. Connor Funeral Arranged

Department of Agriculture Wire Chief's Burial Is Tomorrow.

George W. Connor, superintendent of telegraphs and telephones at the United States Department of Agriculture, died yesterday at the residence, 2030 G street northwest, after an illness of less than one day.

Mr. Connor was taken ill while at work Monday afternoon. He was born in Washington in 1881 and entered the Federal service as a clerk in the Weather Bureau in 1908. Two years later he was transferred to the office of the Secretary as telegraph and telephone operator, and in 1918 was promoted to the position that he held at the time of his death.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Anne E. Connor, and two daughters, Margaret and Joyce Connor. Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the residence with burial in Glenwood Cemetery.

OBSEQUIES FOR DR. FISHER.

Services Will Be Held This Afternoon From Late Home.

Funeral services for Dr. Raymond A. Fisher, 47 years old, who died Monday at the residence, 305 B street northeast, will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon from the residence. Burial will be in Congressional Cemetery.

Born in Washington, Dr. Fisher was educated in Eastern High School and George Washington University Medical School. He had practiced continuously since his graduation from the medical school in 1905. He was a member of the B. B. French Masonic Lodge, the Shriners and the American Medical Association. He was also an elder of the Metropolitan Presbyterian Church. Survivors are his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Bullough Fisher, and two sons, Raymond A. Fisher and Watson Van Ness Fisher. Dr. Fisher was the son of the late William and Mattie Fisher.

MAJOR IS ACCUSED OF POISONING WIFE

Girl's Story That He Asked Her to Marry Him Leads to Denver Arrest.

IS STRIPPED OF UNIFORM

ficer's wife. She was being questioned today in Texas at approximately the same time Maj. Shepard was quizzed here.

United States Marshal Callen said Miss Brandon would not be arrested, as authorities are satisfied she had nothing to do with the death of Mrs. Shepard. She was described as the unwilling recipient of the medical officer's attentions. She is said to have told authorities that Maj. Shepard attempted to get a promise from her that she would marry him if he secured a divorce.

Pair Met at Brooks Field.

Miss Brandon met Maj. Shepard when he went to Brooks Field in 1928 to take a course in aviation surgery. He stayed there four months. During this time Mrs. Shepard remained at Fort Riley, where her husband was assigned.

In May, 1929, following his return from San Antonio, Maj. Shepard's wife became ill. Her husband is said to have given her medical treatment. When her death occurred in June, an autopsy was performed and the vital organs sent to the Army medical laboratory in Washington.

Results of the examination, reports show, were suspicious but inconclusive. The Department of Justice then took up the investigation and after nine months gathered evidence on which the murder charge was filed.

Maj. Shepard emphatically denied poisoning his wife. He was held in jail after he failed to raise $25,000 bond set at the request of United States District Attorney R. R. Brewster, of Topeka, Kans.

Fellow Officers Surprised.

Fellow officers at Fitzsimmons General Hospital, where Maj. Shepard was transferred following his wife's death, expressed surprise at his arrest and several of them said they would aid him in his attempt to make bond.

Mrs. Shepard's maiden name was Zenana McCorsky. The couple was married in Los Angeles in 1917. Both had been married before. Maj. Shepard's first wife died. Mrs. Shepard was divorced from her first husband in 1916.

Army records show Maj. Shepard was born in Belleville, Ont., Canada. He came to the United States when a boy and was graduated from the University of Buffalo in 1896. He entered the Army in California in October, 1917.

"The American people, always striving for something better, are using Copper, Brass and Bronze to a greater extent than ever before in modern building construction. The lasting quality of these metals dictates their use in the interest of economy and wise investment."

TIME rests lightly on the home that is built of lasting materials. Such a home costs the least over a period of years. It costs least to maintain. It depreciates least in value. That is why men of experience and vision say, "build with Copper, Brass and Bronze."

Brass or Copper pipe, Copper flashings, gutters, downspouts and solid Brass or Bronze hardware and lighting fixtures are rust-proof and weather-proof. They serve for a lifetime without repair or replacement in home or skyscraper.

Naturally such materials cost a little more at the outset—but they cost far less in the end.

The Building Service Department of the COPPER & BRASS RESEARCH ASSOCIATION, 23 Broadway, New York, will be glad to advise you without charge about the uses and proper application of these metals.

DRY LAW ENFORCEMENT.

The statement of Chairman Wickersham, of the Law Enforcement Commission, that enforcement of prohibition compares favorably with the enforcement of other Federal laws is a surprise to many who have given full credence to the charges of corruption made by insurgent senators. It should be noted, however, that Mr. Wickersham does not assert that the law is enforced 100 per cent. He notes an improvement, and suggests how further improvements can be made.

Before questioning this statement it would be well to inquire to what extent other Federal laws are being enforced. The President's commission has been investigating the whole field of law enforcement, and it is not surprising that it should find violations of many other laws. It is advisable to take a view of the whole field of law enforcement before passing judgment upon the degree of enforcement of any particular law.

The Senate judiciary committee was previously divided on the advisability of conducting a separate investigation into prohibition enforcement. Unless the secret testimony of Mr. Wickersham was contrary to that given the public, he certainly did not furnish an incentive for a Senate inquiry. Without recommending what action the Senate should take, he reminded the committee that the President's commission intends to go into all phases of law enforcement, and "will probably discuss existing conditions, the inadequacy of the present law and methods of strengthening it."

There is no need for the Senate to intrude itself into the situation before the work of the commission has been completed. Without making any radical changes, the administration has tightened up enforcement of the dry laws wherever possible. Nothing more can be expected until the whole crime survey is completed and final recommendations submitted to Congress. An investigation of the type which Senator Norris proposes could only hamper the administration and the Law Enforcement Commission.

KNIGHTS OF THE ROD.

In the brave times of good King Arthur the big news of the day was the exploits of the Knights of the Round Table. In this robust age it is the doings of the "Knights of the Rod" that command the front page of the newspapers. Here is how one modern Froissart describes the expected release from durance vile of a leader of these bold blades:

> Automobiles were parked for two blocks along Fairmount avenue and a score of policemen camped in the vicinity to maintain order. Newsreels were set atop motor cars and trained on the main gate. Dozens of reporters and photographers milled about among the crowd or sat in parked cars waiting. Persons on their way to work stopped and joined the throng. In the crowd were school boys and girls, stenographers, teamsters, chauffeurs, a scattering of business men and quite a few tough looking customers.

This was the stage setting at the gates of the Eastern Penitentiary in Philadelphia to greet Sir "Scarface" Al Capone after "having done a stretch" for carrying a "rod."

But the innate modesty of "Sir Scarface" could not bear such publicity. He slipped through the postern of the "pen," accompanied only by three of his trusty retainers, and hied himself to his stronghold in the West. Such modesty affords a striking contrast to Sir Launcelot, who actually courted vulgar publicity as he rode home triumphant from the lists.

DRAINING THE MEDITERRANEAN.

Statesmen of Europe are in the habit of remaking the map of the continent every few decades. European peoples are so accustomed to shifting boundary lines that it is quite natural for statesmen and even engineers to dream of new territories available for national expansion. Countless plans have been evolved for irrigation of the Sahara Desert, for shutting out the sea in various places, for tunneling under the English Channel and the Strait of Gibraltar Engineers as well as statesmen must have great things to dream about.

Seldom, however, has there been such an ambitious enterprise launched as that which has just been announced in Marseille. A group of engineers, after having spent four years surveying the Mediterranean, has decided that it can be made a fresh water lake, supplied by the rivers of Europe and Africa. The scheme calls for construction of two superdams, one at Gibraltar and the other at the Dardanelles. This would cut the Mediterranean off from the Atlantic and the Black Sea, and gradually the Mediterranean waters would lose their salt.

The next step would be to lower the level of the Mediterranean some 500 to 600 feet, and thus add approximately 430,000 square miles of territory to the countries bordering on that sea. It is believed that 80 per cent of this land would become suitable for cultivation. In addition, the fresh water from the "Mediterranean Lake" would be pumped to the Sahara and make it a flourishing agricultural land.

The most fanciful imaginings of the statesmen and politicians can hardly equal this engineering aberration in its possibilities for upsetting the peace of Europe. The dividing line between Corsica, belonging to France, and Sardinia, belonging to Italy, would disappear. The Adriatic Sea would shrink to a tiny gulf and throw the hostile elements of Italy and Jugoslavia into each other's back yards. New islands would arise in the Aegean Sea for Turkey and Greece to fight over. How long would Britain remain quiet, under a threat to bottle up the Mediterranean through which she maintains an open highway to India? What would northern France, England, Denmark and the Scandinavian countries say to destruction of the desert which so vitally influences their climate?

Toying with a continent must be an excellent sport in blueprints, but these engineers would be more practical if they would plan the resurrection of Atlantis.

DIPLOMATS IN TRAFFIC.

Another automobile collision has occurred in Washington, in which a car driven by a diplomatic attache has inflicted a serious if not fatal injury upon a citizen. Witnesses allege that the attache's car was driven at excessive speed, and the nature of the accident tends to support this testimony. The attache remained on the spot, gave such assistance as he could, and rendered a full report to the police.

The incident may result in exculpating the attache from all blame, but it serves nevertheless to draw attention to the habitual recklessness of many members of the Diplomatic Corps, especially young bloods who take delight in violating the traffic rules and then escaping the penalty by invoking their diplomatic immunity. They are a danger to themselves and to all traffic. Citizens who have suffered from the aggressions of these fledgling diplomats are losing their patience, having found that there is no legal method for holding them to account. The crowd that gathered about the latest accident was in anything but a kindly mood when it was stated by witnesses that the diplomat in question had passed by a red light and was breaking the speed limit.

One or two heads of missions have solved this problem by making it an ironclad rule that any violation of traffic laws by their subordinates shall be punished by recall of the offender. The Diplomatic Corps could well afford, for the sake of general good feeling and public safety, to adopt this rule. The courtesy extended to the corps calls for scrupulous observance of the street rules that protect the public.

"GAG RULE" IN THE HOUSE.

Senators who have been trying to steer the tariff bill through "the greatest deliberative body in the world" for the past six months frequently look with envious eyes upon the political leaders of the House. Victories in the Senate are the fruit of bitter struggle, long debate and indefatigable labor. The well-oiled machinery of the House turns out with little difficulty any piece of legislation that has gained approval of the majority party. The country has acquired quite an admiration for the regularity and efficiency of its representatives.

As a result, demands for revision of the Senate in conformity with the other branch of Congress are frequent. Members of the Senate say little about it, but some of their remarks imply much. Most of the general criticism comes from the House and the public. Pressure is being brought to bear from many quarters, but the Senate refuses to change its ways.

The pendulum swung the other way, however, when Representative Howard, of Nebraska, arose in the House to castigate his colleagues for "supinely submitting to the sway and control of three members." His address was replete with such phrases as "murderous treatment of legislation for the country's weal," "the gag rules of the House" and "concentration of power." He extolled the virtues of the Senate and proclaimed it the only national forum preserving the right of free speech.

Such dissatisfaction is no more unnatural on the part of a Democrat in the House than is the grief of insurgent leaders in the Senate. Each legislator would like to fashion the body in which he serves to meet his own convenience, but the best interests of the country demand the presence of two legislative bodies of different character. It might be simpler for disgruntled Democrats in the House to get themselves elected to the Senate than to criticize the rules of the House, which are adopted by the Democrats whenever they are in power.

BETTER TIMES.

Analyses of unemployment are worse than useless when based on conditions obtaining in January. Unquestionably there was more than seasonable unemployment during the winter, and when an agency such as the Family Welfare Association of America, which ministers to distressed families throughout the country, reports a 100 per cent increase of unemployment in January, it states a fact that has lost its meaning. The question is, what is the situation today?

Last week Gov. Roosevelt, of New York, asked the New York Board of Trade for an opinion as to the present status of unemployment. The board replied as follows: "Any figures purporting to give the exact number or even approximate number of unemployed in New York City, in the absence of a census, must necessarily be conjectural. The board does not feel justified in estimating the total of unemployment." The organization, however, "on the theory that they furnish indices of existing conditions," undertook to examine into the activity of the following: Public utilities, manufacturing plants, department stores, employment bureaus, United States enlistment offices, theaters and other amusement places, advertising agencies and business statistical bureaus. Based on information obtained, the board reported to the governor that unemployment seemingly passed its peak in February, and that conditions have "shown a decided improvement."

The employment situation in New York is particularly significant in times of stress. It has frequently been pointed out that in slack times those out of jobs gravitate toward the metropolis, in the hope that they will be able to find something to do and in the knowledge that nowhere else in the country is equal emergency relief handed out. Senator Wagner has pointed this out in connection with his three bills to prevent unemployment. New York City officials are on record as saying that the metropolis is a veritable magnet for the unemployed.

The fact that the situation in New York is improving is proof of improvement elsewhere. Further evidence to this end is contained in statements made public by Secretary of Commerce Lamont and by the Bureau of Labor Statistics. The Secretary of Commerce said that reports from many sections of the country showed an easing of the money situation, indicated that the public construction program is being pushed assiduously and that generally the situation is improving. The Bureau of Labor Statistics reported a slight increase in employment in February over January and an increase amounting to almost 3 per cent in pay roll totals. The country has turned the corner. Better conditions are already in evidence.

That new planet is not the first star that was invisible when discovered.

Fifteen million Americans are unable to read, says Secretary Wilbur. But, then, there's the radio.

PRISON LIBRARIES

From the Boston Transcript.

Prisons which have good libraries are less likely to suffer from wholesale riots than those antiquated institutions where the unfortunates have nothing to occupy their minds but hopeless brooding. The reading tastes of those in jails, hospitals and reformatories are no different from those of persons living under normal conditions. Romance, adventure, biographical works, poetry, travel books are always welcome. It is interesting to note that boys under State care have an interest in aviation and stories of aviation background that is as great as that of boys who are living in fortunate circumstances.

Dr. Frederic J. Farnell, chairman of the Public Welfare Commission, gave his enthusiastic indorsement to the campaign, declaring that at all the institutions the libraries are small, the books old and in poor condition. He said:

"At the State Hospital for Mental Diseases we have at the present time more than 1,900 patients, many of whom are able to read and enjoy it. We have only 280 books in the library and all of them are in poor condition. Reading has a distinct therapeutic value in many cases and the enlargement of the library at this one institution would be a distinct help.

"The Chilawn School for Girls has a library of 65 books, more than half of which were donated within the last month. The purpose of this school is educational and reformative, and certainly an average of slightly more than one book per girl can hardly be considered adequate. At the State Prison the library is old and the books are in poor condition. Certainly, if a man has a tendency to read and learn at this institution we should do all we can to encourage it. The same condition prevails at all the other institutions; the libraries are small, the books old and in poor condition."

A prisoner, writing to the Providence Journal, describes the institutional library as "the Lost Legion of the world of books." He, perhaps, more than any of the 600 men in the prison and the county jail, knows how well the description is merited. During the six years since his conviction, the writer of the communication has served as librarian. It has been his duty to supply each cell with two books every two weeks. He has observed the reaction of the recipients and listened to their hopes.

The books available for distribution have been musty old volumes that discouraged reading in many cases. He calls upon the imagination of those on the outside by writing:

"Nowhere in the world is a book as welcome as in those places where isolation doubly enhances its message. Climb the winding staircase to where the friendly sun floods the bookcases with a golden haze. Here are the books—an army of tired veterans leaning in disorderly array—the Lost Legion of the world of books.

"Books and men. Books run the gamut of men's characteristics. Between their covers are imprisoned the thoughts of numberless men and like their authors they are silly, pompous, ponderous or alive with human heart interest like 'The House of Seven Gables,' 'The Old Curiosity Shop' and 'Les Miserables.'

"Outside the field of controversial penology one finds many things that can be done to aid the imprisoned in their steps toward rehabilitation. We know of none of greater merit than the giving of a generous supply of good literature.

"Thoughts beget thoughts and ofttimes the loveliest flower blooms in the prison garden. But, be it as it may, we have human beings to deal with and it is reassuring to know that books are a valuable aid in removing those threatening clouds of human emotions that serve to stay the progress to better things. They add to the inevitable monotony the solace of the hours spent in sane and enjoyable companionship. Nowhere in the world is a book as welcome as in prison.

"We are mostly Sancho Panzas in this world with scarce a Don Quixote. Yet there are those who have aspirations. Here are several budding navigators sans ships, an engineering lad not expert as yet in spherical trigonometry and many devoted to the study of French, Spanish and Italian.

"Cut a gigantic spool in half and you have the guard-room library represented by its flat surface. Windows in the east let in the morning sun to burnish up a myriad of steel bars through which can be seen in two directions long vistas of cells in three tiers. From the west the sunlight filters in and caresses lovingly the old books. A golden touch of solitude—the mellow parting of the day—the Ave and Vale of the world at large."

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

TRAGIC.

I think the saddest sight I ever saw
Was not a widow grieving by her dead,
Nor a bedraggled orphan begging bread,
But 'twas a painted dame, with cheeks aflame
Refusing to admit that youth had fled.

She giggled and she tittered and was coy
And tried to work again her girlish tricks,
But pudgy hands and magic can not mix
And what she used to do, when she was twenty-two
Was dismal stuff when tried at fifty-six.

Yes, I'm sure the saddest sight I ever saw
Was this woman clutching grimly to the past,
As a drowning sailor grasps a bit of mast,
Refusing to grow gray in a sweet and graceful way
As if age could be deluded to the last.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

WHEN a private soldier is "bawled out" by an officer, he neither expresses resentment nor contemplates revenge, whereas in civil life an employe equally humble will return insult for insult and risk his livelihood to save his self-respect.

The difference lies in the fact that submission to authority is part of the soldier's game, while the employe is conscious of being free and eager to assert and maintain his equality with his superiors.

One man may endure too much because he must; the other endures too little because he need not endure anything at all.

And that quirk of human nature, more than any other contributory cause, explains why marriages that might have been successful under the conditions that obtained twenty years ago now come quickly to grief.

In short, divorce is the assertion of a childish and irresponsible sense of liberty—the tough boy saying to the schoolma'am! "I don't have to do it, and you can't make me do it."

Wives and husbands no longer need one another as they once did. Yet they are unwilling to give the freedom and independence they demand and that is the rock on which the ship wrecks.

In other days a wife made herself a necessity.

She cooked and mended for her man, served him as a personal valet, and provided the only feminine companionship the social code of that era permitted him to enjoy.

The husband was equally necessary to the wife, for he provided the food and clothes she could not earn for herself and served as escort and defender when she walked abroad.

Children and ownership of a home tied the knot tighter, but this condition of mutual dependence was enough to make marriage a lifetime bargain.

New standards and customs have brought freedom to men as well as to women.

The husband can enjoy feminine society where he will and keep his reputation intact, and hotels and clubs offer him all the comforts of home—including a valet.

The wife can make a living for herself; enjoy male friends; travel alone.

Both are free and know it, and both are willing to demonstrate their independence.

That is a condition, not a theory, and those who recognize it fare well; but trouble is inevitable when either mate fails to realize how jealously the free guard their freedom and attempts to make modern marriage a master-and-man relationship.

You can't keep the boy on the farm by assuming the continued right to boss him when he knows all that you know and is able to make his own way in town.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THAT NEW PLANET.

Things are beginning to break a little better for the Hoover administration. America has discovered a brand new planet, the first since the Polk administration and one of the best in history. It will be accepted as official unless Borah objects.

• • • •

It is more than four billion miles from the sun, over bad astronomical roads, all poorly posted. Four billion miles is a new high for planets under this or any other administration.

• • • •

The discovery puts Neptune in a bad way. Neptune up to this time held the long distance record, but Neptune is only 2,792,000,000 miles from the sun, which, by comparison, is a mere hitch hike for any good professor with a good telescope.

• • • •

No suitable name has been found for the new planet yet. The scientists temporarily tabbed it the Trans-Neptunian Planet. This brought a howl from the headline writers at once. They have christened it Planet X, but nominations for a suitable name are in order. Suggestions received to date include.

The Herbert Hoover Planet.
Big Boy.
The King Vidor.
The Peggy Joyce.
Amos or Andy.

• • • •

Col. Lindbergh can, of course, have it named after him if he wishes, and stop all argument, but the colonel will probably first want to fly over it. That is, if he can get started ahead of Admiral Byrd.

• • • •

An expedition by the New York Times to fly over the new planet, establish radio connection with the earth and bring back a complete set of pictures may be expected any moment.

• • • •

The planet was discovered in the Lowell Observatory at Flagstaff, Ariz., and it is now an open question which will benefit more by the publicity, Flagstaff or the planet. There is a report that the planet was really discovered a month ago, but the professors wisely held off with the newspaper announcement until after the Babe Ruth-Col. Ruppert battle. As soon as the Babe signed up the scientists figured their plant would get a break.

• • • •

They were correct. It put the disarmament conference inside and reduced the dry-wet debate to a single column head.

• • • •

Announcement that a new planet had been sighted, the third to be found in 3,000 years, threw astronomers into hysteria and more than 800 scientists east of the Mississippi alone sprained their backs doing handsprings within 24 hours of the announcement. The discovery of a planet is to an astronomer what a discovery of a new exemption is to the average income tax payer.

• • • •

Enthusiasm on the part of the man in the street was somewhat more restrained. His planet requirements are few and his first words upon being told of the discovery were, "Can you eat it?"

• • • •

Wall street attributed the new planet to the reduction in the rediscount rate and the work of the Hoover industrial conferences. "It shows," said a prominent brokerage house, "that things are looking up."

Suspicious.

Elmer Twitchell thinks it is funny that the discovery of that new planet should come so soon after Dr. Cook's release.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

A Plea for Variety in Design of Federal Buildings—Deadly Monotony of Columns.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It is well for Washington that some very beautiful buildings were erected before the present craze for "uniformity" possessed those who sit in "the seats of the mighty." Suppose the Corcoran Art Gallery, the D. A. R. Building and the Pan-American were all alike in general outline, with only slight difference in details. Could the present beautiful appearance have been possible?

It is proposed and, I believe, decided upon, to spend millions of dollars in erecting a continuous line of buildings of almost identical design. The architects seem to have but one solitary idea, and that is columns! columns! columns!

Now, pillars and columns are very impressive, used sparingly, but Heaven defend us from an unbroken procession of them from the Capitol to the Treasury!

We enjoy looking at a beautiful girl, but if we had to look every day at 100 replicas of her standing in a row we would certainly be bored.

If the style of buildings proposed is necessary from a practical and useful standpoint, the United States is rich enough to erect at intervals something really beautiful, for instance, on the order of the Hotel de Ville, the Trocadero, or, most beautiful of all, the Bourse in Brussels. Nothing truer was ever said than that a "thing of beauty is a joy forever."

Suppose L'Enfant had been possessed with this curse of "uniformity." We should have had a city like a checker board; and if the present program is carried out we will have deadly monotony.

We hear a great deal about making Washington one of the most beautiful cities in the world. It will never be accomplished, no matter how much money is spent, until some one is put in charge who has a real sense of beauty and also knows the value of variety.

The writer would like to add one thing more; and that is, that no matter what we build, even with a truly great architect to plan, the effect will be ruined as long as the thousands of monstrous black "bugs" are allowed to make their home along the paths and streets of the city.

FLORENCE A. AUGUSTE.

Excessive Salaries to Ball Players—Suggests Boycott of the Yankees.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Your editorial captioned "The Goose Hangs High" in today's issue, while fair and reasonable from every point of view, does not go to the root of the trouble. The best thing that could happen to baseball today would be for the fans to stay away from the ball parks when the New York Yankees are scheduled to play, and thereby allow the moguls of that team to sustain a deficit for a couple of seasons of an amount the size of Babe Ruth's exorbitant and unreasonable salary.

There is no sport I enjoy as much as I do baseball, but I'd a thousand times rather see Ty Cobb fly around and glide into the bases, as only he could do, or see Goose Goslin slam out a three-bagger, than to see the Babe or any other person slam 'em over the fence where nobody even has a sporting chance of preventing an easy scoring. Long ago the powers that be of the New York Yankees should have come to their senses and offered the Babe a salary of not more than $40,000. Had this been done he would be eager to sign on the dotted line today and for several years hence. The payment to him of such an unreasonable amount has not only spoiled the Babe but it has had its demoralizing effect upon the other players of other teams.

BALL FAN.

Mr. Sweeney Praises England for Preserving Personal Liberty—"Hurrah for Queen Mary!"

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Hurrah for Queen Mary! There is a real queen—no priggish imitation about her. When she said that English "pubs" were so homelike, she created more furore among the drys over here than she did throughout the whole British Empire.

The fact is we can still learn from wise old England. Take for instance the question of personal liberty. She once had to contend with impulsive minorities who sought to enforce their rules of conduct on all, but fortunately for her she had an older and wiser tradition to fall back on. On the other hand, our American tradition as a Nation goes back a few centuries when various religious sects sought freedom to practice their several religions, and with this went the freedom to prohibit each other's religions.

This species of bigotry has festered in our political structure to the present day—prohibition is one of its symptoms. Our only remedy is to correct these inherent political diseases as time and experience manifest them. That would be real progress in good government.

J. SWEENEY.

Let the Professional Writers Meet This Indictment, If They Can!

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The organizations fighting the eighteenth amendment seem quite fond of parading their recruits from the ranks of professional writers. There is always some kind of a motive back of everybody's actions, and one can not help wondering just what prompts those who sell their literary wares for a living to want alcoholic beverage legalized again. Do they need it in their business? Must we infer that their brains will not work naturally, but must have an alcoholic stimulant in order to produce merchantable literary wares?

Or is it in behalf of their clientele that they want booze legalized? Is it an admission on the part of these writers that their literary wares are so lacking in merit that they will make their best appeal to a clientele with brains addled by alcohol? In either case it doesn't look very complimentary, either to these booze-courting writers or to those they would have read their writings.

COLUMBUS BRADFORD.

SENATORS ARE TOLD OF UNEMPLOYMENT

Commerce Committee Has First Hearing on Labor Legislation.

WAGNER BILL IS URGED

(Associated Press.)

Unemployment conditions were pictured to the Senate commerce committee yesterday as it began hearings on labor legislation.

Senator Wagner (Democrat), New York, author of the employment measures, opened the hearings by describing conditions in New York and throughout the country as most serious, "in spite of what you may hear to the contrary."

Dr. B. M. Squires, director of Illinois State unemployment agencies, and a professor at the University of Chicago, asserted conditions in Chicago during the last two months had been the "most acute in ten years."

J. Eads Howe Present.

Organizers of an "unemployment conference" here, led by J. Eads Howe, so-called millionaire hobo, and a committee of nine, appeared at the committee room at the start of the hearing to demand an opportunity to testify. The Senate committee decided to keep to its regular program of witnesses and suggested that the men present their story in writing.

A group of unemployed Negroes waited outside the Capitol, as the committee of nine circulated in the building and appeared at the committee room. The representative of the unemployment conference later interviewed individual senators, seeking a special hearing tomorrow, but the committee adjourned until Friday. Then it will hear other witnesses previously summoned.

Chairman Johnson, of the Senate commerce committee, later said its chief interest was to determine whether the Wagner bills could afford a measure of relief.

"These bills deal with a long-time program for employment, mainly," he continued. "Incidental to that discussion is evidence of the unemployment they are designed to alleviate.

Details of Wagner Bill.

"We do not propose a lengthy investigation on that subject and certainly not one which will duplicate the work done by the Cousens committee two years ago, and concerning which a very excellent report was sent by that committee."

The bills of Senator Wagner would establish a Federal employment stabilization board with a $150,000,000 fund to expand public construction in periods of depression and would set up Federal employment agencies in cooperation with the States.

There was much discussion before the committee yesterday in regard to the business conferences sponsored by President Hoover last fall after the stock market crash. Dr. Squires said the administration's program resulting from those conferences had the "weakness" of being "in the nature of a longer time program than industries could put into effect immediately."

"Much distress and unemployment in the past months would have been avoided," he said, "if there had been available immediately a fund for construction."

Senator Wagner agreed that the business conferences had served to prevent "mass hysteria," but he argued that the time was now at hand to talk and act with "absolute frankness."

Up Friday William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and some New York State authorities will be heard.

They Call It Politics

By CARTER FIELD

NOW comes word that President Hoover will sign the tariff bill despite the failure of the coalition to stop advances in the rates. It is heralded as a surprise, though just why it would be difficult to say.

A few weeks ago front pages all over the country regarded the alleged fact that President Hoover was delighted with the downward revisions being effected by the Democrats and Progressives, and would be glad to sign the bill. This also was labeled a surprise.

Some months before that, when the bill was reported by the Senate finance committee, with sharp advances over the rates imposed by the House in some instances, and with decreases in others, much was made of the bootlegged information from the White House that the President would sign the bill, now that it had been "scientifically whipped into shape.

* * * *

WHICH may have been more surprising had it not been that when the bill left the House, with the Democratic newspapers all over the country assailing it as monstrous, word apparently came leaking to the public from the White House via certain Capitol Hill leaders that the President would sign the bill. The story that time—this was nearly a year ago—was that the President was impatiently demanding great speed. He wanted an adjournment early in June with the tariff bill out of the way.

A few months before that, while the then President-elect was devoting himself to the task of choosing a Cabinet down in Miami, he summoned Senator Smoot, chairman of the Senate finance committee, to Florida and convinced him, apparently, from his interviews as he started home, that there should be a very limited revision of the tariff, indeed. That was the kind of a bill Mr. Hoover would sign at that juncture.

* * * *

THIS is merely a reverse order chronology of the high lights of the apparently inspired announcements that Mr. Hoover would sign the bill. The only surprising phase of the situation is that each time the statement that the President would sign the bill has been regarded as an important development.

Actually, of course, there has never been any particular doubt that the President would sign any bill that might be agreed on by Congress providing no highly objectionable extraneous legislation should be attached. In this case the objectionable extraneous legislation, from the White House viewpoint, is the export debenture subsidy. Mr. Hoover has no visitor go away under the impression that he could possibly yield on that.

The President has grown more and more restive over the interminable delay on Capitol Hill in framing the bill. The President, according to many of his close advisers, still thinks that speed in getting the bill through and ending the uncertainty in business circles affected is more important than any individual rates.

not think it is right. I protest against it.

"If it is limited to the question of the Tennessee River Improvement Association and anything this man (Mr. Huston) did as president of that concern, then I say there should be the fullest publicity, but a subpena such as that appears to be would go into all the affairs of the Republican party."

The Tennessee River Improvement Association is the organization formed to press for the sale of Muscle Shoals to the American Cynamid Co. with which the Union Carbide Co. is associated.

Clash With Black.

It was at this juncture in the colloquy that Senator Black (Democrat), of Alabama, who has been sitting with the committee as an "observer," "smelled a rat."

Turning to Robinson he asked as if in great surprise:

"Senator, that account is not the Republican party's, is it?"

"It may be," replied Robinson very frankly.

"I did not know that," observed Black.

"There are a lot of things you do not know," Robinson retorted.

"This is not a Democratic committee," Robinson continued, "this is a subcommittee of the judiciary committee and it is presumably an impartial investigating committee, investigating the lobby of Muscle Shoals. And furthermore, I might say to the senator from Alabama that he is not even a member of the judiciary committee."

"I know," Black agreed, "but I am a member of the Senate and I was wondering whether you knew this was the Republican campaign fund."

Without answering him Robinson threatened to take the matter back to the committee and if he got no assistance there which he would not have, he threatened to take it to the floor of the Senate. It is seldom, indeed, that the Indiana senator has shown so much feeling about anything.

Walsh finally modified the subpena to include only the $36,000 account and there was general agreement that there is no power on earth now that will prevent the committee from getting just as much information about Huston's affairs as it wants, and its appetite has been whetted beyond all bounds.

Not Fair to Brotherhood.

Huston even protested against the committee's going into the $36,000 account, saying that it might find funds of the railway brotherhood there and that the committee's action was "not fair to them."

Walsh explained that the committee was concerned in tracing the Union Carbide Co.'s lobby fund and that it was not responsible if Huston placed it in a pool with other funds.

The committee has been toying with this $36,000 fund and Mr. Huston's manner of handling it for several days. The question of whether it was a speculative account or money put out at call interest rates which were very high last year, has not been touched upon by the committee—apparently studiously avoided for the time being.

Blease Approves Police Pay Raise

Capper-Zihlman Bill Is to Pass as Objection Is Withdrawn.

Senator Cole L. Blease (Democrat), of South Carolina, announced yesterday that he no longer was opposed to the Capper-Zihlman bill to raise the pay of Washington's police and firemen, thus assuring passage of that bill in the Senate.

When the bill was first introduced, Senator Blease declared that he would oppose a raise for policemen so long as Maj. Henry G. Pratt was their chief.

But yesterday he arose in the Senate to announce that he was going to vote for the bill. So far as is known there is no member of the Senate who is opposed to the measure, so the prospect is that it will be passed soon under a unanimous consent rule.

Senator Robsion (Republican), of Kentucky, reported the bill late Monday night and asked for its immediate consideration. Senator Phipps (Republican), of Colorado, however, asked that action be delayed until he could study the bill.

The bill provides an average raise of $400 for all members of the Police and Fire Departments, and is backed unanimously by Washington's trade and civic bodies.

POLISH LEADERSHIP OFFERED OCULIST

HAS BEEN OFFERED POST

Warsaw, Poland, March 19 (A.P.).—Prof. Szymanski, who spent some time in the United States a quarter of a century ago and who now is president of the Senate, was intrusted with the task of forming a cabinet today by President Moscicki. He will seek to establish a government to succeed that of former Premier Bartel who resigned last week after his minister of labor had suffered a vote of censure in the Diet.

Prof. Szymanski is an oculist. He was drafted for service in the Russo-Japanese War but instead went to the United States and worked for several years in Chicago. Later he went to Brazil, where he established an eye clinic.

Devoted to Pilsudski.

After the reestablishment of Poland as an independent nation, the University of Vilna invited him to take up a post on its medical faculty. He entered the Polish Senate in 1928 and became speaker. He is devoted to Marshal Pilsudski, noted Polish patriot.

The selection of Prof. Szymanski for the premiership caused great surprise in Warsaw. He has had no experience as an executive and administrator, and is so far from being a typical politician that the sessions of the Senate when he presided were usually jovial and easy-going debates of a friendly character. He has a wide reputation for being good humored and witty.

Pilsudski Offered Post.

In an interview given the Iska Press Agency by Marshal Pilsudski, former dictator and "strong man" of Poland, it was disclosed today that President Moscicki had asked the marshal to accept the premiership. Pilsudski refused, but promised to take it if the person selected by the president should fail.

He may be called upon to become actual head of the government, for in view of the strong friction between the Pilsudski supporters in the government and the members of the Diet, Prof. Szymanski may fail.

In the same interview, which the marshal said for $11 with the intention of giving the money to charity, Pilsudski said he had refused to accept the office because of the feeling of repulsion inspired in him by the Diet and the deputies. He said that the Diet's main function was the spreading of calumnies and "talking about matters which the deputies neither understand nor study."

British Air Fleet Seeks $89,250,000

Aid Declares U. S. Exceeds England in Strength of Front-Line Planes.

London, March 18 (A.P.).—Introducing the air estimates for the coming year before the House of Commons today, Frederick Montague, undersecretary for air, declared that Great Britain firmly intended to avoid being drawn into competition in the building of air armaments.

He said that in items of front-line strength, the British air force was exceeded by those of France, Italy and the United States, and that the present estimates showed an actual reduction compared with those of five years ago.

An increase of $4,450,000 over last year's expenditures was included in the estimates, making a total of $89,250,000. Mr. Montague said this was due chiefly to provisions for up-to-date equipment essential for safety, the growing needs of civil aviation and the requirements of scientific research.

CHINA BANDITS KILL 2,000 IN MASSACRES

BANDED ALONG YANGTZE

Shanghai, March 18 (A.P.).—Organized bandits have massacred 2,000 persons in Fuan, Kiangsi Province, said reports here today, and other robbers are said to be planning to renew attacks upon American and other foreign shipping in the middle section of the Yangtze River.

The massacre in Kiangsi Province was reported in Chinese press dispatches to have taken place early this month. The magistrate at Kiangfu appealed to the Nationalist government officials at Nanking to send troops against the gangs of bandits who were overrunning Kiangsi, robbing and slaying thousands.

Bandit hordes were reported also 1,000 miles up the Yangtze and its tributaries, threatening another attack upon foreign shipping similar to that of Friday when five American and two Chinese steamers were fired upon above Ichang, while struggling in the dangerous Hsintang Rapids. American and British and Japanese gunboats are patrolling this section of the river.

Outlaw soldiers numbering about 1,500 were stated to have descended upon the Hosueh trading post on the Yangtze above Ichang, killing many police, looting shops and kidnaping wealthy residents for ransom. Shayeng on the Han River was also reported to have suffered from bandit soldiers who burned the town after robbing stores and abducting merchants.

Mrs. Shepherd's Death Brings House Sympathy

A resolution expressing sorrow over the death of Mrs. Alexander R. Shepherd, widow of Washington's great governor, was introduced in the House yesterday by Representative McLeod (Republican), Michigan.

The resolution declares that it was under Gov. Shepherd's administration that the beautification of the National Capital was so remarkably well planned and executed.

On the Rules of Traffic

By WILLIAM ULLMAN

"Cut-outs" are very much in disfavor with the traffic regulations of the District of Columbia. As a matter of fact, they are looked upon officially as a "common nuisance," with their capacity for annoyance outweighing any possible virtues.

The regulations are based upon recognition of the point that there are other and more effective ways of increasing an automobile engine's power.

Example: A motorist has his car equipped with a cut-out in the expectation of using the device only on the open highways lying outside of the District. A defect develops in the device resulting in the valve remaining partially open. Driving the car in such a condition within the city limits lays the owner open to arrest.

DAY IN CONGRESS

SENATE.

Met at 11 and recessed at 7:40 p. m. to 11 today.

Confirmed the following nominations: Arthur Arnold to be district attorney for the Northern District of West Virginia; Clint W. Hager to be district attorney for the Northern District of Georgia; Edgar C. Geddie to be marshal for the Eastern District of North Carolina, and James A. Cobb, to be judge of the local Municipal Court.

Senator Overman (Democrat), of North Carolina, blocked the confirmation of Judge Thomas Day Thacher, of New York, as solicitor general.

Lobby committee issued a subpena to obtain the records of Claudius H. Huston, chairman of the Republican national committee from the brokerage firm of Blythe & Bonner.

Commerce committee began hearings on labor legislation with Senator Wagner (Democrat), New York, as the first witness describing unemployment conditions throughout the country as most serious.

Senator Blease (Democrat), South Carolina, claimed the distinction of being "born and bred in a county in which not a single vote was cast or at least recorded, for Herbert Hoover for President."

HOUSE.

Met at 12 and recessed at 5:10 to noon today.

Continued consideration of the bill for Federal regulation of interstate bus traffic.

Minority Leader Garner introduced a resolution for an investigation of the Bureau of Internal Revenue and its methods of deciding tax refunds.

Public lands committee decided to visit Jamestown, Yorktown and Williamsburg, all in Virginia, on April 4 and 5 in connection with a proposal to erect monuments at these places.

Cobb Confirmed For Bench Term

Blease, Early Dissenter, Is Silent on Naming of Negro Judge.

The nomination of Judge James A. Cobb for another term on the bench of the Municipal Court was confirmed by the Senate yesterday.

Senator Cole L. Blease (Democrat), of South Carolina, who had blocked confirmation Monday night, remained silent as the nomination was confirmed.

Earlier, however, he had said that he did not want it to get back to South Carolina that he had voted to confirm the nomination of a Negro. At the same time, he called attention to a recent case in which a white woman was tried by a colored jury.

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY CIRCLES OF NATION'S CAPITAL

Capital Views Many Changes Among Envoys

New British Ambassador Is Expected Today From New York.

By JEAN ELIOT.

WITH the new Ambassador of Great Britain due in Washington today, a new envoy from Peru expected in a few weeks and many other changes in prospect, society's interest is pretty well centered on "diplomatic exchanges." So there is a special timeliness about the rumors, emanating from Buenos Aires, that Senor Alvarez de Toledo, Argentine Ambassador to France, is to be called home by President Irigoyen to become Minister of Foreign Affairs, while the present Foreign Minister, Senor Horacio Oyhanarte, is to come to Washington as ambassador.

The story is coupled with the suggestion that the new ambassador's first and most important mission will be the negotiation of a $100,000,000 loan in New York with which the government hopes to correct the low exchange value of Argentine currency.

But, lest this be taken for gospel, there is another report that Senor Oyhanarte will be shifted to the post of minister of the interior, in which case Senor Elpidio Gonzales, who is now minister of interior, would go to Switzerland for his health—and there would be further search for a suitable man to come to the Washington Embassy, which has long been in the hands of a charge d'affaires. Although both Senor Oyhanarte and Senor Gonzales are close to President Irigoyen, there is said to be considerable personal rivalry between them, and we shall see—what we shall see.

Landing in New York yesterday, Sir Ronald Lindsay, Britain's new envoy, and Lady Lindsay were met by Mr. Michael Wright, third secretary of the British Embassy. They have taken an apartment at the Mayflower, where they will probably remain until the Ambassador establishes a summer embassy at some seaside or mountain resort. Although the new British Embassy in Massachusetts avenue gives evidence of nearing completion, much of the detail of decorating remains to be carried out, furniture must be installed and it does not seem probable that Sir Ronald and Lady Lindsay will move in until autumn.

Senor Don Manuel Freyre y Santander, who is to succeed Dr. Hernan Velarde as Ambassador of Peru, will arrive in Washington within a few weeks, accompanied by Senora de Freyre and their two children. Once attached to the embassy in Washington, Senor Freyre has recently been serving as Peruvian Ambassador to Great Britain and is at present in London.

The Minister of the Dominican Republic and Senora de Morales will sail on Thursday for their home, the resignation of Senor Morales having been accepted. He sought to resign several months ago, but was persuaded to remain on duty. Senora de Morales was the guest of honor at a luncheon given yesterday by Mrs. B. Owyn Dent.

Ever since the Minister of Roumania, Mr. Charles A. Davila, sailed for Europe a few weeks ago, rumors have been current that he was not to return, and dispatches from Bucharest, dated March 17, carried the announcement that he had been recalled and would probably be appointed to the vacant ministerial post at Berlin. They even named as a probable successor either Gringore Gafenco, state secretary to the traffic minister, or Ion Raduce, labor minister. However, at the Roumanian Legation this report was denied yesterday, with the statement that Mr. Davila would return to Washington about April 15 and that he had taken a house in Newport for the summer season.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Plan Buffet Supper.

The Secretary of the Interior and Mrs. Ray Lyman Wilbur have issued invitations for a buffet supper on Sunday evening, April 13, at the Department of the Interior.

Secretary and Mrs. Wilbur will return to Washington tomorrow from Chicago, where they have been for several days.

Mr. John N. Willys, newly appointed United States Ambassador to Poland, left yesterday for Palm Beach, Fla., to rejoin Mrs. Willys and their daughters, Mme. Juan Aguirre and Miss Elizabeth Willys. Mr. Willys spent several days at the Carlton Hotel and conferred with President Hoover while in the Capital.

Senator Arthur H. Vandenburg will be joined at the Wardman Park Hotel on Saturday by Mrs. Vandenberg, who has been cruising for the last two weeks in the West Indies.

Mr. and Mrs. Taliaferro Planning for Supper.

Commissioner and Mrs. Sidney Taliaferro have issued invitations for a buffet supper on Friday, April 11, at their new home in Georgetown. The guests will later attend the Friday Evening Dancing Class.

Mrs. Keefer Chosen Head Of Golf Club

Wife of General Belongs to Many Groups of Devotees.

The election of Mrs. Frank R. Keefer, wife of Brig. Gen. Keefer, U. S. A., as president of the Women's District of Columbia Golf Association, brings a globe-trotting golfer into special prominence. Mrs. Keefer has played golf in Hawaii, where she won a championship; in California, in Texas, in Pennsylvania and at the various clubs around Washington—and always with considerable skill. She is a member of the Chevy Chase Club, the Army, Navy and Marine Country Club, the National Women's Country Club, the Country Club of Harrisburg, Pa., and of the United States Senior Women's Golf Association; and belongs as well to such groups as the Colonial Dames of America and the Club of Colonial Dames.

The United States Senior Women's Golf Association is organized along the lines of the men's group, the United States Senior Golf Association, but its age limit, instead of being placed at 55, is 45—on the theory, perhaps, that ladies never reach 55. Be that as it may, Mrs. Keefer hasn't yet celebrated her forty-fifth birthday, but was slipped into membership because it will fall before the close of her first year as a member of the group. The senior golfers—feminine—put on a national tournament each year at Greenwich, Conn., and then play a similar Canadian group.

The Woman's District Golf Association, of which Mrs. William S. Corby has been president for the last two years, is organized to promote matches among the woman members of the country clubs in Washington and neighboring cities. When the golf links at the new National Woman's Country Club are completed, it is expected that the association's tournaments will be held there, where there will be no opposition from masculine golfers, the men enjoying the privileges of this new club only on the invitation of the womenfolk.

Mrs. Keefer has but recently returned to Washington after visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Terrell, in San Antonio, Tex.

New Embassy Secretary to Wed in Rome in Summer

From Rome the Associated Press announces the engagement of Count Guido Roncalli di Montorio, who is to succeed Signor Leonardo Vitetti as First Secretary of the Italian Embassy at Washington, to Donna Antoinetta Conestabile della Staffa which was formally announced yesterday. The wedding is to take place in Rome in the summer and presumably Count Roncalli di Montorio will go home to claim his bride, for he is scheduled to arrive in New York aboard the S. S. Augustus on March 25.

Walter Tuckermans Are Hosts to Diplomat.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Tuckerman entertained informally at dinner last evening at Tuxeden in compliment to Dr. Santiago Bedoya, First Secretary of the Peruvian Embassy, and Senora de Bedoya, who will sail in April for Europe. Dr. Bedoya has been transferred from Washington to the Peruvian mission to the Vatican.

The Minister of Hungary and Countess Szechenyi arrived in New York yesterday after spending several weeks abroad, and will come shortly to Washington. With them are their daughters, Countess Cornelia and Countess Alice Szechnyi.

After a brief honeymoon in the South, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Lawson-Johnston have returned to Kentsdale, the country home of the former Mrs. Lyman B. Kendall, where they are expected to remain until they start for England. Mrs. Lawson-Johnston's daughter, Mrs. George Grant Mason 3d, who came from her home in Cuba to attend the wedding of Mrs. Kendall and Mr. Lawson-Johnston last Saturday, went to New York last night. Mr. and Mrs. Lawson-Johnston and Mrs. Mason were luncheon guests at the Mayflower yesterday.

The motor pilgrimage to Monticello, Va., home of Thomas Jefferson, which is being arranged for April 13—Jefferson's birthday—under the auspices of the Thomas Jefferson Memorial Association, is rousing much interest in Washington. Among those who have recently "signed up" to take the trip are: Senator and Mrs. Royal S. Copeland, Senator and Mrs. Tom Connally, Representative and Mrs. Eugene Cox, Representative and Mrs. William E. Hess, Representative and Mrs. S. Otis Bland, Mr. and Mrs. Jouett Shouse, Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Lowman, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Owen Kuhn, the Misses Grisanti, daughters of the Venezuelan Minister; Mrs. Emmet C. Milton, Mrs. Fronheiser, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Kerlin, Mrs. M. R. Bradley, Mrs. Mark Reid Yates and Miss Emma Dent Casey.

Mr. Paul Wilstach, playwright and author of "Potomac Landings" and other volumes rich in historic interest, will give a lecture this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at the Washington Club under the auspices of Chapter 3, Colonial Dames of America, of which Mrs. John Rutherford is president. He has chosen as his subject "Mount Vernon and the Historic Potomac." The lecture is one of a series arranged by Chapter 3 of the Colonial Dames.

Mr. Charles J. Williamson, who has been passing a few days at Atlantic City has rejoined Mrs. Williamson in their apartment at the Wardman Park Hotel. Mr. and Mrs. Williamson will sail on the S. S. George Washington on April 23, for France. They will pass May and part of June in Paris and plan to travel in Brittany for a short time before returning to this country in July.

Yesterday was bridge luncheon day at the National Woman's Country Club and nearly 100 members and guests had luncheon and remained until the tea hour to play their fa-

New French-fried dishes—quick ones!

Drop Doughnuts

Here is a quick, easy way to make doughnuts—the batter is dropped from a teaspoon directly into the hot fat. No tiresome rolling and cutting! And another important suggestion—fry them in Crisco, the sweetest, freshest-tasting fat I know of. See how that improves the flavor! And, of course, no smoke in your kitchen when you fry in Crisco at the proper temperature.

½ cup sugar
2 cups flour
3 eggs, separated
2-3 cup walnut meats
½ teaspoon salt
1-3 teaspoon nutmeg
¾ cup sweet milk
2 teaspoons baking powder
2-3 cup whole raisins

Beat egg yolks light. Add sugar. Beat until foamy. Then add milk, then nuts and raisins. Last flour, baking powder, salt and nutmeg, sifted together twice. Mix all together thoroughly. Last fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Drop from teaspoon into deep Crisco heated to 360° F. or when a bread crumb browns in 60 seconds. Fry slowly until golden brown. Test with a toothpick. When cool, roll in powdered sugar.

These recipes have been tested and approved by cooking authorities. You will get best results by using level measurements and the ingredients specified.

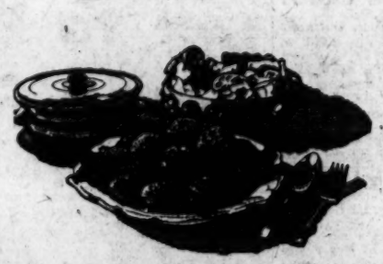
Ham and Chicken Croquettes

A French chef tells me that "French" frying is the hardest test a chef has to pass in France—and one of the simplest in America. And the difference lies in the frying fats. "In France," he says, "is used olive oil (costing much and disappearing with rapidity into smoke) or beef suet and chicken fat burning so violently that one must at hand have a heavy blanket."

In America, French frying is accomplished with Crisco, a pure, sweet shortening which quickly wraps around foods a delicate crisp brown coat, and adds a delightful, fresh flavor to foods cooked in it. And—Crisco can be kept at the proper cooking temperature without burning or smelling! Here is a novel croquette, of two leftovers, chicken and ham, to be French fried in Crisco:

2 tablespoons Crisco
1 teaspoon chopped onion
¼ cup flour
1 cup chicken broth
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon paprika
½ teaspoon pepper
dash of nutmeg
3 eggs (beaten yolks)
1¼ cups cooked chicken
¾ cup cold boiled ham

Cook onion in Crisco 3 minutes. Add flour and blend well. Then add chicken broth gradually, stirring constantly. Bring to boil and add seasoning, yolks of eggs slightly beaten and the chicken and ham cut in small cubes. Mix thoroughly and allow to cool. Shape, dip in crumbs, eggs, then crumbs again, fry in deep hot Crisco (390° F. or when a cube of bread browns in 40 seconds) and drain on absorbent paper. Remove to hot dish and garnish with parsley. This recipe serves six.



Fried Spinach Balls

"What to do with two cups of leftover spinach" was one housekeeper's problem—and I think you'll agree she solved it delightfully if you will try her recipe for French-fried Spinach Balls. Of course, when you fry them, you will want to use Crisco—the same cooking fat that so many chefs employ for French frying. Crisco gives fried foods a delightful flavor, because Crisco tastes so sweet and fresh itself.

2 cups cooked spinach, chopped
2 tablespoons Crisco
2 tablespoons grated onion
1 cup dry bread crumbs
2 tablespoons grated cheese
1 egg beaten
¼ teaspoon allspice
Egg and more crumbs

Combine ingredients and let stand 10 minutes to swell crumbs. Shape into balls. Put egg in bowl with ¼ cup water. Beat together until mixed. Roll balls in crumbs, then in egg and then in crumbs again. Drop in hot deep Crisco (390° F.) or when a bread crumb browns in 40 seconds, until brown. Drain on soft paper and serve.

Crisco was used in the Cooking School recently conducted by this paper

Mrs. Frances Northeross, in The Post Cooking School, made a point of modern methods in cooking. Naturally, then, she uses Crisco, the modern shortening. Not only is Crisco easy to use; in addition, it helps you secure better, surer results.

COMPARE VALUES BEFORE YOU BUY AN AUTOMOBILE

Low charges for distribution of the new Ford save you at least $50 to $75 in addition to the many savings in making the car

THESE are days when every dollar counts. The period of reckless spending is over. People are going back to the good old-fashioned principles of thrift and economy. Value is again being carefully considered.

Nowhere is this more important than in the selection of an automobile. For the purchase of a car represents a considerable investment. It should not be decided on hurriedly, but only after analyzing every important factor that concerns cost, value and performance. The time to do this is before buying—not afterward when it is too late.

ON THE basis of cost, performance and the actual comparative worth of every part, the new Ford is a value far above the price you pay. It is made of better materials and with greater care and accuracy because of the recognized efficiency and economy of Ford manufacturing methods.

The value of these methods is known and understood by millions of people. It is not generally realized, however, that these same principles of efficiency and economy are applied also to every step in the distribution of the Ford car. The low cost of selling, financing time payments, etc., means a direct saving to you of at least $50 to $75 in addition to the money saved by Ford economies in making the car. Here are three reasons why this is so.

(1) The Ford dealer does business on a smaller margin of profit because of the greater number of cars he sells. His discount or commission is the lowest of any automobile dealer. The difference in your favor, ranging from 25% to nearly 50%, comes right off the price you pay for the car.

(2) The Ford charges for financing are low.

(3) No expensive extra equipment is needed when you buy a Ford. It leaves the factory ready for use. The f.o.b. price includes a Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield and an extra steel-spoke wheel, in addition to four Houdaille double-acting shock absorbers and fully enclosed four-wheel brakes. Any accessories you may wish for your individual taste are sold considerably below the usual prices. None of these charges for selling, financing or accessories is marked up or increased to cover a high trade-in allowance on a used car.

Get all the facts, therefore, before you buy and figure out just what you are getting for your automobile dollars. Go beyond the f.o.b. price and find out how much more you pay the dealer than the dealer pays at the factory. Analyze the used car allowance. Compare all charges—item for item—value for value.

WHEN you do this you will have a new appreciation of what the Ford Motor Company and Ford dealers are doing to keep down the cost of Ford cars. You will also know why it is possible to put so much real value into the new Ford and still retain the low price. The money you pay goes for value in the car. It is not wasted in excessive costs in manufacturing or selling.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

A DAILY FOOD PLAN FOR YOUNG CHILDREN.

(Children's Bureau, Department of Labor.)

The child's meal times depends on the circumstances of the home. The following plan is suitable for many homes and many children:

BREAKFAST, 7--8 O'CLOCK.

Fresh fruit: Orange, grapefruit, apple.
Whole milk (1 or 2 cupfuls).
Bread with butter.
Cereal (3-6 tablespoonfuls).
Egg or bacon.

DINNER, 12--1 O'CLOCK.

Green vegetables, one or more (1-3 tablespoonsfuls): Chard, spinach, beet tops, turnip tops, or other cooked greens.
Lettuce, raw.
String beans or lima beans.
Green peas.
Asparagus.
Tomatoes, raw, stewed, or canned.
Cauliflower.
Cabbage, carrots, or celery; raw or cooked.
Meat or fish, finely cut up (1-3 tablespoonfuls): sometimes egg may be given instead.
Potatoes, rice, or plain boiled macaroni (2-3 tablespoonfuls).
Bread with butter, if the child is still hungry after the other foods are eaten.
Whole milk (1 cupful). This may be omitted if a quart is taken during the day.
Simple dessert, such as: Puddings—Bread pudding, rice pudding, tapioca pudding, junket, custard. Fruits—Prunes, stewed; apples, baked, in sauce, or raw; oranges, bananas, fully ripe; rhubarb, stewed; pears, stewed or baked.
(Plain ice cream made of milk or cream that has been pasteurized may be given occasionally as dessert.)

SUPPER, 5--5:30 O'CLOCK.

Whole milk (1 or 2 cupfuls).
Cereal (3 or 4 tablespoonfuls), milk toast, or egg.
Green vegetable or fruit as at dinner.
Bread with butter.

These New Salts Are Wonderful

That's Just What She Said—Just What He Said

AND A MILLION FAT FOLKS CAN'T BE WRONG

When you take vitalizing Kruschen Salts for a few days that old indolent armchair feeling deserts you—it doesn't matter how fat you are—the urge for activity has got you and you're stepping lively.

And best of all you like this activity—you walk a couple of miles and enjoy it—you thought you'd never dance again but you find you're getting as spry as ever—the old tingling active feeling reaches even your feet.

Kruschen is a combination of the six salts Nature has already put into your body to keep you alive—if it were not for these vital salts you could not live.

Why not try one 85 cent bottle of these rejuvenating salts—a bottle lasts 4 weeks and one bottle is enough to prove to you that Kruschen will make you feel younger—spryer—more energetic—you'll enjoy life—every minute of it.

As one stout woman wrote: "Kruschen Salts are worth their weight in gold to me."

A half teaspoonful in a glass of hot water every morning is all you need to keep healthy—keep your stomach, liver, bowels and kidneys in splendid condition—free your system from harmful toxins and acids.

IN THE PLAYHOUSE

By JOHN J. DALY

HARRY HENKEL, manager of Ford's Theater in Baltimore, having nothing else to do this week, his house dark, ran over to Washington yesterday afternoon to mark the progress being made in the construction of the new Commerce Department Building. It seems that an old friend of Mr. Henkel's has the contract. Looking at the edifice from a window of The Washington Post, the Baltimore manager exclaimed: "What a wonderful theater that would make."

• • • •

FOR old time's sake, Mr. Henkel journeyed last night to the Auditorium, there to watch Mr. Robert Downing in a revival of his old play, "Damon and Pythias." In the old days of the theater, Mr. Downing often played Ford's, in Baltimore, having journeyed along that route which comprised the best theaters in the land. Now he starts on a transcontinental journey that will take him to many cities where his favorite theaters have been turned into moving picture palaces. So goes the world.

• • • •

COMES word that Jimmie Lake, manager of the Gayety Theater, is about to take up the burdens of a comedian once again. Before engaging in the management of a theater, Mr. Lake once knocked the boys and girls out of their seats with his footlight antics. Next week, at the Gayety, he brings in his own show and will have an active part throughout the performance. To see this ought to be worth going the distance.

• • • •

MR. W. M. WILKISON, representing Gilbert Miller's Eastern "Journey's End" company, brought lots of cheer into this office yesterday afternoon when he came to announce the second next attraction at Poli's. Bill Wilkison is one of the real old-timers. There are only a few of them left. The theater is their love. He states, does Mr. Wilkison, that this so-called Eastern company was organized primarily to play Boston, Washington, Baltimore and Philadelphia. That it's a good company is a foregone conclusion; but here are two names that lift it out of the ordinary: Richard Bird, remembered for his work in Shaw's "Candida," at the National some years ago, and Henry Stephenson, who played the ambassador in "The Command to Love," last year at Poli's—with Mary Nash starred. Both are splendid actors.

• • • •

THESE be busy days in the National Theater. Next week, "Jonica," the new musical comedy, comes to close the regular season. After that Mr. Stephen Cochran's pride and joy, the National Theater Players, start their spring and summer season of repertoire. The ten weeks' subscription blanks all filled, attention is now confined to the week-by-week reservations, seats allotted with no obligation to pay unless used. On Monday the regular box office sale opens for the summer season.

• • • •

AT POLI'S, the management is making ready for the coming of Donald Brian in "The Merry Widow." This attraction is booked for next week, with a Monday night opening.

The American Oil Co. Announces 65 MORE Lord Baltimore Filling Stations in Washington

TO the 18 Lord Baltimore Stations already operating in the District will now be added the 65 Filling Stations previously operated by the Penn Oil Co.

This will give Lord Baltimore the most extensive and most conveniently located chain of service stations in the District--a total of 83 modern, completely equipped and competently manned stations at which you can obtain AMOCO-GAS, Orange AMERICAN GAS and AMOCO Motor Oils under ideal conditions.

In addition to these Lord Baltimore Stations there are hundreds of alert, progressive dealers selling AMOCO-GAS and Orange AMERICAN GAS through independent service stations and garages. And whether you're served from a Lord Baltimore Station or your neighborhood dealer you are assured, wherever you are, of super products and super-service.

The American Oil Company has also taken over the bulk plant and distributing equipment of the Penn Oil Company and will now be in a position to keep pace with the steadily growing demand for its products on the part of Washington motorists.

Due to the technical difficulties involved in the installation of new tanks, pumps and other equipment, there will be some delay in the taking over of so large a number of stations by The American Oil Co. But as rapidly as possible, the necessary changes will be made and all 83 stations will soon be properly equipped to supply American Oil Company products and to operate with the efficiency and courtesy typical of Lord Baltimore service.

The acquisition of this large chain of stations in the District is in line with The American Oil Company's general policy of expansion necessary to take care of an always increasing demand for its products. The American Oil Company is now operating in eleven states and is constantly adding new outlets so as to serve its customers better.

The American Oil Company is affiliated with the Pan American Petroleum and Transport Company and is a strong link in one of the largest oil-producing and marketing chains in the world.

Turning the light of Truth on false and misleading statements in recent cigarette advertising

WHAT ANOTHER MANUFACTURER of cigarettes chooses to say about his product is not our affair. Even when he sees fit to misrepresent his product and leave false impressions concerning it, that still is his business—not ours.

But—when, in his advertising, he goes beyond his own product and makes false statements or leaves misleading impressions about other cigarettes—then it is time that the truth be told.

> "The extra secret heating process removes from (————) harmful irritants, corrosive acrids, which are present in cigarettes manufactured in the old-fashioned way, and which cause throat irritation and coughing."
> "No matter how much or how little you pay for cigarettes you have a choice of only two general classes, and not more than two. In one class you have the billions of cigarettes manufactured in the old-fashioned way and in the other class you have (————), the toasted cigarette, a product of modern science, a cigarette from which harmful irritants have been removed by that extra secret process described by the phrase 'It's Toasted'."

WHEN THESE STATEMENTS were first made, we assumed that they were a casual phase of that manufacturer's advertising and did not represent a deliberate and calculated policy. After making a few such statements, he abandoned this particular form of advertising. However, other statements used in his advertising came to the attention of the Federal Trade Commission on a question of their truthfulness.

As a result of the action of the Federal Trade Commission he was ordered to stop his admitted practice of using in his advertising false testimonials of non-smokers to the effect that they kept slender by smoking his brand of cigarettes, and was further ordered to stop using other fake testimonials and the specious argument that all can keep slender by smoking that brand of cigarettes. He then began to use again the form of statement quoted above or variations of it.

IF ANY MANUFACTURER chooses to say that the tobaccos he uses contain "harmful irritants, corrosive acrids, that are injurious to the throat," and then to claim that these things are removed by the heat-treating process, that is his own affair. But when he tries to create the impression that it is general practice to use in cigarettes such rank tobaccos as he describes, we object to the attempted reflection on the industry.

We have never used in our blend those rank tobaccos which can be properly described as containing "harmful irritants, corrosive acrids," nor do we believe that they are used by some of the other manufacturers.

If that manufacturer wishes to advertise heat treatment, calling it toasting or what-not, that is his right. But when, in so doing, he tries to create the impression that he is the only maker of cigarettes who treats tobaccos with heat, the truth again needs to be told.

The publication of a fake testimonial is no greater perversion of the truth than to imply that the heat treatment of tobaccos is an exclusive process with any single manufacturer.

THE FACT is that the use of heat treatment in the manufacture of tobacco is about the most commonplace and universally practiced method in the industry. It has long been standard practice.

We use heat treatment in its most modern and scientific application, both in the preparation and in the manufacture of those mild, fragrant, ripe tobaccos that carry their natural goodness into CAMELS.

The first CAMEL Cigarette we ever made was manufactured under the heat-treating process. Every one of the billions of CAMELS produced since has been manufactured under heat treatment. We rely upon heat to the limits of its possibilities to make our good tobaccos better. It cannot make inferior tobaccos good.

WHETHER OR NOT a manufacturer, to have something to talk to the public about, attaches a contrivance to his heat-treating machines to catch, condense and bottle the vapors that come from them can have no more effect toward improving the tobacco than your catching and bottling the vapors that come from your teapot would have toward improving the tea in the pot.

Our own brand, CAMEL, continues to grow, but we are, nevertheless, unwilling to let these far-reaching false statements or impressions regarding the cigarette industry go uncorrected.

Fifth Ave. Fashions NEW YORK

MORE and more attention is being paid to styling for the woman who is beyond average figure. The couturiers are making a sincere effort to offer the newest styles so designed as to produce a slenderizing effect.

The intricate diagonal lines at front are what break the width to lengthen the silhouette. The back, too, speaks for itself with fashionable seaming that Paris is using for decorative idea and to give length to the figure.

The seams at back reach to the waistline with inverted plaits below forming a center box plait or panel. These inverted plaits add a nice fullness to hem. The cluster plaits at front flare prettily in motion. They are stitched part way to keep the hips slender.

Inset pockets with flaps are placed diagonally.

It comes in sizes 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48 inches bust.

Wool jersey, covert cloth, wool crepe. Flat silk crepe in plain or print and canton crepe appropriate.

All patterns of Lucille Lorraine styles are 15 cents each. Mail your order to our Fashion Department, The Washington Post, 259 Fifth avenue, New York City. Be sure to write your name and address clearly and give the number and size of the pattern.

VICHY (FRANCE)

You Will Find at Vichy the Cure for Your Ills.

Do you suffer from liver or stomach troubles? Then go to Vichy. Ask the nearest Agent of the French Line, Cie. Generale Transatlantique, for details of the Contract Cure, and determine your expenses in advance.

You can enjoy your favorite sports all the time you are staying at Vichy. There is the Casino with all its attractions, golf, tennis, healthful excursions, including the Bourbonnais country, to mention only a few.

A clear skin is irresistible!

A clear, smooth, lovely skin enhances personal attractiveness. Men admire it. Women praise and secretly envy. More happiness and friends may depend upon it.

Thousands have turned to S.S.S. when the appetite first signaled danger. It is a time-tested remedy. Purely vegetable. Easily assimilated. Pleasant to take.

YOUR popularity may depend upon a clear, smooth, lovely skin. It is the accepted way of telling the degree of health a person possesses. Naturally a skin which bespeaks health attracts.

Skilled physicians recognize the appearance of skin blemishes, lack of appetite, flabby flesh and loss of energy as an indication that the body's power of resistance is low—that there is a deficiency of red-blood-cells.

The way to the skin is through the blood. Strong, healthy blood nourishes the body and promotes smooth, clear skin.

Many thousands have regained their strength and charm by taking S.S.S. It is Nature's own blood tonic for raising the body's power of resistance to infection and disease, improving the appetite, building firm flesh and clearing the skin.

S.S.S. promotes healthy body building. It increases the number of red-blood-cells. It is made from strictly fresh vegetable drugs and has a successful record of over 100 years back of it.

All good drug stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

Bridge Play Governed by Inferences

Experts in Game Over Radio Take Advantage of Their Study of Bids Made by Players; Exhibition Analyzed.

The Radio Bridge Game—No. 18 in Milton C. Work's current series—broadcast yesterday afternoon from Station WRC, was notable as a demonstration of the way in which a Bridge expert makes advantageous use of the inferences he draws from the bids of the various players.

The exhibition players were: Mrs. Harry B. Jones, of Youngstown, Ohio; Mrs. Isabel Jenkins, of Ottawa, Canada; Ely Culbertson, of New York City, and Lieut. Alfred M. Gruenther, U. S. A., of West Point.

Lieut. Gruenther, as Dealer, South, held: Spades, A, 7, 6, 4; Hearts, 8, 7, 4; Diamonds, K, Q, 8, 6, 5; Clubs, 8; not a strong hand, but with its five-card Spade suit headed by King-Queen, and its side Ace, too strong to pass. He bid one Spade. Mr. Culbertson, West, bid one No Trump, on: Spades, K, J; Hearts, A, K, J; Diamonds, A, 4, 3; Clubs, A, K, Q, 8, 3. While he had the adverse suit stopped only once, his hand unassisted assured eight No Trump tricks supposing that the Clubs would run. Mrs. Jones, North, was obliged to pass. Her hand was: Spades, Q, 10, 9; Hearts, Q, 5, 3, 2; Diamonds, 9, 7; Clubs, 10, 9, 7, 4. Mrs. Jenkins, East, holding: Spades, 9, 5, 3, 2; Hearts, 10, 9, 6; Diamonds, J, 10, 2; Clubs, J, 5, 2, had no possibility of a bid. Lieut. Gruenther, who had bid the full strength of his hand on the first round, could do nothing but pass on the second.

Mrs. Jones, North, appreciated that since her partner's Diamond suit had been strong enough to bid, it furnished a more advantageous opening than either of her own four-card suits; so she led the 9 of Diamonds. When Mr. Culbertson, West, surveyed East's hand as Dummy, he saw it held substantial assistance in its lowly Jacks; the Jack of Clubs solidified that suit, and the Jack-Ten of Diamonds enabled Dummy to cover North's 9, thus forcing Lieut. Gruenther South, to play a Diamond honor and break the back of his Diamond suit. On Dummy's 10 Lieut Gruenther played the Queen; Mr Culbertson, West, Declarer, false-carded the 4.

Lieut. Gruenther could not afford to lead Diamonds away from his K-8 up to Declarer's Ace and Dummy's Jack; neither did he want to start the Spade suit, as to do so might hasten the drawing of the Spade Ace from his hand. He particularly wanted to retain the Ace as an entry until after his partner had obtained the lead, if that were possible, and continued the Diamonds through Dummy's Jack. The singleton Club obviously was a bad lead; so Lieut. Gruentheer's only choice was to lead Hearts. Generally when leading from a three-card suit up to weakness in Dummy, the highest of the three is chosen, but in this case Lieut. Gruenther led the 4-spot, his lowest Heart, as he wanted the Declarer to place a high Heart in his hand. He hoped to deceive the Declarer into finessing, thereby permitting North to obtain the lead. But Mr. Culbertson did not yield to the Heart-finesse temptation. He knew he could finesse later if he wished to, while Lieut. Gruenther, South, might have the Queen of Hearts, if would place the Declarer in a serious position if North won this trick with it and established the Diamonds—as she could do by another Diamond lead—while South still had the Ace of Spades.

Mr. Culbertson was certain South had the Ace of Spades because without it South would not have had the strength for his initial Diamond bid. Even if he held both the Queen of Spades and the Queen of Hearts with his King-Queen-high Diamond suit, he still would have to hold the Ace of Spades to aggregate the two quick tricks his original bid indicated.

So to trick two Mr. Culbertson played the Ace of Hearts; North played the Trey, knowing she could complete the signal or not, as seemed advisable on the next round of Hearts; Dummy the 6.

Declarer then took the Ace and King of Clubs, North playing the 4 and 7; Dummy the 2 and 5; South the 8 of Clubs and the 4 of Spades, discarding the Spade instead of a card from his worthless Heart suit to mislead Declarer into thinking he was guarding a Heart honor. Declarer continued Clubs, leading the Trey, in order to enter East's hand for the lead through South he must make to gain his ninth and game-saving trick. North played the 9 of Clubs; Dummy the Jack; South the 6 of Spades, continuing his deceptive tactics.

Declarer could count eight sure tricks—five Clubs, two Hearts and one Diamond. He had declared that South must hold the Ace of Spades, therefore a Spade lead from Dummy must make the King in the closed hand a winner. So, although the play of Lieut. Guenther, in the South, indicated that the Heart Queen was in his hand and that a Heart finesse would succeed, Declarer was too seasoned a player to be decoyed away from what was practically a certainty into taking an unnecessary risk, particularly when the latter play must be based upon inferences drawn from the play of a skilled adversary who might be anxious to deceive a trusting Declarer.

Consequently, Declarer led Dummy's Deuce of Spades to the sixth trick; South played the 7, hoping that Declarer would finesse and give North the lead; Declarer played his King, for reasons already explained; and North played the 8. To trick seven Declarer led the Queen of Clubs; North played the 10; Dummy discarded the 9 of Hearts and South the 5 of Diamonds. Declarer continued with the 6 of Clubs. North discarded the 5 of Hearts, not wishing to complete her signal; Dummy discarded the Trey of Spades, and South the 6 of Diamonds. In making this discard South appreciated that it might be necessary for him to keep two Hearts. Should he discard a Heart on this trick, and Declarer should then lead a Heart followed by a Spade, forcing South in the lead, he would have to lead away from his Diamonds.

But Declarer, with game in his hand, did not risk trying to place the lead with the hope of making an extra trick. To tricks nine and ten he led the King of Hearts and the Ace of Diamonds, all players following suit. The last three tricks he conceded to his adversaries. He scored 30 for his three tricks—game—at No Trump, and 30 above the line for his three Aces.

In his talk on the way the hand was bid and played, Mr. Work commended Mrs. Jones, North, for drawing the correct inference from Lt. Gruenther's original Diamond bid, and deciding on his suit as the best one to open. Too often, according to Mr. Work, players refrain from opening a suit bid by partner when it has been overcalled by an adverse No Trump, reasoning that the Declarer is expecting the suit to be led and must be able to take care of it, and that it will be better to surprise him by leading something else. Then there is also the player who places a higher value on his own cards than on those of his partner, and who leads his own suit when he might better lead the one his partner has named. It is not an invariable rule that partner's suit must be opened against a No Trump, but nine times out of ten it is the best policy unless the leader has an established suit or one he knows he can establish and run. Mr. Work also praised Declarer's Spade lead from Dummy, based upon the positive inference that the Ace was in the South hand.

At Contract, after Dealer's Diamond bid, Mr. Work would have West bid three No Trumps, on the basis that though two No Trumps doubtless would be a safer bid still West could not expect a jump from a partner holding as little as the Queen of Hearts, and yet that card would practically assure a No Trump game.

Dare Interprets the Mode

Paris, March 18.

FASHION is an evolution, not a revolution. Unthinking people who were looking for startling developments in the mode for this summer, based upon the hints laid down by the fashion dictators during the winter, were disappointed.

Anticipating the possibility of this disappointment, such real leaders of fashions as Worth and Patou were very careful to explain to their clients and the press the reasons why it would no longer be possible or practical to attempt to force upon intelligent womankind radical style changes.

Because we simply would not accept it, that's all. If we did, it would be an insult to our intelligence, that intelligence that we have so valiantly fought for.

Clever couturiers, to admit feminine intelligence! Clever women, to make them! So let's go on being clever, and not show even the possibility of stupidity by looking for and expecting and possibly being disappointed in not finding exaggerated and radical style changes in these more intelligent and reasoning days.

• • • •

Suzanne Talbot has a style that is unmistakably Talbot and while it is a silhouette that I personally adore, it is one not for the average consumption, as it were. But for the woman that the Talbot silhouette belongs to there is nothing more delightful.

Look at the light brown crepe romain ensemble that I sketched for you today! See what a distinctive silhouette it has, and how altogether desirable and practical. This spring ensemble is a Talbot silhouette at its best.

There are one or two of the smart short evening coat designs that are really very simple to make—and those are the very ones that I have put into a leaflet for you this week. Now you can have an evening wrap with every dress or so! Just send a stamped self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post and save by making your own evening wraps, the price of one really good ermine or fox collar and cuff set which you can baste onto each of the coats!

Only the Sunday Post, in Washington publishes the weekly Dare fashion letter. It appears each Sunday and we advise you to look for it regularly.

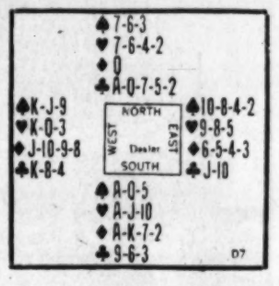
AUCTION AND CONTRACT BRIDGE
MILTON C. WORK
(The World's Leading Authority.)

MISPLAYED HANDS I HAVE MET.



With the above hand the Auction Bridge bidding would be: South one No Trump, followed by three passes.

The Contract bidding would be: South one No Trump, North two Clubs and South, three No Trumps. The Contract South, with a count of 18, would bid only one No Trump because of the unstopped Clubs. With three suits stopped, and no suit shorter than three cards, South should have bid two No Trumps had his count been 19. Of course, after North's showing of Club assistance, there was no doubt as to the advisability of a game bill by South.

When the hand was played, West led the Jack of Diamond and dummy's Queen held the trick. North then led a Heart, South finessing the Jack. West's Queen won and the Diamonds were continued. South won and led a Club, dummy finessed the Queen and led for a second Heart finesse, which, however, West won. West then led the third Diamond and South won and led his Ace of Hearts, which, fortunately for the Declarer, resulted in the establishment of a thirteenth Heart in the North hand. A Club followed; dummy's Ace took the trick and the thirtenth Heart was cashed. Then came a Spade finesse, which lost; so the Declarer made a total of one Spade, two Hearts, three Diamonds and two Clubs, failing to make game because of bad luck in his major fineness which more than offset his good luck in getting an even break of the Hearts.

The Correct Play.

The best method for a Declarer to adopt with the above holding would be to lead a small Club from the dummy after winning the first trick. One Club must be lost and it might just as well be that one. Then, with East continuing the Diamonds and South winning, the Club finesse could be tried. Played in that way, the Declarer would make one Spade, one Heart, three Diamonds and four Clubs—game.

You needn't risk health or comfort

Women can now select the same sanitary protection that 85% of America's leading hospitals prefer

YOUR health, your nerves, your vitality suffer if the proper health protection is not observed at certain times. And one of the most important safeguards to health is the right sanitary protection.

Let hospitals guide you

Now you can let hospitals guide you in your choice of sanitary protection, because 85% of them, the great outstanding hospitals of America, today use the very same material of which Kotex is made! This is Cellucotton (not cotton) absorbent wadding . . . a cellulose substance which, for sanitary purposes, performs the same sanitary function as the finest cotton, but with five times the absorbency.

Think what this means! It means that they have found Kotex absorbent more efficient, more comfortable for their patients, just as you will find Kotex more comfortable for regular use.

The layers upon layers of Cellucotton remove the moisture quickly from the surface, and keep it comfortable, safe, dainty.

The fact that Kotex deodorizes is another aid to daintiness. And—the first reason that many women began using Kotex: it is disposable, instantly and completely. That alone is enough to have changed the hygienic habits of women all over the world.

Kotex Company, Chicago, Ill.

KOTEX IS SOFT . . .

1—Not a deceptive softness, that soon packs into chafing hardness. But a delicate, fleecy softness that lasts for hours.

3—Deodorizes, safely, thoroughly, by a special process.

4—Disposable completely instantly.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

BED-WETTING.

THE way to stop bed-wetting is to want to stop—that is, want to do so hard enough. This is the opinion of Dr. R. C. Hamill. He expresses his opinion so convincingly that I know of no better way for an interested parent to spend 25 cents than for the July 27, 1929, issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association. Let that interested parent not only read this article, but wrestle with it, as the preacher advises the sinner to do with his problem.

Dr. Hamill reports on 80 cases seen in the Children's Memorial Hospital of Chicago. In this institution children who bed-wet are referred to the department of nervous diseases for study of their behavior. Ten of the 80 cases were not treated for one reason or another. In five, no treatment was given because the parents were antagonistic; one mother would not bring her child back because the doctor gave him no medicine. Forty of the seventy children treated were cured, some in one day and one treatment, and many in a week or thereabouts. Eleven were improved, but were still under treatment when the report was made. Eight were improved, but were not cured nor were they under treatment. Two were unimproved, two relapsed after having improved, seven were unimproved and had stopped treatment.

The treatment is wholly mental. The child is impressed with the fact that he bed-wets because he wants to—at least, he had rather wet the bed than get up in the dark or in the cold or something else. He is told that he can stop when he wants to. The parents come in for their share of the treatment, and theirs is the larger share. The real problem is treating the parents of the bed-wetting child, and making them like to accept, fall in with it and do their part in carrying it out. As a rule the principal obstacle to a cure is the suggestions made to the child and to young children parental suggestion is all powerful.

They must stop putting evil thoughts into the minds of their children if they want to find dry sheets in the morning. Next Dr. Hamill whips the physicians. They, too, add to the difficulties of the problem with their operations on tonsils and circumcisions, their painting with nitrate of silver and dosing with atropin, their changing of habits of water drinking and eating. What they say to parents reaches the children directly or indirectly and supplies fine excuses for continuation of the habit.

Dr. Hamill abandons all of this. He puts the responsibility squarely up to the child and makes him carry it. He persuades the parent to hold the child squarely to that responsibility. And that is the sum total of the treatment.

A STANDING AFFLICTION.

Constant reader writes: I have fallen arches, and the doctor wants me to have plates made for my shoes. I am 30 years old. Will these help me?

How long do you think I will have to wear them, as they are quite heavy and I stand most of the day?

My daughter, 13, is wearing them. Why is it that we both have the same trouble? Is it inherited?

REPLY.

Plates and other forms of arch supports sometimes give temporary relief. Worn permanently they sometimes make matters worse. You and your daughter should learn to walk pigeon-toed. You should build up the muscles of your legs and feet by exercise. This is the method of treatment for weak feet, slew-foot, or fallen arches. It is possible both you and your daughter have inherited a tendency for the toes to turn out. This mechanical arrangement is the cause of fallen arches.

SWISS BEATS CONGER AT 1,000 YARDS IN RECORD TIME; WOLTZ FIVE ROUTS CALVARY DRAKES IN POST TOURNEY

Y.M.C.A. TEAM BEATS BRENTWOOD HAWKS IN BASKET BALL UPSET

Terneak's Basket in Last Ten Seconds Decides, 31-29.

Optimist, Westerners and Chevy Chase Also Triumph.

THE Woltz Photographer Quintet, defending District unlimited champions, set aside their second obstacle in the A. A. U. tournament at Tech High last night when the Calvary Drakes were eliminated, 47 to 17. It was the first appearance of the Drakes, who drew a bye for the first round.

The Drakes gave the champions a spirited battle for the first 15 minutes, but at intermission the Woltzmen had assumed a 20 to 9 lead. The victors, with Buscher and MacCartee doing most of the scoring, completely outclassed their rivals in the second half. Forney was banished in the first half. Barker led the defeated team in general play as well as in scoring.

The Y. M. C. A.-Brentwood Hawk contest proved the first outstanding thriller of the tournament with the former gaining a 31-to-29 decision in the last thirty seconds of play after trailing the Prince Georges County League champions all the way.

Two one-sided engagements opened the night's program with the Boys' Club Optimists romping over the Kendalls in a 145-pound second round fray, 24 to 7, and the Westerners outclassing the Noel House Team, 52 to 10, in a 130-pound class initial round game.

The afternoon game between the Chevy Chase and St. Paul's junior girls teams proved as much a rout for the Chevy Chase Team, which eliminated its rival, 48 to 2, thereby becoming eligible for the final game of that division.

Terneak's Basket Decides Issue.

After holding the lead from the start until within three minutes of the end of the game, the Brentwood Hawks were eliminated in the most spirited battle of the tournament to date by the Y. M. C. A. cagers, 31 to 29.

With George Sullivan setting the pace, the Brentwood clan moved far in front at the outset and was breezing along with an 11-to-5 advantage after ten minutes of play and was still in the van, 16 to 11, at intermission. The Red Triangle passers spurted but were still dogging the pace-making Hawks at the close of the third period, 23 to 20.

Thorton, substituting at center for Tex, flipped a basket into the net to tie the score at 27-27 late in the final period, but Sullivan made another bid to carry the Hawks to victory, tossing a long shot to put his team 2 points in front again. It was Augie Terneak who shot the final and deciding basket to give the Y Team victory with but 30 seconds of play remaining.

Yowell and Fox Lead Westerner Attack.

The Noel House 130-pounders fell a victim of the high-powered Westerners, who swept through their opposition to a 52-to-10 triumph. It was the first appearance of each team.

Roy Yowell led the steam roller attack of the victors, accounting for eight field goals and a foul shot. Clarence Fox scored 13 points for the winners.

The Westerners took a commanding 20-to-6 lead in the first half, but were not content to rest on their success, continuing their offensive with even more telling efect in the closing half.

65 Hours Swimming Claimed as New Record

Buenos Aires, March 18 (A.P.).—What was claimed to be a world's record for distance and permanency in water was established yesterday by the Argentine swimmer, Pedroa Candiotti, who in 65 hours and 54 minutes swam down river 390 kilometers (about 240 miles).

London, March 18 (A.P.).—J. H. Taylor, five times open golf champion of Great Britain who enters his sixtieth year tomorrow, has announced his retirement from championship golf.

"I shall not play in the open championship at Hoylake," said Taylor. "It is beyond the power of a man of my age to play six rounds of championship golf and do well in all of them."

Broken Gasoline Line Mars Silver Bullet Test

Ocean Speedway, Daytona Beach, Fla., March 18 (A.P.).—After making two runs over the Ocean Speedway for an average speed of 168 miles an hour, Kaye Don, British champion for the world's automobile speed record, was forced to postpone his test trials late today because of motor trouble. He broke a gasoline line, but said repairs would be made in time for another series of test runs tomorrow.

After his first run over the course at a speed of 164 miles an hour, and a return trip at 172, the gasoline line snapped just as he started down the beach again on his third run. Mechanics worked feverishly in an attempt to repair the difficulty, but the tide then was sweeping in over the course and the trials were postponed until tomorrow.

Between Don's runs, C. L. Cummins, of Columbus, Ind., established the first world's speed record for an autobile powered with a Diesel engine. He made three runs over the course, his two fastest trips averaging 79.902 miles an hour.

stand their ground against whatever odds in war. But this problem will be overcome, if not by an appeal to their comradeship then by an appeal to their respect for authority.

The settlement is certain to accord the Army the right to use any cadet on the team for three years regardless of any previous 'varsity football service in civilian schools and each side will acknowledge the other's right to keep its own conscience. The Army's justification of its stand will be that Congress established the maximum age for entrance at West Point as 22 years with the definite purpose of attracting boys from civilian colleges.

There was a time only a year or two ago when, if the Army had consented to disqualify for football all cadets with three years of 'varsity football service in civilian colleges and at the academy, having already disqualified the entire plebe class, there would have been only about 500 men from whom to select a 'varsity squad. This would have reduced the Army, for football purposes, to the strength of a very minor school and the new understanding will not insist upon the imposition of any such possibility on the Military Academy.

Whether or not the Navy will wish to return to the same rule of eligibility for the Army game remains to be decided by the Navy. The Army never has objected to the Navy's rules governing such matters since a long-forgotten row in the undergraduate days of officers who are now far advanced in their careers. In that case, as Army officers with long memories have explained to me, the Navy had been recalling ensigns who then held a hybrid probationary status, from their ship or stations and using them for a fifth year on the team.

West Point Respected Navy's Protest.

The Navy quit doing that, but years later challenged the Army's right to do practically the same thing in using cadets who had been turned back at some stage of their West Point careers and readmitted later. At least one instance of this occurred since the World War and the Army, at the suggestion of Admiral Wilson, then superintendent of the Naval Academy, agreed not to permit turnbacks to play more than four years at the Military Academy. Then, out of respect for the Navy's wishes, the Army adopted the three-year rule which eliminates plebes from the varsity squad, and the West Point conditions of eligibility were stabilized there.

If the conferees, who will adjust the quarrel were of a mind to argue each point to a win-or-lose decision no settlement could be reached without the exercise of departmental or Presidential coercion. But in the recent discussions there has been a mutual disposition to have done with quibbling, to reestablish the old cordiality between the two arms and get on with the game, sparing each side humiliation.

Just how both sides are to emerge with a sense of having won an argument in which one service is bound to yield its contentions is a problem of diplomacy which the men who are handling the settlement feel confident of solving. It may seem impossible to the lay mind but then, I gather that it is a matter of great regret that this thing ever was submitted to the lay minds of the country.

Britten 2 Years Late In His Aim.

The important thing is that on the word of an authority much more competent than Congressman Fred A. Britten, of Chicago, a fairly competent authority on the Navy side, himself, being chairman of the House naval affairs committee, the settlement is imminent, the Navy wants to play, so does the Army, and there will be a game next fall. Moreover, the old Army-Navy football contract, which still called for three more games when it was abrogated by Admiral Louis M. Nulton in 1927 will be torn up and forgotten and the new relationship will be undertaken with less formality and greater mutual trust. Mr. Britten said the series would resume in Chicago in 1932. He was too conservative by two years but Chicago will get a game.

Maj. Philip Fleming, athletic officer of the Military Academy, said last Saturday that he didn't believe West Point wanted a post-season game this year, remembering the trip to California last December. But, of course, a game on the Eastern seaboard one week or two weeks after the meeting with Notre Dame would impose no such strain of prolonged training and travel on the Army team as was necessitated by the game during Christmas week on the Pacific Coast, and the concession undoubtedly will be agreed to, considering the object involved.

High Authority Says Settlement Imminent.

If I seem to be assuming oracular authority in all this it is only because this is being written in Washington where existence moves in official circles and one obtains information from such creatures of convenience as the White House spokesman and Mr. High Authority. I got mine from Mr. High Authority, but he said it would be all right to say flatly that the settlement was imminent and that the Army and the Navy would start playing again next fall. He knows so much that he can't be mistaken about this.

Carnera's Earnings for Ten Bouts Pass $100,000 Mark

ST. LOUIS, March 18 (A.P.).—Primo Carnera, giant Italian fighter, passed the $100,000 mark in his American earnings when he knocked out Chuck Wiggins here last night.

A compilation of figures obtained today from Leon See, his manager, showed that Carnera has received $103,391 for his ten fights in the United States.

He won all ten fights by knockouts in a total of 21 rounds. See's figures on the results of Carnera's fights and the money he has earned are:

Newark, N. J., Cowboy Owens, two rounds, $7,382.

St. Louis, Buster Martin, two rounds, $9,569.

Memphis, Joe Sigmund, one round, $3,439.

New Orleans, Farmer Lodge, two rounds, $3,984.

Philadelphia, Ace Clark, six rounds, $16,833.

Minneapolis, Sully Montgomery, two rounds, $7,500.

St. Louis, Chuck Wiggins, two rounds, $15,332.

1930 PIRATES PIN HOPES ON PUNCH

This is another of a series of first-hand Associated Press stories on major league baseball prospects.

By RUSSELL J. NEWLAND.

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., March 18 (A.P.).—The Pittsburgh Pirates will gamble for the 1930 National League pennant with a "punch at the plate."

In the line-up of the team that just broken training camp at Paso Robles for a series of exhibition games in the San Francisco Bay region are more potential .300 hitters than usually grace the pay rolls of a major circuit club.

The infield appears to be a "big stick," one which is the answer to any manager's prayer. Gussie Suhr, recruit first baseman obtained from San Francisco Seals, has fitted into Manager Jewel Ens' scheme of things. The husky youngster who bats from the left side, hit 51 home runs last season in the Pacific Coast League and if he clouts out half that many this year, his new manager will be satisfied.

George Grantham, the handy man of the Pirate infield, will hold down second base. Last season without playing the last two months, he pounded in 90 runs. Capt. Harold "Pie" Traynor's fine ability at the plate is well known and he is one of the best third baseman in the business.

Bartell, Shortstop, Improved Hitter.

Dick Bartell, shortstop, lightest hitter among the regular infielders, demonstrated during the few days he was in camp that his batting eye has sharpened during the off season. Bartell and his bosses failed to get together on salary terms at first, and the youngster did not report until the training program was well under way.

Pitching problems may pop up for the Pirates, although those in charge are reluctant to concede the point. Burleigh Grimes, right-handed ace, is holding out for a two-year contract, which is contrary to the Pittsburgh management's policy. Whether it is forthcoming or not, the fact remains that Grimes' mound work last year was one of the chief reasons why the Pirates were in the pennant running until the last few weeks.

Mosolf Only Rookie To Make Grade.

Aside from Grimes, Pittsburgh has a bulky hurling staff led by Ray Kremer and Jess Petty, seasoned campaigners, and Larry French, Honey Meine, Steve Swetonic, Ervin Brame, and "Lil" Stoner, all experienced. Three youngsters, Leon Chagnon, Ralph Erickson and Glennie Spencer, will be carried until the season is at least well under way. Petty and French are the left-handed regulars, while Erickson also flings from the port side.

The team that gave the Chicago Cubs a tough tussle until the closing weeks is practically intact for 1930, but at least one youngster has "crashed the gate." He is James Mosolf, acquired last year from Wichita, of the Western League. Mosolf appears to be a natural hitter, and his left-handed wallops have temporarily won him a berth as understudy to First Baseman Luhr.

The first-string catching job is still one to be decided. Until Al Bool was purchased last winter from the Baltimore Internationals, Ralston Hemsley appeared to be the favorite, but since Charley Hargreaves, one of the club's oldsters, has shown a return to form during the training season, the backstop situation may not be cleared up until the Pirates get on the ground for their opener. Bool, however, has given indication of being the heavy hitter of the trio.

TIGERS BEAT CARDINALS BY 8-5

Carmen Hill's Wildness in Seventh Decides Game.

BRADENTON, Fla., March 18 (A.P.).—Wildness by Carmen Hill in the seventh inning gave the detroit Tigers a victory over the St. Louis Cardinals in an exhibition game here today, 8 to 5.

It was the fourth defeat of the spring season for the Cardinals, who have scored three victories. Sparky Adams, Cardinal second baseman, had a perfect day at bat with four hits.

Big Inning Gives Braves Victory.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 18 (A.P.). One bad inning cost the New York Yankees a ball game with the Boston Braves today, the final score being 7 to 5.

With Bill Henderson in the box, the Braves put togethey three walks and a like number of doubles to score five runs in the sixth inning. The Yanks outhit their National League rivals, 13 to 8, but their blows were kept scattered by Selbold, Jones and Smith. Waite Hoyt, making his first appearance of the season with the Yanks, was scored on twice in four innings. Following his failure to get a hit yesterday, Babe Ruth had to be content with a single today.

White Sox Welcome Smead Jolly.

San Antonio, Tex., March 18 (A.P.). With rain again stopping an exhibition game with the New York Giants, the White Sox today welcomed to their midst "Smead" Jolley, the $50,000 outfielder who has finally wandered into camp. Manager Donie Bush, who has been worrying about his hitting hopeful, sported a broad smile after a talk with Jolley.

Cubs to Start Long Exhibition Card.

Avalon, Calif., March 18 (A.P.).—Manager McCarthy sent his drillweary Cubs through a limbering-up workout today and then started to break up the near-one-month-old camp.

The squad will leave the island for Los Angeles tomorrow afternoon and will be joined by Coach Ray Schalk's "Goofs," who have been trying to give an exhibition down at San Diego. Starting Thursday with Portland, the Cubs open an exhibition series of 21 games, 17 of which are to be played in Los Angeles and 4 at Kansas City.

Robins Beat Browns In Hurling Duel.

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 18 (A.P.).—The Brooklyn Robins won a well-pitched exhibition game from the St. Louis Browns here today, 2 to 1. The Robins were the first major league club the Browns have faced this year.

Walter Stewart and Herman Holshouser pitched for the Browns, and Luque, Durley and Moss for the Robins. Holshouser was charged with the defeat, while Moss was credited with the victory.

Red Veterans Suffer Slight Ailments.

Orlando, Fla., March 18 (A.P.).—The Cincinnati Reds had no exhibition game scheduled today, but were not permitted to loaf, Manager Dan Howley driving the players through a stiff three-hour practice session.

A few casualties were reported at the close of the drill, Ray Kolp and Pete Donohue, veteran pitchers, developed Charley horses, and Harry Heilmann, former American League batting champion, threw only a few balls until he learned his arm had

Six World Records Broken By Girl, 16, in Swim Race

The records were for free style swimming, 200, 220, 300, 400, 440 and 500 yards over the short course.

220 yards, 2:39, against 2:41 1-5, the previous record.

300 yards, 3:41, compared with 3:47 2-5.

400 yards, 5 minutes flat, the old record being 5:15.

500 yards, 6:17, compared with 6:36.

Miss Eleanor Holm, New York aquatic star, shatered the record for the 100-meter back stroke, making the distance in 1:22 3-5, compared with the old record of 1:23 2-5.

Miss Madison's performance ranks among the most remarkable in women's aquatics since Gertrude Ederle, the famous English Channel conqueror, smashed six world's records in a 500-yard race at the Brighton Beach Pool, Brooklyn, on September 4, 1922. Like Miss Madison, this startling feat was accomplished by Miss Ederle at a time when she first was attracting attention as the successor to Ethelda Bleibtrey in speed swimming.

Goslin Denies Feud in Wire To Johnson

Apology Superfluous, Is First Word From Nats' Holdout.

May Pave Way for Signing; Deal With Indians Reported.

BILOXI, Miss., March 18.—Manager Walter Johnson this afternoon received a telegram from Outfielder (Goose) Goslin, which might be taken as a sign that the "Wild Goose of the Potomac," is about ready to yield, in his salary argument with Clark Griffith, owner of the Washington Club.

This telegram was sent after Goslin apparently had read in a press report that it would be necessary for him to apologize to Johnson for a statement credited him to the effect that he would not play with the Nats with Johnson as manager because of personal differences.

It stated that he was making no apology for the simple reason that he has never said that he would not work under Johnson, hence any apology would be superfluous.

As Griffith has declared that it will be necessary for Goslin to clear himself of this charge before he can join the club, even in case he accepts the salary terms offered, it is possible that the Goose intended for this wire to pave the way for his capitulation in the matter of salary. The telegram is the first word of any nature received from Goslin by club officials in several weeks.

Latest Deal Report. Spencer for Morgan,

Trade rumors galore are floating around the Nationals' camp here today, but President Clark Griffith denies them all. The latest is that the Cleveland Indians are seeking a catcher to help out Luke Sewell and that Manager Roger Peckinpaugh has let it be known that he could use Roy Spencer, the Nats' holdout backstop.

Manager Walter Johnson has told Griffith he would like to have another right hand hitting outfielder and it is said that the Nats have offered the Indians Spencer in exchange for Ed Morgan.

The latter is a good hitter, having finished up last season with an average of .318, is fast and has a good arm, but he does not rate particularly high as a fly chaser; in fact, the Indians first used him at third base and later converted him into an outfielder. Rumor has it that there is a possibility that this deal will be put through within the next few days, as Peckinpaugh can afford to let Morgan go in view of the fact that he is blessed with an oversupply of fly hawks.

Club to Carry Five Outfielders.

Manager Johnson plans to carry five outfielders during the season. If Goslin remains out, this leaves him only Sam Rice, Sam West, Emile Barnes, George Loepp and Alvin Powell. The latter is not of major league class right now, however, and will be sent out on option for seasoning.

Powell has made a favorable impression here, however, and will be placed in a league of low enough classification to assure him landing a regular berth so that he will be given every chance to develop. With the experience a season in the bushes would give him and the correction of one or two minor faults at bat, this youngster might have a good chance of making the grade with the Nats next spring, Johnson declares.

Release of Trio First Cut in Squad.

The first cut in the Washington squad was made here today when transportation back home was issued to Catcher Nelson Jester, Pitcher Paul Daugert and First Baseman William Bradley. This trio of youngsters will head for the East when camp is broken here Thursday. All three showed considerable promise, but simply were too far away from major league ability to warrant President Griffith keeping strings tied to them, especially in view of the limited number of options allowed a club.

The release of Bradley means that the name of Coach Patsy Gharrity will be shifted to the active player list and that he will be broken in as substitute to First Baseman Joe Judge. The veteran catcher played first for the Nationals on many occasions when he was with them previously and probably could fill in satisfactory for short periods. He has been taking batting practice here in the daily drills and has demonstrated to the satisfaction of all that he has not lost his batting eye.

Bluege and Cronin Feature Workout.

Fancy infielding in a hot pepper game, featuring Ossie Bluege and Joe Cronin, was the bright spot of this morning's workout. This pair has been coming along fast of late and both look to be ready to start the season, except that their arms are not yet in best trim. As far as snatching up grounders is concerned, both are in rare form.

The Nationals were guests of the commander of the Coast Guard at the Biloxi base this afternoon, cruising to the Gulf of Mexico and then doing a little fishing. The party did not bring back many fish, but several around eight pounds were caught and a good time was had by all.

Fred Marberry is going about his work in a mighty businesslike manner this spring and Manager Johnson predicts that the big pitcher will enjoy the best season of his career in 1930. Since becoming a starter last year, Marberry has profited, and now he does not depend altogether on his speed, but has learned how to save himself by "mixing 'em up" while on the hill.

Father Time does not appear to have gained on Sam Jones since last season, as the 38-year-old is as peppy as any member of the Johnson cast.

BREAKS RECORD

Coast Weight Star Breaks World Mark, Beating Schwartz.

Kelly, Georgetown, Runs Third to 2 Stars in 1,000.

By TED VOSBURGH.

NEW YORK, March 18 (A.P.).—Switzerland's great Olympic veteran, Dr. Paul Martin, won the national 1,000-yard championship in the National A. A. U. indoor title games at Madison Square Garden tonight. He finished 3 yards ahead of Ray Conger, of the Illinois A. C., the defending title holder.

Martin swpet to the fore a lap and a half from home after dogging the slender Conger who had set the pace from the start, outlasted his old rival in the drive for the tape and set a new record for this championship meet of 2:12 6-16. James Kelly, of Georgetown, was third, and Charles Thompson, of New York, fourth.

Sexton and Adelman Yard Short.

Only Schwarze was able to come anywhere near Brix's performance, Leo Sexton, of Georgetown University and Dave Adelman, Newark A. C., falling more than a yard short of the winning mark. Schwarze made 50 feet 4½ inches.

Harold Osborne, veteran jumper of the Illinois A. C. successfully defended his title in the standing high jump, hurtling his body over the bar at a heighth of 5 feet ¼ inch. Allen Thomas of the Pennsylvania A. C., Philadelphia, and Al Bates, Meadowbrook A. C., Philadelphia, tied for second at 4 feet 11 inches while Hans Hedberg gave the Illinois A. C. fourth place with a leap of 4 feet 10 inches.

Chet Bowman, former Syracuse University track and football flash, won the national 60-yard sprinting championship at Madison Square Garden tonight, beating out young Ira Singer, of New York, a student at Ohio State University, in a thrilling finish.

The sturdy Bowman streaked down the stretch in 6 4-10 seconds, holding a lead against Singer's great closing rush. John Macdonald, of Yale, was third, and Isador Fogel, of New York University, fourth.

Sealman Clips Mark In Hurdles.

Lee Sentman, University of Illinois hurdling sensation, equaled the accepted world indoor record of 8 6-10 seconds in capturing the 70-yard high hurdles crown. Making his New York debut, he climaxed a dashing series of recent timber-topping exploits to dethrone Monty Wells, Boston A. A. veteran, who finished second in the final, a yard back.

CHAMP LEADS IN BOWLING TOURNEY

PHIL HEFFELFINGER, defending champion, and Martin Oberman, leader for the qualifying round, led the field in the championship flight of the newspaper men's duckpin tournament at the King Pin No. 2 establishment yesterday and last night. Heffelfinger ran up a string of 589 and Oberman was close behind with 585.

Alvin Gulli far outclashed the few rival consolation contests who shot yesterday with a 545 set.

The remainder of the entrants will bowl this afternoon and tonight. Half of each field will be eliminated after today. The survivors in each flight will enter the third round of competition next week.

It's a Crime to Bet On the Ponies in China

Shanghai, March 19 (A.P.).—Betting on the dogs or the ponies in China is a crime, states an order issued by the ministry of justice at Nanking.

The offense, the official pronunciamento declares, is punishable by a fine not exceeding $500 in gold.

The ruling was the result of a query forwarded the National government by the Chinese municipal authorities of greater Shanghai following an attempt, several months ago, to close the dog tracks operating in the international settlement and the French concession.

NEW YORK BODY HITS HARD BLOW AT FOUL EPIDEMIC

Foul Fighters Face Severe Penalties

2-Month Suspension for First Offense Is New Decree.

Commission Will Ban Boxer for Life on Fourth Violation.

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

NEW YORK, March 18 (A.P.).—The New York State Athletic Commission turned loose a murderous body barrage today on the evil of fouls and foul fighters.

Stirred to bitterness by the epidemic of low brows, both real and imaginary, that have tainted recent important matches here, Commissioners James A. Farley, John J. Phelan and aged William Muldoon set up a new punitive code for the treatment of "swooning swans" and decided to battle for new State legislation on the subject if the present reliefs proved inadequate.

Beginning today, the commissioners decided that every puncher who loses here on a foul in the future will be automatically suspended for two months for his first offense, four months for the second and six for the third. A fourth offender will receive punishment analagous to the famous Baumes law for New York criminals—a life sentence.

To Pay Fighters for Actual Time Only.

Furthermore, gladiators who foul will be paid in the future only for the completed rounds before the disqualification. For the time being the remainder of their purses will be turned over to the promoters of the matches. A bill now before the New York State Legislature, which the commissioners expect soon will become law, will provide for the payment of these forfeited purses into the State treasury. It further was decided that during a boxer's term of punishment for fouling, any other boxer licensed here who competes against him outside of the jurisdiction of the New York commission will be indefinitely suspended.

"This thing has gone far enough," Chairman Farley said. "Fouls and unsatisfactory endings of bouts are choking the boxing game to death. Boxing patrons are entitled to a full run for their money and when that can not be given them because of an incapacitating foul, then they should have the satisfaction of knowing proper punishment will be meted out to those who are to blame.

"There will be no shilly-shallying, no rests for a minute, a blow is foul or it isn't, and waiting around does not change the situation. Our referees will decide instantly, call the foul or count the man on the floor out."

Although the subject was not mentioned, Farley's attitude was considered a rebuke of Referee Lou Magnolia's action in the recent bout between Jack Sharkey and Phil Scott, at Miami, where the New York arbiter called a halt for a full minute in the third round after Scott had claimed foul.

Lamar Given Only $125 Of $1,250 After Fouling

St. Joseph's Nine Obtains New Field

For the first time in the history of the team, the St. Joseph's A. C. Nine will have a playing field to call its own this season. Manager Frank Cinotti has obtained permission to use the new Gonzaga Field.

Cinotti has banded together the same team which last year won the Capital City League championship in the unlimited division. He is scheduling early games with local and out-of-town teams. Call Lincoln 4485 after 6 p. m.

Doeg to Meet Pare In Florida Semifinal

St. Augustine, Fla., March 18 (A.P.).—John Doeg, Santa Monica, Calif., advanced today into the semifinals of the Southeastern tennis championships, by defeating Kenneth Stewart, Jacksonville, 6—1, 6—1.

Tomorrow Doeg will meet Emmett Pare, national clay court singles champion, in the semifinal match. Pare today eliminated Lorimer Blitch, former Florida State titleholder, 6—1, 6—0.

Marcelle Rainville, Canadian Davis Cup player, advanced by defeating G. L. Salley, University of Florida, 6—1, 6—1, and tomorrow in the other bracket of the semifinals will meet the winner of the match between Gilbert Hall, No. 13 ranking player, and Paul Greer, University of Florida.

FIRST-ROUND BOUTS TO TEST G. U. TEAM IN TOURNEY

Hilltop Boxers Draw Clever Opponents

Fish, Tardugno Also Face Hard Tests on Friday Night.

By JACK ESPEY.

THE aspiring, perspiring young men of Georgetown's boxing team will enter the Eastern intercollegiate ring championships at Philadelphia Friday night certain of only one thing relative to their destiny. They know that they are going to collide squarely, right off the reel, with the hardest job placed in their path this seasno.

They found this out yesterday when the first-round pairings were announced. While they didn't break down in fits of palsy, the realization of the task on their hands made them all very sober. That was the immediate effect of the announcement. Afterward—and following a strenuous gymnasium workout—they began telling themselves that the job won't find them unprepared.

The pairings show that in every class, from bantamweight to heavyweight, the Hilltoppers in the opening bouts will encounter foes of acknowledged strength.

Bordeau to Meet His Only Conqueror.

Buddy Bordeau, light-heavyweight, and Jack Tierney, middleweight, are asked to meet as their initial opponents men who have defeated them previously this winter. Bordeau will fight Barnett, of Western Maryland, his only conqueror this season, who was credited with a technical knockout over the husky Georgetown boxer at Westminster, Md., a couple of weeks ago. Tierney will trade blows with Moret, of Navy, who outpointed him at Annapolis on February 22.

In the other classes the Hilltoppers can't find a single case of "set-up" or anything resembling one. Gerard McAllister, bantamweight, will face Dempsey, Navy veteran; Don Donaldson, heavyweight, will square off with Merrick, giant mauler of Pennsylvania, and Henry Murphy, lightweight, will start against Smolowitz, one of the mainstays of New York University.

Capt. Charley Fish, Georgetown's first intercollegiate champion, is the only member of the local team who can rightfully feel confident of winning his first bout. He is matched with Hall, of Navy, whom he has beaten twice before, once last year in the semifinals of the title tournament and again this year at Annapolis.

Tardugno Meets Favorite In Penn State Man.

Mike Tardugno, clever featherweight and probably the most capable boxer of the team, will oppose one of the hot favorites in the person of Stupps, of Penn State. There are some who claim that Tardugno will reach the finals if anybody from Georgetown does, but it seems safer to say merely that Tardugno will accomplish a noteworthy feat if he survives the first round.

Others in the several classes who are picked to be in the thick of the title contention are:

Kensington Dog Wins Trophy at Winchester

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., March 18.—Miss Pullen, pointer female owned by M. D. Hart, Richmond, captured first honors today in puppy trials against a large field at the concluding feature of the annual spring trials of the Shenandoah Valley Field Trials Association, held near here. Rizzie, pointer female, owned by Dr. F. V. Clark, Roanoke, placed second, and Jane Alexander, pointer female, owned by Ernest Mead, Richmond, third. Trials were for puppies whelped after January 1, 1929.

A special trophy for the best junior puppy was won by Twin Pine Joe, pointer dog owned by Matthew Trimble, jr., Kensington, Md., whelped after June, 1929. Five of the puppy braces were run yesterday afternoon and the remaining seven today.

Matthew Trimble and Thomas Baldwin, Washington, D. C., continued as judges in the puppy trials. Winners are eligible for the Winners Stake in the Virginia Amateur Trials Association meeting at Petersburg March 24. Leslie D. Kline, local society president, said the meeting here was the largest ever held by the organization, and exhibitors and visitors were present from several States.

Duke Nine Rounding Into Shape for Opener

Special to The Washington Post.

Durham, N. C., March 18.—With ten days to go before the opening contest of the season, Coach Jack Coombs, of the Duke University Base Ball Team, can make a close estimate of what his starting line-up will be in the first tilt.

Duke's pitching staff this season is built around three veteran southpaws—Hawkins, Jenkins and Belue. However, Duffey, a sophomore portsider, and McKeithan, soph right-hander, are valuable additions to the hurling corps.

The line-up and batting order as it looks now will be: Harrington, center field; Deane, second base; Werber, shortstop; Kistler, first base; Bennett, right field; Murray, left field; Farley, third base; Warren, Barker, Alliford, Howell, or Rochelle, catchers, and Hawkins, Jenkins, Belue, Duffey or McKeithan, pitchers. All members of this year's hurling staff are good hitters.

Tech Only High Nine Not Listed for Devitt

A schedule listing every public high school in the city, except Tech in addition to nine other games, has been drawn up for the Devitt Prep Baseball Team, which will open its season on April 2 against Georgetown Prep at the Garrett Park Diamond. The Georgetown and Catholic University freshmen will also be met in May, while a trip to Charlotte Hall and one to Leonard Hall will also be made by the Prepmen.

April 2, Georgetown Prep; 8, Charlotte Hall; 22, Alexandria High; 25, Business; 29, Leonard Hall; 30, Georgetown Prep.

Western High Loses Two Regular Players

Two more high school baseball players will sit on the bench for the next six weeks, as the result of scholastic deficiencies announced yesterday at Western. Jimmy Thompson, erstwhile basket ball captain and crack outfielder last year, failed to make the grade in one of his subjects, while Bill Payne, right-handed pitcher, who impressed last year before leaving school, is also ineligible.

They will be lost to their team for its opening interhigh clash with Tech on April 29, which will inaugurate the 1930 high school series. At present, only one game has been scheduled for the Western team before the championship games, a clash with Georgetown Prep on April 4 being the lone encounter.

The loss of Thompson and Payne has caused Coach Moore to build his team from young material this year. With only Capt. Bob Freeman at first base, Bob Fletcher and Quincy Owens catchers, and Charley Albert, pitcher, now available as veterans.

G. W. and Catholic U. Clash in Pool Tonight

The final competitive event of the local collegiate indoor athletic season will be held tonight in the Ambassador Hotel pool where swimming teams representing George Washington and Catholic universities will vie in a return meet, starting at 8 o'clock. In an earlier meet at Brookland, Catholic triumphed by a large margin. Since then, the Johns Hopkins University team which easily defeated Catholic U., was able to beat the Colonials by 6 points last Monday at the Ambassador pool.

Central Stars Forego Spring Grid Practice

Although the edict to Central's 1930 prospective football candidates is "No spring training, no camp in the fall," Coach Ty Rauber will not require Larry Pinckney, Paul Hinkel and others who are engaged in spring sports to come out for the early seasoning, which will start next Monday, he declared yesterday. Rauber is of the opinion that any athletes now participating in track and baseball will get enough exercise in these sports without going through the paces of the other gridiron aspirants.

Uniforms for the spring work are to be issued Friday and Saturday of this week, and actual work will start Monday. The drills will be held each morning from 7:30 until 8:30, with Rauber getting a line on those whom he will take to Central's training camp next fall.

Plan Race Meeting At California Track

San Francisco, March 18 (A.P.).—Dr. Charles E. Jones, secretary of the Pacific Coast Breeders Association, announced today that the association would conduct a 15-day racing meet at Tanforan track beginning April 5.

The meet will be held under the "option buying" system, whereby spectators purchase an option on a horse and sell back the option to the owner in case the horse wins. A recent test case was decided in favor of the defendants as "actual betting was not proved."

Answered by BOB CRUICKSHANK

Personally, when I am playing a certain club badly, I always practice it more than any other club, but not immediately before a game. An odd half hour or even 15 minutes, whenever possible, will help any player greatly. I would not practice too long with any single club, for as soon as the interest wanes, the practice is useless. A few shots with each club, one or two out of the rough, and some bunker work around the green will help eventually. Finally, finish off with a few long and short putts alternately. This should not take more than 30 minutes, will not tire any one and will be interesting.

sided victory over the crippled Kendall A. C. Quintet, 24 to 7. The Kendalls were at the mercy of their foes and were handicapped by the fact that but five players were available, and two of these were lost in the final period. The Optimists evened matters by taking out two players as the Kendall passers were banned because of personal fouls.

After building up a 21-to-2 lead in the first half, the Optimists loafed to victory, turning the contest into more or less of a farce. Murphy, of the losers, accounted for the lone floor goals registered by his team.

Chevy Chase Girls Win Easily.

Flashing a whirlwind attack which buried the St. Paul's sextet under a 48-2 score, the Chevy Chase girl's team, playing for the first time in the girls' junior class, gained the right to play in the final game for the title of its class. The game, played at the George Washington University Gymnasium, was the only tournament contest scheduled for the afternoon.

After a slow first quarter during which they were closely guarded by their foes, the Chevy Chase girls opened up their complete bag of tricks, turning the game into a rout from that time on. Held to one field goal in the first eight minutes of play, Chevy Chase went on a rampage after the one-minute rest to tally basket after basket in leaving their foes farther and farther behind. With Miss Woodley leading the way, Chevy Chase soon put the game on ice, boasting a 24-1 lead as the first half ended.

Stock Reply of Bill Foley Is Sound Training Advice

By MIKE KELLEY (Eastern High School Coach).

"BILL" FOLEY, veteran track coach at Central, usually mixes his witticism with a great deal of sound philosophy in his handling of the cinder path candidates at the Mount Pleasant school. One of "Bill's" stock replies to the question asked him numerous times daily during the season, as to whether or not the squad will train that afternoon, always brings a laugh from those who have heard the reply so many times, but it carries a depth of meaning to the boy concerned and if the advice handed out by "Bill" is faithfully adhered to, a new track worthy is in the making.

"Bill's" perennial answer may be summed up in the following words, "No son, we don't train this afternoon or any other afternoon, but we probably will work out after school; you do your training after you leave here and that responsibility rests with you." Thats the last time the boy asks if the squad is going to train, and "Bill" has brought home to the boy the fact that the issue rests with him as to his faithfulness in his track work when he is beyond the limits of the school.

Advice Applies to All Squads.

This same advice applies alike to boys of any athletic squad in our schools and it doesn't take the coach long to find out just what boys assume the responsibility like men and what few shirk it as being too much of an imposition on their good times, but in the majority of cases the results attained by the boy usually are measured by the manner in which he conducts himself off the field, so to speak.

Not that the coaches of the local high school squads are severe taskmasters, but they do urge the youngsters to get the proper rest that growing boys need and recommend the taboo of tobacco in any form.

That's as far as the coach can go in his training regulations, and even though his observations sometimes lead him to doubt that every member of a squad is living up to them faithfully, he relies on the youth's desire to make the best possible use of his athletic ability while he is in high school, after pointing out to him that such training as is imposed on him has its share in the character building that athletics strive to offer.

Schools Here Offer Much To Athletes.

High school athletes in Washington are fortunate in having their competition amidst the very best in the way of surroundings and equipment. The league of the five schools composing the public high school group provides the stimulus for healthy athletic rivalry in all sports and the cost of eligibility in force prevents the overemphasis of the athletic side of the curriculum. No individual school is so strong that it has to look elsewhere for worthy foes and no bitterness mars the feeling of one school toward another.

Teams are allowed to engage in contests with rivals in other cities within certan limitations and altogether the career of a local high school athlete brings much in the way of enjoyment to offset the few restrictions that coaches impose in the way of training.

District A. A. U. Expects 50 Boxers in Title Tournament

WASHINGTON amateur boxers are turning their thoughts to the forthcoming District of Columbia A. A. U. championship boxing tournament, the first event of its kind in the history of local sport. Although it is yet too early to get a definite estimate of the number of competitors, officials of the tournament anticipate at least 50 entrants. The tournament will open next Tuesday night, continuing on March 26, 27 and 31.

Entries are being received by Edward Rosenblum, chairman of the District Association boxing committee, at 1317 F street northwest, and the list will close on Friday. The committee has announced that any registered amateur athlete is eligible to compete, thus removing a doubt that boxers not affiliated with a school or club were eligible. The committee has expressed a wish to see all local amateurs, regardless of affiliation, take part. The entry fee for each individual is 25 cents.

If possible, the District Association will arrange to send the local champions to the National A. A. U. championship tournament to be held in Boston on April 7, 8 and 9.

In a formal statement issued yesterday by James A. Sullivan, the committee said:

"The Washington boxing tournament to be held under the auspices of the District of Columbia Association of the Amateur Athletic Union on March 25, 26, 27 and 31 has for its aim and purpose the building of character in the youth of today and to encourage the young man to take serious interest in the art of self-protection as well as prepare himself both physically and mentally for the future.

"We have designated this tournament as the final District tryout of the best individuals in the different weight classes, and we hope to send the winners to the national boxing championships to be contested in Boston on April 7, 8 and 9."

Bergman Asks $7,500 To Coach at Holy Cross

Minneapolis, March 18 (A.P.).—Arthur J. ("Dutch") Bergman, coach at the University of Minnesota, today confirmed reports that he was negotiating with Holy Cross College at Worcester, Mass., for the position of head football coach at that school.

Bergman said a definite decision would be made Thursday. Bergman asked $7,500 a year on a seasonal basis and a three-year contract, he said, while the school countered with $7,000 with a three-year contract.

V. P. I. Names Best Wrestlers for Tourney

Special to The Washington Post.

Blacksburg, Va., March 18.—Colby Graves, 125 pounds, and Capt. Bill Davis, unlimited class, today were named to represent Virginia Polytechnic Institute in the third annual wrestling tournament of the National Collegiate Athletic Association at Pennsylvania State College March 28 and 29. The two youngsters will enter the collegiate championship scramble for the first time, but with outstanding careers to their credit on Dixie mats. Graves recently bagged the Southern Conference 118-pound title in tournament competition after blazing a clean path through the conference in dual meets. Through three campaigns in prep school, one in freshman ranks and one in varsity togs he is as yet undefeated.

Davis, 1930 captain, broke all local point-snatching records by copping eighteen falls and two time decisions in 21 matches over a three-year grind. He is 6 feet 6 inches tall and weighs 235 pounds. He has twice copped the Southern Conference heavyweight title and is undefeated for two years.

GOFF JOINS DURHAM.

Lynchburg, Va., March 18.—Nathan Goff, of this city, has signed for a trial this spring with Durham, of the Piedmont League. He will report there late this month. Goff was catcher for the champion Textile Team in the City League here in 1929.

Baseball and Track Featured; Tennis Squad Ready.

Special to The Washington Post.

LEXINGTON, Va., March 18.—The next two months will find varsity and freshman athletic teams of Washington and Lee indulging in 48 intercollegiate meetings in three sports.

Candidates for honors in baseball, track and tennis are already in training for a strenuous 1930 campaign which will carry them well through the month of May before its termination.

The varsity baseball team, with eleven home games and seven meetings abroad holds the spotlight. Freshmen diamond dusters will meet seven opponents, five of whom will come to Lexington for games.

In track, Coach Forest Fletcher will endeavor to repeat outdors his championship efforts of the indoor season, when the Washington and Lee trackmen captured Southern Conference honors. The Fletchermen will participate in eight meets, three of which will be of championship caliber. On April 26 the Generals will enter the Penn relays; on May 10 they will take part in the State meet at the Virginia Polytechnic Institute, Blacksburg, and a week later they will meet other conference teams in the championship meeting in Birmingham.

Three meets have been scheduled for freshmen track and field aspirants, with other meetings yet to be carded. In fact, each freshman team will have a larger schedule than so far listed.

With a ten-day trip as the feature of the season, Washington and Lee's tennis team will tackle a schedule of twelve events. Coach Clayton Epes Williams has been working his racqueteers in the W. & L. field house for several days, but balmy weather of last week made work on the outdoor courts possible, and daily more than a score of white-clad figures are batting balls on the seven Washington and Lee courts.

Following are the complete varsity schedules for the season:

March 25, Bridgewater, Lexington; 28, Drexel, Lexington.

April 1, Duke, Durham; 2, N. C. State, Raleigh; 3, N. C. U., Chapel Hill; 5, Lafayette, Lexington; 8, Juniata, Lexington; 10, Davidson, Lexington; 14, N. C. U., Lexington; 16, Virginia, Lexington; 23, V. P. I., Blacksburg; 25, Maryland, College Park; 26, Navy, Annapolis.

May 1, N. C. State, Lexington; 2 William and Mary, Lexington; 6, Maryland, Lexington; 8, V. P. I., Lexington; 16, Virginia, Charlottesville.

VARSITY TRACK.

March 29, Duke, Durham.

April 5, Maryland, College Park; 10, N. C. State, Lexington; 19, Richmond, Lexington; 26, Penn Relays, Philadelphia; 28, N. C. U., Chapel Hill.

May 10, State meet, Blacksburg; 17, Southern Conference, Birmingham.

VARSITY TENNIS.

April 12, Hampden-Sidney, Lexington; 18, Virginia, Charlottesville; 23, Navy, Annapolis; 24, Catholic U., Washington; 25, George Washington, Washington; 28, Maryland, College Park; 29, Pennsylvania, Philadelphia; 29, Lehigh, Allentown; 30, N. Y. U., New York.

May 3, Duke, Lexington; 8, Maryland, Lexington; 10, V. P. I., Lexington.

STOCKS INDEX PRICE LIST GAINS 2 POINTS

UTILITIES PROVE STRONG

New York, March 18 (A.P.).—Speculation for the rise was whipped up to a high pitch of enthusiasm on the stock market today by fresh declines in money rates and the Department of Commerce's report, showing a turn for the better in employment conditions. Total sales aggregated 4,247,950 shares, and the index of 90 leading shares was pushed up nearly 2 points to 189.8, the highest level since the end of October, when it bounded up to 191.8 after breaking to 162.2.

Save in a few bull favorites and high-priced specialties, gains were moderate, largely amounting to a point or two, and the movement was checked at times by heavy profit taking. Wall street was filled with rumors of powerful pool operations in various issues, but seldom has board room sentiment been so divided, some observers seeing the movement as a distributive one, while others felt convinced that accumulation was under way in expectation of an eventual upturn in business activity.

U. S. Steel Curtails Production.

The day's industrial news continued of a rather cheerless nature. Steel operations this week have sagged further, United States Steel curtailing operations to 80 per cent of capacity, against 82 last week. Reports of new automobile registrations indicate that February showed a sharp gain over January, and came within 2 per cent of the previous February. Excluding the two leading small cars, however, which accounted for 66 per cent of the new registrations, a drop of 30 per cent from the previous February was shown. Preliminary estimates of crude oil production for last week were less pleasing, showing a substantial upturn, although much of it was due to opening of wells for testing.

Call money officially ranged from 3½ to 3 per cent again, but sagged to 2 per cent in the outside market for the first time in five years. Bankers' acceptance rates also sagged to the lowest since 1925. Although money may be slightly firmer during the next few days, the conviction of leading bankers that rates are in a long range decline appeared in the clearing house's cutting maximum rates payable on deposits.

New York Central Gains.

Oil shares encountered a little profit taking, but amusements, rails, office shipments, rail equipments, steels and utilities were generally strong. United States Steel sold up 2¾, but lost half its gain later. Allied Chemical gained 7 points and shares advancing about 3 to 5 included Atchison, Chesapeake & Ohio, Columbia Gas, Columbian Carbon, Eastman Kodak, Gillette, General Railway Signal, New York Central, Paramount, Standard Gas, Underwood, Warner Bros., and Western Union. General Motors and Radio sold up moderately to new 1930 peaks. American Locomotive was a soft spot, dropping 6 points to 84½, the lowest since 1924, but rallying to close at 88¾.

Commodities were steady to firm. Corn gained more than a cent on bearish weather and good cash demand. Wheat closed fractionally higher, and cotton, after uncertain fluctuations, closed up 55 cents to $1.15 a bale.

Foreign exchanges were somewhat irregular, but leading currencies were steady to firm. The Canadian dollar rallied to 99.93⅜ cents.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, March 18 (A.P.).—Corn led all grain upward in price today and finished at virtually the top level reached. Indications were that the season's main movement of corn to market terminals has reached an end, with prospects of liberal out-shipments ahead at the opening of navigation on the Great Lakes. Announcement of 3,245,000 bushels increase in the world's available wheat supply tended further to depress wheat values, and so did too expectation of a cold wave Friday or before in domestic winter wheat States.

Closing quotations both on corn and wheat were firm, with corn ¾ to 1⅝c a bushel higher than yesterday's latest figures. Wheat finished ⅛ to ⅝ of a cent up, oats ⅛ to ¾ advanced, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 12 cents.

Wheat weather prevailing throughout the corn belt had much to do with stirring up good cash demand today for corn. Besides, important trade leaders were calling attention to the fact that open market interest in Chicago corn future deliveries has steadily increased of late, whereas the open interest here in all other grain except corn has decreased sharply during the last 30 days. This circumstance was asserted to show increased general appreciation of the soundness of current values of corn.

It was also pointed out that terminal stocks of corn are light, particularly at Chicago, that call from shippers here is already good as well as continuing to enlarge, and that in addition the corn market is free to respond to supply and demand.

Meanwhile, rural offerings of corn today were small, and arrivals in Chicago amounted to but 63 cars against 142 cars a week ago. Six vessel cargoes of corn were reported today as having been chartered to leave Chicago at the opening of navigation. The oats market followed corn rather than wheat.

Widespread rain and snow relieving drought fears tended at first to ease wheat values down, but the Kansas weekly report was considered as rather bullish, and there were developments more or less foreshadowing reduction of spring wheat acreage in Canada as well as in the United States. Advices were also at hand saying the wheat crop in France is deteriorating as a result of too much rain. However, export business today in North American wheat was again lacking in volume, and total shipments of wheat from Canada and the United States appeared to be continuing much below the 9,000,000 bushel weekly quota estimated as necessary to furnish European requirements during the next 21 weeks.

Provisions reflected upturns in the value of hogs.

BOND PRICES CLIMB; MONEY RATES EASE

TURNOVER IS $18,000,000

New York, March 18 (A.P.).—The bull market in bonds went forward with renewed vigor today. Issues listed on the New York Stock Exchange and the curb market, as well as the vast number of unlisted securities, turned over in bulk at smartly higher prices and the day's business crossed $18,000,000, principal amount.

Money, available in huge quantities, again went down and time loans were quoted 3½ to 3¾ per cent-up to 60 days, with the longer maturities at 4 per cent flat, the easiest rates in years. Call funds were available outside at 2 per cent although the official rate went no lower than 3.

Buying by banks, insurance companies, institutions and individuals was still concentrated on the better grade issues, but there was sufficient interest in the market as a whole to extend the inquiry into secondary obligations, many of which displayed important strength. Rails, as a group, were very active, and the utilities also traveled at a fast pace. The average for 30 bonds in the three major groups went to 100.2, which compares with a high of 102.4 for the same bonds in 1928 and with last year's low of 96.3.

Foreign Obligations Advance.

Foreign obligations, with the Latin-Americans again in the lead, advanced impressively, although turnovers were slightly smaller. United States Governments, which many observers felt had discounted current money trends, sold off uniformly, the declines ranging from one to five thirty-seconds.

Rails, making new highs for the year, included Boston & Maine 5s, Canadian National 4½s of 1968, Chesapeake & Ohio 4½s, Hudson & Manhattan 5s, Missouri Pacific general 4s, Pennsylvania 4¾s, Reading general 4½s, Union Pacific 4s, Virginian 5s, New Haven 4½s and Wabash 5s. Convertible rails, under the leadership of Baltimore & Ohio 4½s, which soared 1¼ on an enormous turnover, were carried up with the shares.

Louisville Gas & Electric 5s, International Telephone 5s, International Match 5s, Utah Power & Light 5s, Public Service Electric Gas 4½s and Chile Copper 5s were miscellaneous points of strength. Amusement and oil company bonds advanced sharply.

New Rail Issue Appears.

Trading in the new Pere Marquette 4½s, offered today at 97, was inaugurated on a when-issued basis and the bonds ranged between 98⅛ to 98½.

The share feature issues were buoyant. American Telephone 4½s, American I. G. Chemical 5½s and Texas Corporation 5s traded actively, showing the best tone in some time.

Foreign bonds easily attained new highs. French 7s went to 118⅝, up ⅜, to a peak price. Poland 7s, New South Wales 5s, the Colombia Bank issues, and many other South Americans went steadily upward.

Plans for new bond financing are going forward rapidly. An $18,000,000 issue of Cleveland Union Terminal securities and an offering of Big Four Railroad bonds, probably to the extent of $20,000,000, are among the issues expected soon.

A new foreign issue appearing on this market tomorrow is an offering of $8,000,000 City of Helsingfors, Finland, 30-year 6½ per cent external sinking fund gold bonds by a syndicate headed by Brown Bros. The bonds are offered at 95, to yield about 6.90 per cent.

ACACIA'S BUSINESS SHOWS LARGE GAIN

Insurance President Says $6,000,000 Invested in District Property.

$1,100,000 IN DIVIDENDS

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Business of Acacia Mutual Life Association during 1929 exceeded that of previous years by a considerable margin, the report of William Montgomery, president of the association, revealed yesterday at the annual meeting held at the Temple of Service, First street and Indiana avenue northwest.

President Montgomery cited figures which indicate clearly the growing importance of Acacia. At the close of 1929, for example, the association had more than $338,000,000 of insurance in force, and this total now has been raised impressively. The total income of the association for the year was $11,000,000, and its assets at the close of the year stood at $33,865,597.

Acacia had more than $19,000,000 invested in first mortgage loans, and of that total $6,000,000 was invested in District of Columbia property, Mr. Montgomery pointed out. The association, in addition, owns property here valued at $2,100,000. More than $1,100,000 was paid out by Acacia during the last year to policyholders in the form of dividends.

New Director is Chosen.

D. Rufus Cheney, grand secretary of Masons of Portland, Oreg., was elected a member of the board of directors, and he will serve with the following directors for the ensuing year: W. L. Andrews, Charles E. Baldwin, Harry Blake, C. C. Coombs, William K. Cowden, Paul B. Cromelin, J. Harry Cunningham, L. Whiting Estes, E. C. Graham, James C. Hoyle, Thomas E. Jarrell, J. Claude Keiper, Arthur D. Marks, John T. Meany, Joseph H. Milans, William Montgomery, John B. Nichols, Charles F. Roberts, Harry L. Rust, jr., L. P. Steuart, Eugene E. Thompson, E. Lee Trinkle, Francis D. Winston, and J P. Yort. Directors will meet April 23 to elect officers.

The board of directors of the Carpel Corporation have declared the regular quarterly dividend of 37½ cents per share on the stock of the company, payable April 1, to stockholders of record March 20.

Activities shown in the stock of the corporation during the past few days are believed to reflect rumors of a merger with another concern which are in circulation, or the prospects of increased earnings.

Merchants Transfer Dividend.

At the monthly meeting of the board of directors Merchants Transfer & Storage Co. yesterday, the quarterly dividend of $1.75 on the preferred stock was declared payable on April 1 to stockholders of record March 21. The books of the company close for transfer from March 21 to March 31, both dates inclusive.

The board of directors of American Security & Trust Co. declared the regular 3 per cent quarterly dividend yesterday, payable April 10, to stockholders of record March 31.

Vice President Joseph G. Stephenson, of Franklin National Bank, left yesterday on a short trip to Concord, N. H.

Directors of the United States Savings Bank have just declared their regular quarterly dividend of 7½ per cent, payable March 30.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, March 18 (A.P.).—Arrangements have been made for the sale of a membership in the New York Stock Exchange for $415,000, an increase of $5,000 over the previously recorded sale.

Operations of the steel industry are averaging around 74 per cent of rated capacity, Dow, Jones & Co. reported today. This figure represents a decrease of 2 per cent from last week's average and a drop of 5 per cent from that of two weeks ago. Ingot output of the plants of the United States Steel Corporation also showed a decrease, with operations now said to be at 80 per cent of capacity as against 82 per cent last week and 85 per cent two weeks ago.

Money was so plentiful in the call market today that it was offered at 2 per cent "outside," although the official stock exchange rate held at 3 per cent, following a renewal rate of 3½. The "outside" rate was the lowest since January 11, 1925. Those conversant with money market conditions feel confident that "cheap" money will be available for some time but they take pains in pointing out that the short-term overdraft operations of the Treasury Department are likely to result in slightly higher rates during the next few days.

Directors of the Hupp Motor Co omitted declaration of the usual quarterly 2½ per cent stock dividend at their meeting today. The regular quarterly cash payment of 50 cents was voted, however.

The First Bank Stock Corporation today increased its number of member units to 97 with acquisition of five banks in North Dakota and one in Montana.

A contract for 667 carloads of stone for the third unit of the West Virginia State capitol at Charleston has been awarded to the Indiana Limestone Co.

Unfilled orders of Detroit Gear & Machine Co., subsidiary of Borg-Warner Corporation, March 1 were in excess of $2,000,000, C. S. Davis, president, said today. This was an increase of 52 per cent over last year.

The Reichsbank report as of March 15, shows the following changes in reischmarks: Gold and bullion increased 18,309,000; reserve in foreign currencies increased 10,123,000; bills of exchange and cheques decreased 293,760,000; silver and other coins increased 15,420,000; notes on other banks increased 6,860,00; advances decreased 27,228,000; other assets decreased 14,255,000; notes in circulation decreased 214,216,000; other maturing obligations decreased 71,772,000; other liabilities decreased 1,457,000.

The Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad plans to spend about $20,000,000 in improvements and extensions during the current year, of which between $15,000,000 and $16,000,000 is to be spent for electrification of suburban lines. This budget is one of the largest in the history of the road.

George E. Baumeister, formerly of Boston, has been elected a vice president of Ulen & Co., international engineers. He has been president of the Ulen Management Co., a subsidiary, several years. Another new vice president is Fred T. Hoit, of Tacoma, Wash. Both Mr. Hoit and Mr. Baumeister will be in charge of new business, dividing their time between this country, South America and Europe.

New security offerings scheduled for tomorrow include an issue of $5,000,000 the Virginian Railway first mortgage 50-year 4½ per cent gold bonds, due May 1, 1962, and priced at 97 and interest, to yield about 4.68 per cent, and an issue of $2,500,000 convertible 6 per cent debentures of the newly formed Appalachian Gas Corporation at 99 and accrued interest, yielding about 6.10 per cent.

The pace in savings, while still below normal, is definitely upward, states John J. Pulleyn president of the Emigrant Industrial Savings Bank, in its current bulletin. Explaining that deposits have been gaining since the middle of December, he adds that the Mutual Savings Banks are now back in the investment market, and that their reentrance into the mortgage market means new buildings and new jobs.

The daily average gross crude oil production in the United States increased 47,850 barrels for the week ended March 15, totaling 2,583,200 barrels, says the weekly summary of the American Petroleum Institute. The daily average production east of California was 1,931,600 barrels, an increase of 57,650. Refineries representing 95.5 per cent of the estimated daily potential refining capacity, operating at 73.1 per cent of their capacity, reported daily average run of crude oil to stills as 2,554,000 barrels. Daily average the previous week was 2,532,700 barrels, for refineries representing 95.5 per cent of potential capacity operating at 72.4 per cent of their capacity.

Frank M. Fahey, chairman pro tem of the Gillette Safety Razor Co., in a letter mailed to stockholders refuting unsettling rumors regarding its patent situation set afloat during the recent decline of Gillette stock, states the company made sure of its patent situation before starting production of its new models. "If anyone feels that our company has infringed his patent rights," he declares, "we suggest that he come into court. We are not only prepared for any legal controversy, we invite it."

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, March 18 (A.P.).—Cotton showed continued nervousness today with shorts in the near months sending the price of May contracts up to 16.59 in the late trading or 43 points above yesterday's closing quotations and more than $2.50 per bale above the low level of last week. That delivery closed at 15.55, with the general market closing very steady at net advances, or 34 to 50 points on the old crop months, while the old October contract was 26 points higher and other deliveries showed net gains of about 11 to 23 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 3 to 12 points on overnight buying orders, which were evidently brought in by the action of yesterday's market. There was considerable realizing at the initial prices, but it was absorbed on moderate setbacks, and the market soon firmed up again on a continuation of the covering movement, which was supposed to reflect the taking in hedges for both domestic and foreign trade account and the transfer of near month shorts to the later deliveries.

Another wave of realizing was encountered as prices approached the 15½ cent level for May deliveries, but it was taken on reactions of 10 or 20 points and the highest prices of the day were reached in the late trading. March sold up to 15.45, or an even half cent above yesterday's close, while the old October contract touched 15.54 or 39 points net higher and the new October sold at 15.26.

Trading was fairly active on the advances, but tapered off on the declines when the comparative scarcity of contracts in the old crop positions was regarded by some traders as an indication that holders of May might be planning to demand deliveries. At the close May was selling within 7 points of July, compared with a difference of 12 points at the close of the previous day, and showed a premium of about 30 points over the new October, compared with 13 points yesterday. Part of the buying of March and May was accompanied by sales of the new crop positions.

Liverpool cables reported covering with Continental and Bombay buying in that market and an improved demand for cotton cloth from Egypt and South America. Port receipts today 8,279. United States port stocks 1,978,426. Exports, 12,540, making 5,685,063 so far this season.

Curb Review.

New York, March 18 (A.P.).—Natural gas stocks led a brisk advance in prices in today's curb market, the largest session of the year. Total stock sales were 1,346,200 shares, as contrasted with the previous 1930 record of 1,258,500 on March 5. Bond prices also showed further improvement, with gains of 1 to 4 points registered by a wide assortment of domestic and foreign mortgages.

Easy money rates, merger rumors and widespread expectations of early improvement in general business provided the groundwork for the advance. Profit taking brought about moderate recessions from the day's high levels in the late trading, but final quotations showed a preponderance of net gains which ran from 1 to nearly 5 points in the active issues, and from 6 to nearly 20 points in a few specialties.

United Gas, which Wall street understands is to be absorbed by a new subsidiary of Electric Power & Light, was marked up more than 4 points to a new high at 43⅜, and then eased to 42. The stock sold as low as 19⅜ this year. The day's turnover in this issue was 204,200 shares. Arkansas Natural Gas, Dixie Gas Utilities and Lone Star Gas also moved into new high ground.

Oils made relatively little progress due to heavy profit taking, inspired in part by preliminary estimates of another large increase in crude oil production last week. Gulf of Pennsylvania, selling ex dividend, moved up to a new top at 154⅞ and then eased to 153, unchanged on the day. Humble also closed unchanged on the day at 105 after establishing a new peak at 108¾. Continental Oil of Maine, International Petroleum and Texas Oil & Land moved into new high ground on small gains.

Electric Bond & Share closed 5 points higher at 103¼, the day's high price, although it was still 1¼ points below the recent high. American Light & Traction jumped 4 points and American Gas & Electric 3½. Nevada California Electric ran up 6 points to a new peak at 100 and retained all but a point of its gain. Niagara & Hudson Power, which has been dragging behind the rest of the list, was turned over in large volume and closed a point higher.

Investment Trust & Trading Corporation issues displayed a firm undertone, but the gains were small. In the industrials Ford of Canada, Ford of France and Ford Limited eclipsed their previous peaks on reports of expanding European sales of Ford cars. Dubilier was one of the few strong spots in the radio group.

American Cynnamide B was heavily bought, climbing nearly 4 points to a new peak of 32⅛, but losing part of its gain on realizing. Amrad Corporation, Aviation Corporation of the Americas, General Realty preferred and Nathan Straus, Inc., all sold at new 1930 high prices.

Advice on Investments By CHARLES W. STORM

In making inquiries address Charles W. Storm, financial department of The Washington Post, and inclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply.

Bahia Corporation.

F. C. S.—What can you tell me about the Bahia Corporation and the Bullard Co.?

Answer—Big strides have been made by Bullard the past year. The company recently perfected a process for metal finishing which greatly reduces costs and licenses it on a royalty basis. This company, which manufactures specially designed machines and tools for working iron, steel and brass, reported earnings for 1929 of $3.80 per share on the common, as compared with $5.12 a share in 1928. Last March an initial quarterly dividend of 40 cents a share was paid, placing the issue on a $1.60 per annum basis. The stock has considerable attractiveness and may be classed as a speculative investment to be held over the long term. Bahia is in the nondividend-paying class, which makes it a speculation and accounts for its low price.

Gabriel and Others.

H. V.—I would appreciate any information you can give me concerning Gabriel Snubbers, Gardner Motors and Remington Arms.

Answer—Gabriel Snubbers and Gardner Motors have not been doing so well, which accounts for the non-interest in the shares, which pay no dividends, and their current low selling prices. Both stocks are speculative. Earnings of Remington Arms for 1930 are conservatively estimated at $6 a share, which would compare with about $3 a share for 1929. Remington raised ammunition prices last year, and the higher price schedule is estimated to add nearly $1,000,000 to earnings this year, based on last year's business. Remington, therefore, would appear to possess attractiveness for over the long term outlook.

Pathe; American Reinsurance.

F. B.—I am asking for information on Pathe and American Reinsurance Which of the two do you consider worth holding?

Answer—American Reinsurance is the better of the two. The stock pays a dividend of $3 per annum, and from present indications, the outlook appears satisfactory. American Reinsurance may be described as a speculative investment suitable for long-term holding. Pathe is regarded as a highly speculative issue. The fire damage to one of its studios is proving highly expensive, and, in addition, the stock carries no dividend.

Ford Motor, Ltd.

T. S. McC.—I think of buying some Ford Motor, Ltd., stock, quoted on the curb. Please be good enough to let me have any data you can give me on this investment.

Answer—Ford Motor Co., Ltd., was incorporated under the British Companies act in 1928. The company acquired the motor vehicle manufacturing business of Ford Motor Co. (England), Ltd., for a total consideration of $30,482,790, composed of $70,970, and 4,300,000 of its full paid £1 par common shares. The company lately declared a dividend of 10 per cent on the American shares, the first distribution since its organization. This dividend is payable March 17 to stockholders of record March 7. With the stock now on a dividend paying basis and the company under the sponsorship of the Ford organization, it has considerable more attraction, from a speculative-investment viewpoint, than it has had heretofore.

Niagara Hudson and Others.

Miss E. C.—Please give me full information and your advice regarding the common stocks of Niagara Hudson Power, Commonwealth & Southern and United Corporation.

Answer — Although both Niagara Hudson Power and Commonwealth & Southern are now paying dividends, the former of 40 cents annually and the latter of 60 cents yearly, neither stock can be classified as an investment. Both are speculative, with considerable attractiveness for long-term holding, especially as the outlook for all public utility concerns is most encouraging. Niagara Hudson Power has, as one of its principal recommendations, the fact that it enjoys unusually high banking sponsorship, that of J. P. Morgan & Co. This is likewise true of the United Corporation. However, that company is not paying any dividend on the common shares, and there is no prospect of its doing so in the near future, even though the company is closely allied with the public utility industry as an investment corporation.

BYRD FETE PROPOSAL FAVORED IN ROANOKE

Arlington County Chamber Receives Assurances of Cooperation.

LIBRARY SITE IS CHOSEN

BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

The Roanoke Chamber of Commerce has indorsed the resolution adopted by the special committee from Arlington County and Alexandria asking Gov. Pollard to request Admiral Richard Evelyn Byrd to land first on Virginia soil on his return to the United States from the South Pole.

The executive committee of the Arlington County Garden Club and the Organized Women Voters together with the Ashton Heights Citizens Association last night took similar action and the secretary of each organization was instructed so to advise Gov. Pollard.

A member of the committee from Arlington County who will be in Richmond on Saturday will call upon the governor to advise him of the State-wide sentiment in favor of the project and to offer any further assistance possible in carrying the project to a successful conclusion.

Arrangements are completed for the presentation of the collegiate comedy entitled, "Aunt Lucia," to be presented tonight and tomorrow night in the Odd Fellows Hall at Clarendon under the auspices of the Clarendon Rebekah Lodge, No. 28.

Those taking part are:

The cast—James Tate, Ray Spilman, James Scott, Mable Rector, Mrs. Lucille Johnson, Mrs. Sudie Mitchell, Walter Johnson, H. L. Bragg, George Ricker, Mrs. Annie Ives, Mrs. Eula Clements, Thomas S. O'Halloran, Glen Hall, Edward Clements, Mark Young, William Goodway, Peter Ball, Richard Smarr; the Glee Club—Mark Young, Donald Nevin, Edward Clements, Joseph Neevin, Willard Clements, Stanley Mortimer, Harry Chase, Roland Harrison, Lehman Rucker, Madison Rucker, Harold Walker, Ralph Feltman, Ralph Jones, Krug McCloskey, Henry Abbott, Allen Willis, Ben Clarkson, Gordon Gonyea, Leslie Putnam, Henry Ellis, Carey Ross, James Bennett; the chorus—Gladys Ives, Virginia Pearson, Heleen Bragg, Lucy Newland, Gay Howell, Lethis Howell, Ethel Benton, Elva Lee Clements, Loraine Zile, Evelyn Kines, Flora Hines, Margaret Huffman, Geraldine Fix, Eleanor Alexander, Dorothy Moreland, Claire Raymond, Louise Carl, Doris Allard, Doris Dugan and Rebecca Hensley; those taking part as flappers are George D. Ricker, William P. Ames, George Rucker, C. J. Ives, E. Wade Ball, Dexter Hussey, C. Stockdale, A. C. Clements, Charles Edwards, Walter Imboden, Arthur Kay, Emery Hosmer, Walter Lawson, H. E. Stelle, Frank Bailey, Judson Beamy, M. Smarr, H. E. Burkart H. W. Beattie, Albert Feltman, Doyle Reeves, D. Bolan, Homer Thomas, Walter Shanholtz, C. T. Jesse, T. R. Wirsing, T. Phillips, Harry Thomas, W. C. Gloth and Joseph White. Miss Frances Cassidy is director.

A feature of the play will be the baby pageant, with 100 babies ranging in age from 5 to 7 years old.

The proceeds will be for the benefit of the local lodge.

Lease was signed yesterday for the property at the intersection of the Wilson boulevard and Virginia avenue by the library association.

Due to the rapid growth of the library which was opened seven years ago with less than 200 books and which now has grown to more than 8,000 books, the rooms now being used, have long since been too small and the change was made necessary. According to the committee, the new quarters will be opened about April 1.

Unable to arrange for a conference with Col. H. G. Shirley, chairman of the State highway commission for today to discuss the matter of rights of way for the Lee boulevard approach to the Memorial Bridge, it was announced last night by William S. Hoge, jr., of the Lee Boulevard Association that the conference will be held in Richmond on Saturday.

Mr. Hoge will be accompanied by members of the County Board of Supervisors.

The County Board of Supervisors will hold a special meeting tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock at the courthouse to consider the adoption of the zoning ordinance which has been prepared by the Arlington County Zoning Commission with the few changes made following the public hearing held by the supervisors.

The board of directors of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce will meet tomorrow night in the boardrooms in the Rees Building, at Clarendon, at 8 o'clock.

Among the projects to be considered will be the movement for the establishment in Arlington County of a Federal postoffice and reports from the publicity and transportation committees.

The Arlington Rotary Club will hold its weekly luncheon meeting tomorrow at the Washington Golf and Country Club.

The executive committee of the Organized Women Voters of Arlington County met yesterday at the home of the secretary, Mrs. Bertha Kelley, and completed its plans for the March meeting which will be held the evening of March 26 at the Lyon Park Community House. Dinner will be served at 6 o'clock with a business meeting to follow.

The Woman's Club of Lyon Park announces an oyster supper at the Community House Friday night from 5 to 7 o'clock. The men of the community who recently prepared and served a dinner to the ladies will act as waiters.

Following the dinner a program of entertainment, to start at 7:30 o'clock, has been arranged.

The Ballston Council, No. 221, Junior Order United American Mechanics, will meet tonight in the Ballston Firemen's Hall at 8 o'clock.

The Alexandria, Arlington and Fairfax Real Estate Board will hold a dinner meeting Friday night at the Washington Golf and County Club at 6 o'clock.

Miss Cassidy is directing the production.

NINTH VIRGINIA GOLD CUP RACE DATE SET

Annual Steeplechase Will Be Run on May 3 Over Estate Course.

ENTRY BLANK IS READY

Warrenton, Va., March 18 (A.P.).—Here in the foothills of the Blue Ridge, thousands will gather on May 3 for the running of the ninth Virginia Gold Cup.

Ten thousand stood on the hilltops last year to view the steeplechase and see Dunks Green, the favorite, owned by Mrs. Walter Salmon, flash past the finish flag first with Frank A. Bonsal, jr., riding. A dozen or more horses will probably face the starter this year.

Nine years ago plans were put on foot for the Virginia Gold Cup race, and within that short span of years it has rivaled in popularity the older and more well-known Maryland Gold Cup, considered the last word of amateur steeplechasing in the East. Its races are run each spring under the rules of the National Steeplechase Association and with its sanction.

Course Is Changed.

For the first seven years the race took place over the Broadview estates, formerly the home of the late Billy Wilbur, a well-known rider of his day, and now owned by David B. Smith, who specializes in show ring horses. This course was considered one of the best in the country from the standpoint of both rider and spectators, since practically every jump of the 4-mile course was visible from the surrounding hills.

Last year the association moved its course to the properties of Baldwin D. Spilman, who is secretary of the association.

The new course is a magnificent one over two estates. In accordance with the rules the cup, valued at $1,000, becomes the property of the first contestant winning it three times. In 1926 the first cup became the permanent possession of Mrs. Katherine Hitt, of Middleburg, who in the six years from 1921, the first year of the Gold Cup, had sent down three good jumpers, each annexing a leg on the handsome trophy.

New Cup Is Donated.

In 1927 a new cup raised by subscription among local horsemen was again the prize held up for the best leapers of the East. Howard Bruce's great Billy Barton was an easy winner over a classy field; his win was a popular one and just prior to his visit to England, where he went in quest of the great race he lost by falling at the last jump, the Grand National.

Next year Mrs. C. C. Rumsey, of Middleburg, entered Tijuca. This horse was given little consideration by the critics, but after a gruelling race came home the winner. Last year Dunks Green came in first.

Entry blanks are to be sent out soon by Baldwin Spilman, and it is expected that the usual number of entries will be received, about 18 or 20. Of these an even dozen or more usually face the starter.

Accident Victim's Body Brought to Washington

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., March 18.—Funeral services were held here today for J. Francis Horton, 63, retired lawyer, killed late Saturday night when his automobile is said to have been forced off the road near Darkesville, W. Va. The remains were then taken to Washington to be cremated, and the ashes will be interred in a cemetery at Pittsburgh, Pa.

Dr. S. L. Flickinger, of Centenary Reformed Church, officiated at the rites here. Mr. Horton's chauffeur escaped with minor hurts. James Bucher, of Winchester, whose car was alleged to have forced the Horton car off the road, was held in $1,500 bail for court.

Annapolis Sexton Dies at 89.

Annapolis, Md., March 18 (Special).—William S. H. Sands, 89, veteran waterman, but for nearly a score of years sexton of Stannes Episcopal Church, Annapolis, died at the home of his son, Charles A. Sands, at Homewood, from the infirmities of age. Three other sons and three daughters survive.

$200 to Go for Capture Of Annapolis Firebug

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., March 18.—Feeling that an incendiary is responsible for the series of fires that have imperiled Annapolis and sections of the county during the last several weeks, the Anne Arundel County Commissioners today offered a reward of $200 for information leading to his arrest. The commissioners indicate that the fires that badly damaged the Annapolis High and Grammar School Buildings a month ago were of a suspicious nature, as were others in nearby county sections.

The most recent outbreak to arouse indignation, however, was the fire of Sunday night that destroyed the church building of the Salem Southern Methodist congregation. There is every indication that the blaze was of incendiary origin, as there was no electric wiring in the structure or other agency that might contribute to a blaze and it has not been in use for two years.

DISTRICT MAN DIES FROM CAR INJURIES

Two Girls Are Badly Hurt When Auto Is Wrecked Near Gaithersburg.

POLICE START INQUIRY

One Washington man died early last night from injuries received early yesterday morning in the wreck of an automobile near Gaithersburg, Md., in which two young women companions suffered critical hurts and another man in the car escaped injury.

A fracture of the skull and internal injuries proved fatal to Austin Snoots, 56 years old, a salesman, of 5919½ Georgia avenue northwest, who died at the Montgomery County General Hospital at Sandy Spring, where the two women are being treated by Dr. Jacob W. Bird.

They are Miss Marjorie Sikkens, 20 years old, of Hyattsville, Md., who suffered possible internal injuries and lacerations which almost severed her nose from her face, and Miss Kathleen Mahoney, 22 years old, of 831 Third street northeast, who was injured internally. William Hodges, of Hyattsville, was unhurt.

The accident was said to have occurred when the automobile in which the four were returning from a dance at Brunswick, Md., blew out a tire on the Middlebrooke hill of the Frederick pike, 3 miles north of Gaithersburg, crashed down a six-foot embankment and finally hit a tree.

Mr. Snoots, driver of the machine, was given first aid by Dr. Stanley W. Barber and Dr. Frank J. Broschart, of Gaithersburg, and removed to the hospital. An investigation was started by Rockville Policemen Paul Watkins, Oscar Gaither and J. Lloyd White.

Mayor at Frostburg Will Seek Reelection

Special to The Washington Post.

Frostburg, Md., March 18.—Mayor Fred Crowe has announced his candidacy to succeed himself. Prior to his election as mayor two years ago on the Citizens' ticket, he served in the council. Mayor Crowe will be opposed by former Postmaster Ulysses Hanna, who announced his candidacy on the Republican ticket.

City Commissioners Michael Byrnes, Olin Gunnett, Clifton D. Jeffries and Gurney A. Schuckhart are expected to announce for reelection this week.

Religious Educator to Speak.

Lincoln, Va., March 18 (Special).—"Old and New Ways of Teaching Religion" will be the subject of a lecture to be given at the lower Friends' Meeting House on tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. Miss Martha Parson, who is director of religious education at the Guilford Presbyterian Church in Baltimore, will be the speaker.

Man Dies of Blood Poisoning.

Winchester, Va., March 18 (Special).—Boyd P. Newlin, 38, local business man, died today from blood poisoning following an operation for tooth infection. He was ill only a few days. Surviving are his widow, formerly Miss Margaret Mort; two sisters and two brothers.

Masons Meet to Honor McFadden and Callahan

Special to The Washington Post.

Strasburg, Va., March 18.—Four States and the District of Columbia were represented in one of the largest Masonic gatherings ever held in Strasburg when Spurmont Lodge, No. 98, was host last night to Grand Master E. T. McFadden, Winchester, and Past Grand Master Charles Callahan, of Alexandria. It was the second official visit made by Grand Master McFadden since assuming the duties of his office.

The occasion had a double significance to the members of Spurmont Lodge, who were meeting for the first time in their but recently completed lodgeroom. Addresses by Grand Master McFadden and Past Grand Master Callahan were followed by shorter talks by visiting members, including J. E. W. Timberman and George N Hardesy, district deputy grand master District No. 3. O. P. Pirkey, who for many years has served as treasurer of Spurmont Lodge, welcomed the visiting members.

ENGINEERS PROPOSE COURTHOUSE PLANS

Montgomery County Chiefs Consider Requests Made by Rich and Mays.

GRAND JURY ENDS TASK

Permission to prepare detailed plans for the proposed Rockville courthouse was asked yesterday by M. S. Rich, structural engineer, and Robert Mayo, jr., consulting mechanical engineer, at the meeting of the Montgomery County Commissioners. The proposals were referred to the courthouse plans and construction committee, of which Capt. Chester C. Wells, of Chevy Chase, is chairman. Prompt action is expected by the committee.

Mr. Rich has agreed to prepare the structural plans and specifications and to approve shop and working drawings for the courthouse for a fee of one-half of 1 per cent of the total cost of the building. Mr. Mayo would arrange for the heating, plumbing, ventilating, &c., for a fee of 2½ per cent of the cost of the mechanical equipment.

Delos H. Smith, architect in charge of courthouse construction, suggested that regular inspections be made of the construction work and that a fee of $15 be paid for each inspection.

An application for a permit to open and operate a sanitarium on the property formerly used by the "Shady Rest" Sanitarium at Silver Spring. The application was signed by Dr. Nathan A. Springer, president of the Springer Sanitarium Co., of Baltimore.

Dr. Benjamin C. Perry, president of the board of county commissioners, and Berry E. Clark, clerk, yesterday signed the $250,000 issue of certificates of indebtedness purchased by Gillet & Co., brokers, of Baltimore. The certificates will be taken to Baltimore under police guard by Mr. Clark.

The funds realized from the sale of certificates will be used to defray expenses of laying paving and sidewalks in the suburban area and will be repaid by a front foot benefit assessment.

The Montgomery grand jury probably will complete its deliberation today and it is likely that the report of the body will be presented to Judge Robert B. Peter, this afternoon. The inquisitorial body is expected to visit the county almshouse, jail and other county properties today.

Three Boys Jailed For Taking Motor

New York Youths, on Way to Florida, Arrested in Maryland.

Three youths who set out from Brooklyn several days ago in a snappy roadster on a pleasure trip to Miami resorts last night found themselves behind the walls of the Southwestern District Police Station House in Baltimore. Their trip ended suddenly when Maryland State Policeman C. C. Serman of the Laurel Substation decided they looked suspicious.

The policeman stopped them and demanded their registration card. They at first attempted to argue him out of his plans but finally broke down and admitted they had taken the car without the owner's permission, while it was parked on East Thirty-seventh street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The youths gave their names as Arthur McCarthy, 17 years old, who was driving, police say; Philip Panzey, 16, and Robert Freed, 15, all of Brooklyn. Brooklyn police have been notified of the arrest of the youths.

Loudoun W. C. T. U. Meeting Set.

Lincoln, Va., March 18 (Special).—The Loudoun County W. C. T. U. convention will be held at Lincoln Friday at 10 a. m. Features will be two contests competing for a silver medal and a gold medal. Talks for children will be given by Mrs. Henry Hoge and Howard Hoge.

Tourists Suddenly Tarred When Auto Strikes Barrel

For many years, Val Peterson and Theodore Eckert, both of East Rockaway, Long Island, have heard of the tarrings which are said to be frequent affairs in the South. Yesterday, much to their surprise and chagrin, they found themselves the principal figures in a tarring episode, but not at the hands of Southerners.

Riding along the Baltimore boulevard, near Laurel, they were enjoying the early morning sunshine and commenting on the sylvan beauties of the section. Suddenly, a thick, black cloud descended upon them and they found themselves, their car and clothes tarred in a fashion that would have excited the appreciation of a member of the old Klan.

Pieced together, between gasoline showers, their story as told to Maryland State Policeman H. H. Haines, of the Laurel Substation, was that their steering gear snapped and caused the car to leave the road. The car struck a barrel of tar, catapulting the sticky mixture into the air, and the law of gravity took care of the rest. It took ten gallons of gasoline to clean up the motorists and their car, but their clothes were a total loss.

FOUR BIDS GRANTED BY PRINCE GEORGES

FIELD MEETS PLANNED

While accepting low bids on the other four projects planned, the Prince Georges County Board of Education yesterday decided that bids on the addition to the Cheverly School were too high and directed that bids again be asked. The Charles Brooks Co., of Washington, had asked $20,490 in the lowest bid offered.

The Cheverly addition calls for two rooms and an auditorium. The contractor estimated that it would require 65 days to complete the job.

The board also permitted the Thomas Hicks & Sons, of Baltimore, to withdraw its bid of $74,185 for the erection of the Mount Rainier High School Building, and awarded the contract to the next lowest bidder, A. L. Warthen, of Washington. The Warthen bid was $81,500. The Baltimore firm told the board that an error had been found in its estimates and that the construction of the school would actually cost the firm more money than it asked.

The contract for the erection of the new Bradbury Heights Elementary School was awarded to the I. T. Taylor Co., of Washington, who were low bidders with a bid of $54,384. The Decatur Heights Junior High School contract was awarded to the A. L. Warthen Co., who bid $42,400. The contract for the eretcion of an addition to the Riverdale Elementary School was awarded to the Thomas Hicks & Sons Co., of Baltimore which bid $37,290.

Award of the contracts to the low bidders was approved by the Prince Georges County commissioners at a conference held shortly before the awards were considered by the board of education. The building committees of the projected schools and additions opened the bids Friday night at the Bladensburg School and approved the award to the lowest bidders, provided the bids were acceptable to the county commissioners.

The mayor and town council of Hyattsville have set April 14 as the date for the registration of new voters who wish to vote in the annual town elections May 5. The registration officers will sit from 9:30 o'clock in the morning until 7 o'clock at night in the council chamber of the Municipal Building. They also will sit April 21 for revision of the registration books from 2 to 7 o'clock in the afternoon.

Mrs. Bertha L. Hislop and Herbert J. Moffat were appointed registration officers, with Mrs. Anna Hart and W. P. Blake as alternates.

Rural schools of the county will hold their annual field meet May 5, and suburban schools May 26, at the University of Maryland, it was announced yesterday by Superintendent of Schools Nicholas Orem. The meets have been held at Upper Marlboro prior to this time. The colored schools will hold their meet April 22 at Upper Marlboro.

W. D. Miller Heads Circulation Group

Special to The Washington Post.

Washington, Pa., March 18.—Atlantic City was selected as the next meeting place of the Interstate Circulation Managers Association at the concluding session here this afternoon, and W. D. Miller, of The Washington Post, was chosen president.

The spring meeting was featured by a number of addresses, including one by Attorney J. R. McCreight, of this city, in which the compensation law as it affects newspapers was discussed. Bob McLean, of the Philadelphia Bulletin, dean of the organization, made a plea for the newspaper carriers and sellers.

Officers were elected during the closing sessions as follows: President, W. D. Miller, Washington Post, Washington, D. C.; first vice president, W. L. Lippincott, Press-Union, Atlantic City, N. J.; second vice president, John H. G. Kuntz, Lancaster New Era and Intelligencer Journal; secretary-treasurer, Charles K. Blosser, Dispatch, York, Pa.

Long Illness Is Fatal To Mrs. B. Barry Greene

Roanoke, Va., March 18.—Mrs. B. Barry Greene died at her home here this morning following a lingering illness. She was the daughter of the late Corbin and Nettie Burch Wilkes, of Bedford County. Besides her husband, formerly of Rockville, Md., she is survived by the following brothers and sisters: George B. Wilkes, Charlottesville; Gilmer Wilkes, Richmond; William C. Wilkes, Crescent Lake, Oreg.; Mrs. J. W. White, Victoria, and Mrs. N. Deane, of Lynchburg. Private funeral services will be held at the home at 8:30 o'clock Wednesday evening. The body will be taken to Rockville, Md., for burial at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

ACQUITTAL ORDERED OF ATTACK SUSPECT

MURDER HEARING TODAY

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Vienna, Va.
Phone Vienna 64.

The second day's session of the Fairfax County Circuit Court, with Judge Howard W. Smith presiding, was occupied yesterday by the case of Rufus Harris, colored, of Chesterbrook, indicted at the January term of court for criminal assault on an 8-year-old colored girl. About twenty witnesses were summoned by each side. At 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon Assistant Commonwealth's Attorney Hugh Marsh completed the testimony of the witnesses for the prosecution.

Judge Smith refused to allow the witnesses for the defense to testify and, turning to the jury, stated that all the evidence introduced by the Commonwealth was to be disregarded, as it did not make a case against the defendant. If they did return a verdict of guilty he would have to overrule it as being contrary to the evidence, he said. He then instructed the jury to return and return a verdict of not guilty.

The case of Michael Gaetto, alias Mike Ardezzone, of Alexandria, indicted for the murder of Raymond A. Grover on the night of November 11, 1929, will be heard by the court today. Gaetto has been at liberty under a $5,000 bond since November 22.

The report of Miss Ida H. Jones, assistant collaborating epidemiologist for Fairfax County, shows that two cases of scarlet fever in Falls Church, and one case of chicken pox, one of measels, one of whopping cough, two of lobar pneumonia, five of influenza and 26 of mumps were reported during the past week.

Mrs. M. D. Hall, president of the Fairfax County Library Association, has called a meeting of the library committees from each district and other persons interested in the formation of a free county library for tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock in the office of the Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce. Plans for a library drive in this county are expected to be made at this meeting.

More than 50 club officers and leaders attended the conference held in the Fairfax School to plan the program for the annual county 4-H Club rally that is to be held May 3 at the Fairfax County Fair Association grounds. The rally day will be held under the joint leadership of Miss Sara E. Thomas, county home demonstration agent, and Mrs. Herbert Seamons, county health nurse, and a health program in which all the five-point children in the county will participate will be given. During the previous years the program has been held on the courthouse green, but because of the large number of persons who are expected to attend this year, it was decided to hold the rally in the fair grounds where the grand stand and dining room provide better accommodations.

The morning session of the program will be in the form of a pageant staged by Miss Thomas and Miss Belle Burke, district home demonstration agent, which will illustrate the study of foods that was carried on this year by all the clubs. The committee in charge of the recreation program includes Mrs. Herbert L. Seamons, of Herndon; Mrs. William Cleveland, of Lee Jackson; Mrs. Florence James, of Fort Humphreys; Miss Mildred Logan, of McLean; Miss Virginia Carr, of Oakton; Miss Betty Brown, of Herndon, and Miss Berenice Norton, of Lee-Jackson.

A committee consisting of Miss Helen Quigg, of Clifton, chairman; Ann Stuntz, of Vienna; Vivian Hart, of Clifton; Virginia Millard and Jean Bready, of Herndon; Clarence Payne, of Baileys Cross Roads, and John Webb, of Annandale, was appointed to sell refreshments at the rally day for the benefit of the council's treasury. This fund is used to pay one-half the expenses of the winning demonstration team to the State short course at Blacksburg, Va.

The preliminary plans for Camp Kahlert show that one of the largest enrollments in the history of Fairfax County to the summer 4-H Club camps will be made this year.

Eleven of the sixteen 4-H clubs in the county were represented at the conference: Annandale, Baileys Cross Roads, Clifton, Colvin Run, Fairfax, Fort Humphreys, Herndon, Lee Jackson, Oakton, Potters Hill and Vienna. Ruth McGuire, of Herndon, was elected president. This is the third consecutive year that the presidency of the Fairfax County 4-H county council has been filled by a member of the Herndon council. Florine Carter, of Lee-Jackson, was elected vice president; Mary Norton, of Lee-Jackson, secretary-treasurer; John Webb, of Annandale, reporter; Betty Brown, of Herndon, cheer leader, and Maxine Harlowe, of Lee-Jackson, song leader.

It was decided to continue the camp newspaper and each club will send a demonstration team to compete for the honor of representing Fairfax County at the State short course.

Wilbert T. Woodson, divisional superintendent of schools of Fairfax County, has called a meeting of the school census enumerators for Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The details of the examinations will be explained to them at this time. The enumerators selected by the school board at their last meeting are: Town of Falls Church, Harry Birch; Falls Church District, T. A. Williams; Town of Herndon and Dranesville District, H. E. Hutchison; Centerville District, Ray Thompson; Mount Vernon District, John T. Haislip and Mrs. Sherman Mutersbaugh.

The Rev. Charles Warner, rector of St. Alban's Church in Washington, will be the Lenten speaker today at the services at St. Mary's Church in McLean. The Rev. Alexander Galt, of Herndon, will preach at the Lenten service today in Falls Church. The Rev. J. C. Sadtler, of McLean, will conduct the Lenten services at St. Paul's Church, in Alexandria, tonight. The Rev. Robert Allen Castelman will hold Lenten services Friday at St. John's Church in McLean.

The Confederate States Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, will hold a card party today at the home of Miss Nan Mitchell in Washington. Miss Mitchell is the daughter of Mrs. A. F. Moore, of Clifton. The regular meeting of the chapter that was to be held tomorrow has been postponed.

Most of the children of the Chesterbrook School will take part in the entertainment that has been arranged by Miss Elizabeth Sims for tonight in the school auditorium in the schoolhouse for the benefit of the school fund.

There will be a meeting of the Great Falls Grange tonight in the Grange Hall at Forestville. The program is being arranged by the Rev. J. D. Hardy. The University of Maryland will furnish a speaker on Dairying.

The school and Community League of Annandale, will meet tonight in the schoolhouse. Miss Elma Besley will be in charge of the monthly social features.

Various schools of the county are organizing their baseball teams. The Floris boys have chosen John Beard, captain; Jack Patton, manager; Russell Williams, bat boy, and Robert Stowe, score keeper.

The boys of the Franklin-Sherman high school at Mclean have elected Melvin Thompson, captain; Wilson Lanhan, manager and Norman Magarity, treasurer. Other teams have been organized temporarily until all those who expect to play are signed up.

The Mclean Parent-Teacher Association will meet this afternoon. Mrs. Louise Manghum, superintendent of public welfare in Fairfax County will be the principal speaker at this meeting. She will explain the work that has been accomplished by the public welfare board and how the Parent-Teacher Associations can cooperate with her in the work.

The Nazarene Guild, of Falls Church, will meet this morning at the home of Mrs. Samuel H. Styles in Falls Church.

Virginia Wardens Have Busy Month

1,688 Offenders Convicted and $4,931 in Fines Paid During February.

Richmond, Va., March 18 (A.P.).—In a busy month, Virginia game wardens during February made arrests which resulted in conviction of 1,688 offenders who paid $4,931 in fines. The first month of the year brought in but $1,138 in fines paid by 216 offenders.

The wardens during February inspected 46,141 licenses. A total of $7,023.76 costs was paid by the persons convicted. Convictions and fines by districts were listed as follows in the activity report made public by M. D. Hart, executive secretary to the commission of game and inland fisheries:

Arlington district, 150 convictions, $596 fines; Back Bay-Monticello, 732 convictions, $1,715 fines; Newport News, 133 convictions, $662 fines; Southside district, 101 convictions, $486 fines; total Eastern division, 1,116 convictions, $3,452 fines.

Clinch Valley district, 92 convictions, $590 fines; Bristol, 109 convictions, $384 fines; Lynchburg, 86 convictions, $372.50 fines; Lexington-Winchester, 283 convictions, $1,325.50 fines. Total Blue Ridge division, 572 convictions, $1,479 fines.

ALEXANDRIA MASONS WILL HONOR CARTER

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
312 S. Washington St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 323.

Alexandria-Washington lodge No. 22, A. F. & A. M., will tender a reception in the Masonic Temple at 8 o'clock tonight to George H. Carter, public printer; Martin R. Speelman, superintendent of binding; William W. Maloney, William G. Walde, and Paul J. Mass, all of the Government Printing Office in Washington. The reception will be in recognition of the services of these men in restoring the four Revolutionary flags, the property of the lodge, which were discovered when the building owned by Robert Bell's Sons was being renovated about three years ago.

Mr. Maloney and Mr. Walde, two of the foremost experts in the country in the restoration of rare documents and other articles of like character, will give talks in connection with some of their work.

The flags were in the Masonic Temple when the city hall building, in which the lodgeroom was located, burned in 1871. They were missed when lodge members checked up on the property that had been saved from the fire, and for 55 years were considered to have been lost. Their discovery in the attic of the Bell building, where they had laid forgotten for so long, was virtually an accident.

Of the four flags, the most famous and valuable is the Washington Life Guard flag, which was carried throughout the Revolutionary War by Washington's bodyguard. This bears the legend, "Conquer or Die." The bodyguard of Gen. Washington was composed of the headquarters battalion, commanded by Col. George Lewis and Capt. May Webb.

Another of the flags which is of particular interest and value to Alexandrians is that of the Alexandria Light Infantry Blues, which was used at Washington's funeral. This was Alexandria's own unit, and was commanded by Col. George Deneale.

Another flag, which bears the legend, "Lafayette Flag," is exceedingly large, though but little is known of it. It has a blue background, with 24 white stars.

The fourth of the collection is that of Morgan's Riflemen, known officially as Alexandria Company No. 2.

The flag of the Washington Life Guards has been framed and is now on exhibition in the lodgeroom. The others have not as yet been placed on display.

Work on the Mount Vernon Memorial boulevard will be started in earnest at 10 o'clock this morning, when ground will be broken at the Mount Vernon terminus by two steam shovels. The contract for grading and drainage of the highway is held by Vincent Schiavi, of Buffalo, N. Y., and yesterday morning a large force of men were engaged in unloading machinery from cars at Duke and Henry streets, several carloads of equipment having been received. The office of the contractor has been established at the Armstrong Lumber Co.'s plant at Madison and Fayette streets, and a large shed and storage yard will be provided for the machinery on the block bounded by Madison, Payne, Montgomery and Fayette streets. H. Yates will be in immediate charge of the work.

All the top soil removed in grading the route of the highway is being carefully stored away and will be used in the work of beautifying the boulevard. The trees taken up are being placed in a place at Mount Vernon known as Hall's Hole, so named by Washington, and will be transplanted after the completion of the grading. The privet hedge removed from its original place is also being carefully transplanted so that it may again be used.

The report of J. Randall Caton, jr., special commissioner, showing the real estate holdings of the Bank of Del Ray and its value was filed yesterday in the Corporation Court, and will be sent to Judge J. R. H. Alexander for his approval, together with a decree authorizing Courtland H. Davis, receiver of the bank, to issue dividend checks to the depositors. Attorney Davis stated yesterday that he has cash in hand sufficient to pay between 30 and 40 per cent of the total deposits and will probably pay out 33 1-3 per cent. The remainder will be paid as soon as the notes and real estate holdings of the bank can be reduced to cash.

A jury in the corporation court, Judge William P. Woolls presiding, yesterday found James Lucas, alias Joker Harris, colored, guilty of violating the prohibition law and fined him $100 and costs and also gave a sentence of 90 days in jail.

Dale Parrott, who was convicted in police court of assault on Police Sergt. Everly, was fined $25 and costs. He pleaded guilty before Judge Woolls, without recourse to a jury.

Col. Clarence Deems in charge of military instruction in the local high schools, addressed the Rotary Club yesterday on the advantages of military training in the schools, and spoke particularly of the cooperation of Henry T. Moncure, principal, Col. Deems stated that national local defense will be needed as long as cities are required to have police for protection.

Dr. S. Nelson Gray, president of the club, presided, and the club singing was led by Lawrence Roland. The club will observe father and son day on April 8, with Francis H. Fannon as chairman for the program.

Sealed bids for the temporary quarters of the Alexandria postoffice, while the new building is in course of construction, will be opened at the local postoffice on April 7, at 2 p. m., according to an announcement made yesterday by Postmaster F. Clinton Knight.

John W. Doherty Dies At Home in Maryland

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., March 18.—John W. Doherty, 48, United States deputy marshal, died at his home, Braddock Farms, last night after a lingering illness. Mr. Doherty, who was born at Colerain, Ireland, came to Cumberland in 1900. He conducted the Queen City Hotel Barber Shop for some years and later engaged in the restaurant business. He was employed by the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad during the World War in the commissary department.

He was active in Republican politics, and was a member of the Moose, Knights of Pythias and Eagles. He is survived by his widow, who was Selma P. Booth, of Washington, D. C., and five brothers in Ireland.
